Acted Upon by the Legislature.

SHARP DEBATE IN THE HOUSE

Representative Buell Angry Over
Changes Made in Committee in the Metzger Road Bill—State Capital
Gossip.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, February 20.—State Treasurer I. B. Cameron will ask that a committee be appointed to make an investigation of the manner in which his department has been conducted. He is satisfied that if any investigation is made it will show that the business of the office has been transacted in a perfectly regular way.

The Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday advanced the reason that the Sharp resolution calling for an investigation of the office of the state treasury was inspired by a desire to get even with Mr. Cameron for the leading part he took in the organization of the present legislature. The Kurtzites, whom Mr. Cameron opposed in this fight, the Enquirer hints strongly, were hand in glove with those who were instrumental in securing the introduction of the resolution. Other reasons revealing the animus of the resolution could be mentioned, but as the resolution has failed dismally they need not be gone into now.

Representative Buell is mad. The revision committee of the house corralled the Metzger bill providing for the appointment of road commissioners in Stark and Columbiana counties and when it emerged from its hands the measure bore a striking resemblance to 30 cents. Mr. Buell was asked what the committee did to the bill and he replied that what they did was a plenty. It was necessary for him to get an introduction to the measure when he saw it. The representatives of the two counties will not stand for the liberties the revision committee took with the bill and they will ask that it be recommitted to them again. They will try to make it look like its original self and then will work hard for its passage without change.

The legislature passed some very important measures yesterday. The senate passed the Archer resolution making an appropriation for the St. Louis exposition in 1903. It originally provided for an appropriation of $200,000, which was reduced to $100,000, and which was amended by the senate to $75,000. It provides for the appointment of a commission consisting of six Republicans and four Democrats who are to carry out the purpose of the measure. Senator Connell led the fight against the passage of the resolution in the form in which it was submitted. He wanted the appropriation cut down and offered an amendment appropriating the sum of $50,000 instead of $100,000. The resolution provides for the erection of a suitable building in which to display the exhibits of this state.

There was a sharp debate in the house yesterday afternoon over the passage of the Pollock bill amending the stationary engineer's law. After the third reading of the bill, Mr. Pollock offered an amendment placing the minimum horsepower at 30 except in municipalities where licenses to be required for all classes of engines. An attempt to make this section only apply to cities was voted down. Mr. Kiddlewart, of Marietta, submitted an amendment requiring all persons operating engines of 30 horse power or over to take out a license, which was adopted. This change made votes for the measure and it passed, only four negative votes being recorded against it. The measure authorizes the appointment of two additional deputy examiners and increases the salary of the chief clerk of the inspector to $1,000.

The house passed the Arthur bill prohibiting members and clerks of election boards from being candidates at any election for which they might serve. The senate passed several important bills Wednesday. The Royer resolution providing for a constitutional amendment doing away with the double liability of holders of stock in Ohio corporations was passed unanimously. Senator Harding's bill to create a commission to investigate and report on the advisability of establishing hospitals for consumptives was passed with but one dissenting vote.

Miss Gertrude Baker, of Mt. Vernon, recently appointed librarian of the East Liverpool Carnegie library, has many friends at the state capital. She is a granddaughter of General G. A. Jones, who was an early settler of Mt. Vernon, and at one time was president of the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus Railroad company. He is also a brother of Frank Jones, of the well known firm of Jones & Laughlins, Pittsburg.

LARGER CAPITAL

STOCK OF GAS APPARATUS COMPANY INCREASED TO $50,000.

Decision Reached to Complete the Plant at Chester—Encouraging
Reports.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Gas Apparatus and Construction company was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Potters' club on Fifth street for the purpose of increasing the capital stock of the incorporation. About 50 persons were present, representing in the neighborhood of 1,000 shares of stock. A report of the auditing committee was made, showing the company to be in good condition financially. The construction engineer, Mr. Brown, made a report to the effect that the plant at Chester could be completed for the final test with the expenditure of not more than $600. He was ordered to complete the plant.

The real purpose of the session, to increase the capital stock of the corporation, met with no opposition whatever. The only provision made was that the old stockholders would be given the first chance of subscribing to the new allotment.

The stock will be increased from 1,400 shares of the par value of $25 each to 2,000 shares of the par value of $25 each, so that the authorized capital stock shall be $50,000 instead of $35,000, as heretofore.

VEIN OF PIG METAL

Astounding Discovery at Round Knob
Made By a Gullible
Reporter.

The report printed last evening in a local paper that a vein of pig metal had been discovered at Round Knob was the most absurd and ridiculous "hot air" story that has been sprung by that organ for some time. It is the laughing stock of the town. Of course, there was no foundation for the tale, and it was the wonder of everybody that read it how such a preposterous pipe dream ever found its way into print.

This is easily explained. It all came about through a conversation between Sanitary Officer Burgess and a News Review reporter, concerning the "new discovery," which was overheard by the gullible scribe who wrote the story without attempting to corroborate it, not knowing he was being made the victim of a premeditated "goose pasturing" game.

His article caused quite as much amusement as that of a new man on the pottery route, who, reading in the News Review of a reported pottery combine in Trenton, forthwith proceeded to construct a column in the effort to put the Union Potteries company into the combine, without its knowledge or consent.

OUT OF PRISON

Sidney Burrows Free After Serving a Term for Cutting.

Sidney Burrows, of East Liverpool, has been discharged from the penitentiary. He served a term of one year for cutting with intent to wound.

Walters' Term Finished.
Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—"Toughy" Walters, of East Liverpool, has been released from jail after spending 10 days there for violation of the liquor laws.

REAR ADMIRAL SAMPSON OUT OF THE NAVY.

Rear Admiral William T. Sampson, who was recently retired from the navy, is a mental and physical wreck, owing to his arduous duties during the Spanish-American war.

MARK O. LODGE BADLY WOUNDED

Accidentally Shot Himself While Carrying a Gun Down Stairs.

MANY SHOTS EXTRACTED

Others Are Still Lodged in the Body
And Likely to Cause Serious Complications—His Physicians Express Hope of Recovery.

Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—Ex-Sheriff Mark O. Lodge, at his farm near Franklin Square yesterday afternoon, was dangerously wounded by the accidental discharge of a shot gun which he was carrying down stairs.

Mr. Lodge held a shovel in one hand and the gun in the other. Just how the gun happened to be discharged is not clear. The charge entered his side and it was at first thought that it went inward and upward through the bowels. The wound was reported fatal. However, Dr. Tom B. Marquis, who attended him, said last night that there was much reason to believe that a large number of shot had torn along the side and had left the body after passing through the flesh.

Thirty-six shots were removed, the doctor said, and there is now hope that Mr. Lodge will recover.

The greatest danger to Mr. Lodge is peritonitis from the shots that entered the viscera.

TEN AT THE ALTAR

Nine of Whom Professed Conversion at the M. E.
Services.

The First M. E. meetings still progress with great interest. There were 10 persons at the altar last night, nine of whom professed conversion.

Prof. and Mrs. Phillips sang beautifully and Dr. Crawford preached a good sermon, taking as his text "The Touch of Faith." There will be services tonight.

THROWN FROM A BUGGY

Dr. Covert, of New Castle, Perhaps Fatally Hurt in a Runaway Accident.

Dr. J. W. Covert, of New Castle, was perhaps fatally injured yesterday by being thrown from a buggy in a runaway accident and his head striking a telegraph pole.

He married Miss Jennie Sloan, of this city, and is a prominent New Castle physician.

Will Remove to Salem.

Robert Curtis, who for some time has been employed at the Edmonston photograph gallery in this city, will go into business for himself on March 1, having rented a gallery at Salem, his former home city. Mr. Curtis has gained great popularity in East Liverpool and has numberless friends here who, though regretting his departure, wish him success in his new undertaking.

SCORED LOCAL CORPORATIONS

visions of Franchises

TRADES COUNCIL CONCURS

The Move Is to Be Made a General
One, and Will Pledge Working
Members to Support Only Candidates Who Will Comply.

One of the best evidences of the fact that the laboring classes of this community are alive to the necessity and importance of a central labor body is found in the very small number of changes now taking place in the representation in that organization from the various local unions.

At the meeting of Trades Council last night but two new delegates were seated. When it is considered that not long ago from five to 15 new members were received at each session it is at once apparent that the interest is more intense than ever before.

C. M. Walker, from carpenters' union No. 328, and Albert A. Taylor, from gilders' local No. 19, were seated and the business was proceeded with.

It was found necessary owing to the large number of communications to be read to appoint a reading clerk and U. G. King was selected. An acknowledgement was received from M. Bernard, secretary of the cigarmakers of Montreal, Canada, thanking the council for a recent donation.

A communication from City Clerk J. N. Hanley informed the organization that the market house proposition, recently laid before the city council, had been taken up at the last meeting. It also stated that a committee from council had been appointed to act with Trades Council in the matter. The communication was referred to the organization committee.

The machinists of the Southern railway, with headquarters at Knoxville, Tenn., who are on strike, forwarded a package of souvenir coupons, which they are selling at 25 cents each for the benefit of the strikers. There were 15 in the pack and the council purchased the entire lot.

The matter of affiliating with the Ohio Federation was up in the form of a communication from Secretary Goldsmith, of Cleveland, who gave additional information with reference to the working of the organization, and the probable cost to the local body per year. The question was laid over until the order of new business was reached, at which time it was decided to affiliate. An order was drawn for the amount of the per capita tax.

The bartenders' league of Ohio, with headquarters at Cleveland, asked the council to aid in the opposition to the passage of the Beal local option bill now pending in the state legislature. The communication was tabled.

A very important communication was read from the Central Labor union of Cleveland, asking an endorsement of an act now before the Ohio legislature providing for municipal ownership of street railways, electric light and water works, for towns desiring it. Steps will be taken to acquaint the representatives from this county with the wishes of the council in favor of the measure.

Headquarters officers of the National Machinists' union inquired through a communication dated at Washington, D. C., as to what progress had been made toward a branch of that trade in this city. The letter stated a large amount of literature outlining the advantages of such an organization had been sent to this city, but so far as they were able to learn nothing had been done in the matter. The communication was received.

On May 5, of this year, the present Chinese exclusion law will be inoperative, and the American Federation of Labor had forwarded a resolution to be filled out and sent to congressmen and senators, requesting the re-enactment of the law. A motion was

CORCED WITH ICE

A BRIDGE FORMED ACROSS THE RIVER AT WALKER.

People Will Soon Be Able to Cross
the Ohio on the Ice.

An ice bridge formed at this city early this morning, and before evening the river may be bridged the entire length of the city. At Walker there is a gorge about six feet in height and this was formed during the night. The ice is rather thin, but if the cold weather continues it will not be long until one will be able to cross the river on the ice.

There is a large gorge at Cables Eddy, one mile above Steubenville. This has helped to close the river here. All river craft moored about this city is safe, and no particular damage to this is anticipated by rivermen.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Husband Entered the Plea That His Wife Had Been Unfaithful.

Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—Judge Ambler yesterday granted a divorce to Ambrose Skellam, of East Liverpool, from Mary E. Skellam. The couple were married in England in 1891. Skellam accused his wife of unfaithfulness and mentioned the name of William Clay in his petition.

A great deal of proof was not demanded, as the records of the court showed that Mrs. William Clay had been divorced from her husband because of his intimacy with Mrs. Skellam. Skellam is granted the custody of a minor child aged 8.

SURPRISE PARTY

Given Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Van Fossen on Their Tenth Wedding Anniversary.

After the prayermeeting services at the McKinley avenue Union chapel had been concluded last evening about 25 members of the congregation assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ashbaugh and proceeded to the residence of W. C. Van Fossen. The affair was a complete surprise and the members of the family were at a loss to understand the invasion until reminded that it was the tenth anniversary of their marriage. The party was none the less enjoyable because of the lack of preparation for the reception of the guests.

A sumptuous supper was served and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

A Joke Causes Trouble.

Frank Dickey has been having trouble he didn't bargain for when he jokingly took his hostler's watch a few days ago. Mayor Davidson saw a chance for some fun and started the report that Dickey stole the watch. Many persons not aware of these gentlemen's aptitude at joking, have been asking him to explain. Suburb.

SCORES OF THEFTS REPORTED

Law Offers No Relief And a Vigilance Committee Is About to Be Formed.
Hoboes Not Alarmed By Threats.
Women Terrorized.

Incensed to an unbearable point by the flagrant outrages committed by a bold and depraved gang of tramps, the residents of the quiet suburb of Walker are about to organize a vigilance committee and take the law in their own hands in a determined stand to force the brazen hoboes to seek other quarters.

This action has been decided on because of the inability of those who have been tormented by the vagrants to get relief by the aid of the law. Different appeals have been made to the magistrates, but owing to trivial technicalities which have rendered prosecution uncertain, the matter has been allowed to pass up from time to time, while the tramps in the meantime have been growing bolder daily.

The school house at Walker was broken into one night about two weeks ago, at which time the authorities both in this city and Wells-ville were asked to take action. Owing, however, to the refusal of the interested parties to file affidavits, no notice was given the matter. This could not be done because the names of the culprits were not known.

Nothing was done with them further than to threaten the use of shot guns if they again broke into the school house. Since that time they have been sleeping by a fire on the river bank below the brick plant, but the severe weather evidently having driven them to desperation, the gang again broke into the school house last night and slept there.

One of the directors of the school reported the case to Justice McLane. He also stated that the tramps had been stealing coal from the school for several weeks, and claimed that 70 more bushels had been bought already this winter than during the whole of the last school year. It was also claimed by the director that while the Walker school had an enrollment of more than 100 pupils, there were not 20 in attendance at the present time. He said the children were afraid to go to school because of the tramps and also stated that the room was left by the wretches in such a filthy condition that it was unfit for occupancy.

Women are becoming so alarmed they are afraid to venture out after dark, and because of this fact, together with the great amount of thieving that has been going on, it has been determined by a number of men in the neighborhood to arm themselves and drive the lazy hoboes out of the community.

This fact was made known today to Justice McLane by two men who are known to mean what they say, and who propose to lead the vigilance committee.

GETS $3,000 FOR INJURY

Representative Buell Angry Over Changes Made in Committee in the Metzger Road Bill—State Capital Gossip.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, February 20. — State Treasurer I. B. Cameron will ask that a committee be appointed to make an investigation of the manner in which his department has been conducted. He is satisfied that if any investigation is made it will show that the business of the office has been transacted in a perfectly regular way.

Law Offers No Relief And a Vigilance Committee Is About to Be Formed. Hoboes Not Alarmed By Threats. Women Terrorized.

Incensed to an unbearable point by the flagrant outrages committed by a bold and depraved gang of tramps, the residents of the quiet suburb of Walker are about to organize a vigilance committee and take the law in their own hands in a determined stand to force the brazen hoboes to seek other quarters.

This action has been decided on because of the inability of those who have been tormented by the vagrants to get relief by the aid of the law. Different appeals have been made to the magistrates, but owing to trivial technicalities which have rendered prosecution uncertain, the matter has been allowed to pass up from time to time, while the tramps in the meantime have been growing bolder daily.

The school house at Walker was broken into one night about two weeks ago, at which time the authorities both in this city and Wells-ville were asked to take action. Owing, however, to the refusal of the interested parties to file affidavits, no notice was given the matter. This could not be done because the names of the culprits were not known.

Nothing was done with them further than to threaten the use of shot guns if they again broke into the school house. Since that time they have been sleeping by a fire on the river bank below the brick plant, but the severe weather evidently having driven them to desperation, the gang again broke into the school house last night and slept there.

One of the directors of the school reported the case to Justice McLane. He also stated that the tramps had been stealing coal from the school for several weeks, and claimed that 70 more bushels had been bought already this winter than during the whole of the last school year. It was also claimed by the director that while the Walker school had an enrollment of more than 100 pupils, there were not 20 in attendance at the present time. He said the children were afraid to go to school because of the tramps and also stated that the room was left by the wretches in such a filthy condition that it was unfit for occupancy.

Women are becoming so alarmed they are afraid to venture out after dark, and because of this fact, together with the great amount of thieving that has been going on, it has been determined by a number of men in the neighborhood to arm themselves and drive the lazy hoboes out of the community.

This fact was made known today to Justice McLane by two men who are known to mean what they say, and who propose to lead the vigilance committee.

INVESTIGATION DEMANDED BY TREASURER CAMERON

He Does Not Propose to Rest

THE ANIMUS OF THE MATTER

A Number of Important Bills Acted Upon by the

SHARP DEBATE IN THE HOUSE

Representative Buell Angry Over
Changes Made in Committee in the
Metzger Road Bill—State Capital
Gossip.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, February 20.—State Treasurer I. B. Cameron will ask that a committee be appointed to make an investigation of the manner in which his department has been conducted. He is satisfied that if any investigation is made it will show that the business of the office has been transacted in a perfectly regular way.

The Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday advanced the reason that the Sharp resolution calling for an investigation of the office of the state treasury was inspired by a desire to get even with Mr. Cameron for the leading part he took in the organization of the present legislature. The Kurtzites, whom Mr. Cameron opposed in this fight, the Enquirer hints strongly, were hand in glove with those who were instrumental in securing the introduction of the resolution. Other reasons revealing the animus of the resolution could be mentioned, but as the resolution has failed dismally they need not be gone into now.

Representative Buell is mad. The revision committee of the house corralled the Metzger bill providing for the appointment of road commissioners in Stark and Columbiana counties and when it emerged from its hands the measure bore a striking resemblance to 30 cents. Mr. Buell was asked what the committee did to the bill and he replied that what they did was a plenty. It was necessary for him to get an introduction to the measure when he saw it. The representatives of the two counties will not stand for the liberties the revision committee took with the bill and they will ask that it be recommitted to them again. They will try to make it look like its original self and then will work hard for its passage without change.

The legislature passed some very important measures yesterday. The senate passed the Archer resolution making an appropriation for the St. Louis exposition in 1903. It originally provided for an appropriation of $200,000, which was reduced to $100,000, and which was amended by the senate to $75,000. It provides for the appointment of a commission consisting of six Republicans and four Democrats who are to carry out the purpose of the measure. Senator Connell led the fight against the passage of the resolution in the form in which it was submitted. He wanted the appropriation cut down and offered an amendment appropriating the sum of $50,000 instead of $100,000. The resolution provides for the erection of a suitable building in which to display the exhibits of this state.

There was a sharp debate in the house yesterday afternoon over the passage of the Pollock bill amending the stationary engineer's law. After the third reading of the bill, Mr. Pollock offered an amendment placing the minimum horsepower at 30 except in municipalities where licenses to be required for all classes of engines. An attempt to make this section only apply to cities was voted down. Mr. Kiddeswart, of Marietta, submitted an amendment requiring all persons operating engines of 30 horse power or over to take out a license, which was adopted. This change made votes for the measure and it passed, only four negative votes being recorded against it. The measure authorizes the appointment of two additional deputy examiners and increases the salary of the chief clerk of the inspector to $1,000.

The house passed the Arthur bill prohibiting members and clerks of election boards from being candidates at any election for which they might serve. The senate passed several important bills Wednesday. The Royer resolution providing for a constitutional amendment doing away with the double liability of holders of stock in Ohio corporations was passed unanimously. Senator Harding's bill to create a commission to investigate and report on the advisability of establishing hospitals for consumptives was passed with but one dissenting vote.

Miss Gertrude Baker, of Mt. Vernon, recently appointed librarian of the East Liverpool Carnegie library, has many friends at the state capital. She is a granddaughter of General G. A. Jones, who was an early settler of Mr. Vernon, and at one time was president of the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus Railroad company. He is also a brother of Frank Jones, of the well known firm of Jones & Laughlins, Pittsburgh.

LARGER CAPITAL

STOCK OF GAS APPARATUS COMPANY INCREASED TO $50,000.

Decision Reached to Complete the
Reports.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Gas Apparatus and Construction company was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Potters' club on Fifth street for the purpose of increasing the capital stock of the corporation. About 50 persons were present, representing in the neighborhood of 1,000 shares of stock. A report of the auditing committee was made, showing the company to be in good condition financially. The construction engineer, Mr. Brown, made a report to the effect that the plant at Chester could be completed for the final test with the expenditure of not more than $600. He was ordered to complete the plant.

The real purpose of the session, to increase the capital stock of the corporation, met with no opposition whatever. The only provision made was that the old stockholders would be given the first chance of subscribing to the new allotment.

The stock will be increased from 1,400 shares of the par value of $25 each to 2,000 shares of the par value of $25 each, so that the authorized capital stock shall be $50,000 instead of $35,000, as heretofore.

VEIN OF PIG METAL

REPORTER.

The report printed last evening in a local paper that a vein of pig metal had been discovered at Round Knob was the most absurd and ridiculous "hot air" story that has been sprung by that organ for some time. It is the laughing stock of the town. Of course, there was no foundation for the tale, and it was the wonder of everybody that read it how such a preposterous pipe dream ever found its way into print.

This is easily explained. It all came about through a conversation between Sanitary Officer Burgess and a News Review reporter, concerning the "new discovery," which was overheard by the gullible scribe who wrote the story without attempting to corroborate it, not knowing he was being made the victim of a premeditated "goose pasturing" game.

His article caused quite as much amusement as that of a new man on the pottery route, who, reading in the News Review of a reported pottery combine in Trenton, forthwith proceeded to construct a column in the effort to put the Union Potteries company into the combine, without its knowledge or consent.

Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—Ex-Sheriff Mark O. Lodge, at his farm near Franklin Square yesterday afternoon, was dangerously wounded by the accidental discharge of a shot gun which he was carrying down stairs.

Mr. Lodge held a shovel in one hand and the gun in the other. Just how the gun happened to be discharged is not clear. The charge entered his side and it was at first thought that it went inward and upward through the bowels. The wound was reported fatal. However, Dr. Tom B. Marquis, who attended him, said last night that there was much reason to believe that a large number of shot had torn along the side and had left the body after passing through the flesh.

Thirty-six shots were removed, the doctor said, and there is now hope that Mr. Lodge will recover.

The greatest danger to Mr. Lodge is peritonitis from the shots that entered the viscera.

TRADES COUNCIL CONCURS

The Move Is to Be Made a General
One, and Will Pledge Working
dates Who Will Comply.

One of the best evidences of the fact that the laboring classes of this community are alive to the necessity and importance of a central labor body is found in the very small number of changes now taking place in the representation in that organization from the various local unions.

At the meeting of Trades Council last night but two new delegates were seated. When it is considered that not long ago from five to 15 new members were received at each session it is at once apparent that the interest is more intense than ever before.

C. M. Walker, from carpenters' union No. 328, and Albert A. Taylor, from gliders' local No. 19, were seated and the business was proceeded with.

It was found necessary owing to the large number of communications to be read to appoint a reading clerk and U. G. King was selected. An acknowledgment was received from M. Bernard, secretary of the cigarmakers of Montreal, Canada, thanking the council for a recent donation.

A communication from City Clerk J. N. Hanley informed the organization that the market house proposition, recently laid before the city council, had been taken up at the last meeting. It also stated that a committee from council had been appointed to act with Trades Council in the matter. The communication was referred to the organization committee.

The machinists of the Southern railway, with headquarters at Knoxville, Tenn., who are on strike, forwarded a package of souvenir coupons, which they are selling at 25 cents each for the benefit of the strikers. There were 15 in the pack and the council purchased the entire lot.

The matter of affiliating with the Ohio Federation was up in the form of a communication from Secretary Goldsmith, of Cleveland, who gave additional information with reference to the working of the organization, and the probable cost to the local body per year. The question was laid over until the order of new business was reached, at which time it was decided to affiliate. An order was drawn for the amount of the per capita tax.

The bartenders' league of Ohio, with headquarters at Cleveland, asked the council to aid in the opposition to the passage of the Real local option bill now pending in the state legislature. The communication was tabled.

A very important communication was read from the Central Labor union of Cleveland, asking an endorsement of an act now before the Ohio legislature providing for municipal ownership of street railways, electric light and water works, for towns desiring it. Steps will be taken to acquaint the representatives from this county with the wishes of the council in favor of the measure.

Headquarters officers of the National Machinists' union inquired through a communication dated at Washington, D. C., as to what progress had been made toward a branch of that trade in this city. The letter stated a large amount of literature outlining the advantages of such an organization had been sent to this city, but so far as they were able to learn nothing had been done in the matter. The communication was received.

On May 5, of this year, the present Chinese exclusion law will be inoperative, and the American Federation of Labor had forwarded a resolution to be filled out and sent to congressmen and senators, requesting the reenactment of the law. A motion was

RIVER AT WALKER.

People Will Soon Be Able to Cross
the Ohio on the

An ice bridge formed at this city early this morning, and before evening the river may be bridged the entire length of the city. At Walker there is a gorge about six feet in height and this was formed during the night. The ice is rather thin, but if the cold weather continues it will not be long until one will be able to cross the river on the ice.

There is a large gorge at Cables Eddy, one mile above Steubenville. This has helped to close the river here. All river craft moored about this city is safe, and no particular damage to this is anticipated by rivermen.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Wife Had Been Un-

Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—Judge Ambler yesterday granted a divorce to Ambrose Skellam, of East Liverpool, from Mary E. Skellam. The couple were married in England in 1891. Skellam accused his wife of unfaithfulness and mentioned the name of William Clay in his petition.

A great deal of proof was not demanded, as the records of the court showed that Mrs. William Clay had been divorced from her husband because of his intimacy with Mrs. Skellam. Skellam is granted the custody of a minor child aged 8.

SURPRISE PARTY

Anniversary.

After the prayermeeting services at the McKinley avenue Union chapel had been concluded last evening about 25 members of the congregation assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ashbaugh and proceeded to the residence of W. C. Van Fossen.

The affair was a complete surprise and the members of the family were at a loss to understand the invasion until reminded that it was the tenth anniversary of their marriage. The party was none the less enjoyable because of the lack of preparation for the reception of the guests.

A sumptuous supper was served and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

The watch was kept until the owner became thoroughly worried, when it was returned to him. Patrolman Woods also had a hand in the job.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

To Be Made at the East End Brick Plant of Gamble & Surles.

More extensive improvements are to be made at the East End brick plant operated by Gamble & Surles, and with the opening of warm weather this firm will be making more brick than ever before. Recently it was found that the brick machine in use was too small to meet the demands, and an order was immediately placed for a much larger one with a capacity of 25,000 brick per day. This machine is expected to arrive from the factory at Keokuk, Ia., very soon.

PROFITABLE MEETINGS

Revival Services at the Erie Street Church Continue Successful.

The revival meetings at the Erie street M. E. church continue to be well attended and at the services last evening a large congregation was present. Several conversions were reported. A feature of this service was the singing, the new hymn books recently purchased by the board of trustees being used at each service. These meetings will continue for several weeks, or as long as the interest holds.

AN OPTION SECURED

By an East End Man on the Warren Pottery, Which May Be Purchased.

A prominent business man of the East End yesterday secured an option on the Warren pottery. When asked this morning what was the purpose of the option, an answer was declined. It is likely that several East End men will purchase this plant and place it in operation.

Stoneware is made at this factory.

Special Services Tonight.

The Second Presbyterian church was well filled last night and the congregation treated to a splendid sermon by Rev. S. L. Boston on the subject, "The Door Is Shut." Prof. A. A. Laughlin sang several solos, which were very pleasing. Three members were taken into the church. A special service will be held this evening, when Rev. Mr. Boston will preach. By request Prof. Laughlin will sing "The Holy City."

Will Erect a Fine House.

John Schmelenbach, a well known contractor in the East End, has closed the deal for 1.55 acres of land on the new boulevard. It is his intention to erect a fine residence on this property, work upon which will begin in the spring. It has been proposed by Mr. Schmelenbach to plant a large number of trees about the new residence, and for this work a landscape gardener will be secured.

Back to the Farm.

J. A. Neel, who has been spending several years at Los Angeles, has returned to his home, and this spring will assume the management of his large farm at Neel's station, on the C. & P. road. This farm had been leased for five years by the Mahons, and the lease is about to expire. This farm is planted in fruit trees, and is said to be one of the best orchard farms in this section.

Ready for Business in April.

The success of the new East End Federal Building & Loan association is assured. During the last few days some large stock subscriptions have been obtained and within a few days an application for a charter will be forwarded to Columbus. It is proposed to open the office for business not later than April 1.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Mrs. Duncan, of Sebring, is ill at the home of Mrs. Dr. Davis, of St. George street.

M. J. Kerr returned to the East End yesterday from Shippingport, where he spent several days.

Two children of Mr. Ed McMillen,

of the East End, who have been seriously ill of croup, are convalescent.

Robert Harker, of Calhoun's addition, who had his ears partially frozen several days ago, is greatly improved.

Samuel Thomas, of Sebring, who has been in the East End for several days, during which time he attended the funeral of his wife, has returned to Sebring.

ARCHER GAME BILL

A SUMMARY OF ITS IMPORTANT PROVISIONS.

Great Care Shown in Its Construction, Pleases Farmers And Sportsmen.

The Archer game bill which was passed in the senate at Columbus Tuesday is clear in its provisions and an effort has been made to please both the farmer and sportsman.

A brief summary of the most important provisions of the bill is given herewith:

Doves, killdeer, swallows, blue birds, meadow larks, gulls and buzzards and the nests and young of all song and insectivorous birds are included among those which are fully protected at all seasons.

The open seasons for game are as follows:

Quail and wild turkey, Nov. 10 to Dec. 15; woodcock or squirrel, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15; rabbits (by gun), Nov. 10 to Dec. 15; rail, plover or snipe, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15, and March 15 to May 1; ducks, geese, swans, coots or mud hens, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15 and March 15 to May 1.

It will be noticed that provision is made for two seasons for duck shooting.

The amount of game which one hunter may bag in one day is limited as follows: Quail, woodcock, geese, plover or snipe, 18; duck, 25; squirrel, 10; pheasant, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, Mongolian pheasants and English pheasants are protected until Nov. 10, 1904.

The bill makes it unlawful to buy, sell, expose for sale, offer for sale or have in one's possession any game birds or animals except rabbits during the closed seasons or to kill them for sale or shipment.

No person must hunt upon another's property without written permission of the owner, agent or tenant thereof, under penalty of fine. Wardens are given the right to inspect any receptacle containing game believed to have been killed in violation of law.

No set lines of any sort must be used in catching fish. Bluegills and common sun fish are protected from May 15 to July 1. There must be no fishing through the ice in the waters of the state, and black bass caught in the state's waters must not be offered for sale.

After May 1, 1902, no person must hunt on another's property without a hunter's license, issued by the clerk of the courts. The fee for residents of Ohio is $1, and for non-residents $25. The money realized from this source is to be turned into the state treasury, to be used in paying the salaries and expenses of district wardens.

ESCAPED TOO EASILY

Brute Who Tried to Burn His Mother Got a Workhouse Sentence.

Youngstown, February 20.—James Carney, aged 22 years, on the refusal of his aged mother to supply him with money for liquor, assaulted her, and then set fire to her residence in an attempt to cremate her. The was extinguished.

Carney was arrested and yesterday he was sent to the workhouse for three months and fined $100 and costs. After serving his time he will be arrested on the charge of arson.

ELECTROCHEMICAL THEORY

Of Professors Loeb and Mathews. The Latter Known in East Liverpool.

The electrochemical theory of nervous action, due to Professors Loeb and Matthews of Chicago, continues to excite attention, but it apparently meets with more favor among physiologists than with electricians. Says the Electrical World and Engineer:

"Any physiological theory involving the ionic theory of electricity is a theory of the second degree, since the ionic is itself only a working hypothesis that has not yet been received as a matter of demonstration beyond the pale of doubt. Moreover, from the outline given of Dr. Mathews' theory that the ionic theory might fall without necessarily implicating the essentials of the nerve action theory here considered, so that in a certain sense it would seem that the new theory does not necessarily penetrate into the definite sense contemplated by the modern ionic theory. Almost any of the more recent theories of the electrochemical action would, perhaps, answer the purpose of the new hypothesis equally well. It is only reasonable to expect that in time physiologists will discover the fundamental laws—perhaps very simple in character, but no doubt very complex in superposition—which underlie nerve action, and the objective side of consciousness. There can be no doubt that electricity takes a share in this action, because all the phenomena of life are phenomena of differential liquids separated by thin septa, and it would be practically impossible to assemble such mechanism without originating electric and electrochemical actions."

The above has also some local interest, from the fact that Professor Albert P. Mathews, his wife and daughter, spent several days in East Liverpool last August, at the residence of Mr. N. G. Macrum, who is an uncle of Mrs. Mathews. Professor Mathews was then on his way to take the chair of physiological chemistry in the Chicago university. The February Century announces an article from the pen of Doctor Mathews on his discovery. The doctor is a young man of about 33 and has been professor of biology in Harvard for some years.

PAIN SHORT CIRCUITED

An Akron Man Uses Electricity to Make Dental Operations Painless.

Akron, February 20.—Thomas W. McCue, of this city, has invented a machine which will make dentistry and surgical operations of all kinds painless. And that he has succeeded has been demonstrated by the fact that by its means live nerves have been removed from teeth without the patient feeling any pain whatever.

Thomas A. Edison, who frequently visits Akron, the former home of his wife, has examined thoroughly the machine, and expects to come to Akron for the express purpose of having an operation performed upon two molars which have heretofore defied dentists.

Mr. McCue's machine, in effect, "short-circuits" pain and prevents it from reaching the brain. He has also accomplished what all electricians declared to be impossible—the reduction of the energy of the electrical current to the one-hundred thousandth part of a volt.

In the crowd that filled a Mulberry street auction room were two Italians who watched the sale with interest and enjoyed the badinage for which the auctioneer is noted. One of the Italians bid on some household article, and it was instantly accepted.

"What's the name?" asked the auctioneer as he opened the salesbook. "Pietro Dionozella," answered the buyer.

"Oh, that's too much! I'll put down 'Peanuts, 50 cents.' You're on," said the auctioneer as he rattled off the next article. The other Italian bid enough to secure the article, and his name was requested.

"Patricia O'Sullivan," quickly answered the Italian.

"Well," mused the auctioneer, "that's a good old name for a dago. Come, that's not yours, though."

For Art's Sake.

Mr. Boughton, the English artist, while sketching in the Alps, was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. He found at last the precise situation he was seeking, and best of all, says Tit-Bits, there happened to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old woman in the foreground.

"I asked the old lady," said Mr. Boughton, "to remain seated until I had made a sketch of her. She assented, but in a few minutes asked me how long I should be. 'Only about a quarter of an hour,' I answered reassuringly.

"Three minutes or so later she again asked me—this time with manifest anxiety—if I should be much longer.

"Oh, not long!" I answered. "But why do you ask so anxiously?"

"Oh, it's nothing," she sadly answered, 'only I'm sitting on an ant hill.'"

A Puzzler.

The child was four years old, logical, persistent and curious. The mother endeavored in all possible conscientiousness never to depart from any statement once made the child as fact. One afternoon this conversation occurred:

"Mother, where is your grandmother?"

"In heaven, dear."

"Oh!" Silence and apparent absorption in toys for a full hour, then:

"Mother, didn't I come from heaven?"

"Of course."

"Well, mother, it's awfully funny that I doesn't remember meeting your grandmother there."—New York Times.

The Phenix of Arabia.

In olden times a bird called a "phenix" was thought to live in the deserts of Arabia. His lease of life was said to be 500 years, at the end of which time he built a nest of spices and fanned it into a flame with his wings. The flame reduced the bird to ashes, out of which he sprung to live another 500 years. Richardson says that he had fifty orifices in his beak, through which he sung melodious airs.

His Talk.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

To Be Made at the East End Brick Plant of Gamble & Surles.

More extensive improvements are to be made at the East End brick plant operated by Gamble & Surles, and with the opening of warm weather this firm will be making more brick than ever before. Recently it was found that the brick machine in use was too small to meet the demands, and an order was immediately placed for a much larger one with a capacity of 25,000 brick per day. This machine is expected to arrive from the factory at Keokuk, Ia., very soon.

It is the intention of this firm to make pressed brick also, and a large number of orders have been received for this class of brick.

PROFITABLE MEETINGS

Revival Services at the Erie Street Church Continue Successful.

The revival meetings at the Erie street M. E. church continue to be well attended and at the services last evening a large congregation was present. Several conversions were reported. A feature of this service was the singing, the new hymn books recently purchased by the board of trustees being used at each service. These meetings will continue for several weeks, or as long as the interest holds.

AN OPTION SECURED

By an East End Man on the Warren Pottery, Which May Be Purchased.

A prominent business man of the East End yesterday secured an option on the Warren pottery. When asked this morning what was the purpose of the option, an answer was declined. It is likely that several East End men will purchase this plant and place it in operation.

Stoneware is made at this factory.

Special Services Tonight.

The Second Presbyterian church was well filled last night and the congregation treated to a splendid sermon by Rev. S. L. Boston on the subject, "The Door Is Shut." Prof. A. A. Laughlin sang several solos, which were very pleasing. Three members were taken into the church. A special service will be held this evening, when Rev. Mr. Boston will preach. By request Prof. Laughlin will sing "The Holy City."

Will Erect a Fine House.

John Schmelzenbach, a well known contractor in the East End, has closed the deal for 1.55 acres of land on the new boulevard. It is his intention to erect a fine residence on this property, work upon which will begin in the spring. It has been proposed by Mr. Schmelzenbach to plant a large number of trees about the new residence, and for this work a landscape gardener will be secured.

Back to the Farm.

J. A. Neel, who has been spending several years at Los Angeles, has returned to his home, and this spring will assume the management of his large farm at Neel's station, on the C. & P. road. This farm had been leased for five years by the Mahons, and the lease is about to expire. This farm is planted in fruit trees, and is said to be one of the best orchard farms in this section.

Ready for Business in April.

The success of the new East End Federal Building & Loan association is assured. During the last few days some large stock subscriptions have been obtained and within a few days an application for a charter will be forwarded to Columbus. It is proposed to open the office for business not later than April 1.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Mrs. Duncan, of Sebring, is ill at the home of Mrs. Dr. Davis, of St. George street.

M. J. Kerr returned to the East End yesterday from Shippingport, where he spent several days.

Two children of Mr. Ed McMillen,

of the East End, who have been seriously ill of croup, are convalescent.

Robert Harker, of Calhoun's addition, who had his ears partially frozen several days ago, is greatly improved.

Samuel Thomas, of Sebring, who has been in the East End for several days, during which time he attended the funeral of his wife, has returned to Sebring.

ARCHER GAME BILL

Great Care Shown in Its Construction, Pleases Farmers And Sportsmen.

The Archer game bill which was passed in the senate at Columbus Tuesday is clear in its provisions and an effort has been made to please both the farmer and sportsman.

A brief summary of the most important provisions of the bill is given herewith:

Doves, killdeer, swallows, blue birds, meadow larks, gulls and buzzards and the nests and young of all song and insectivorous birds are included among those which are fully protected at all seasons.

The open seasons for game are as follows:

Quail and wild turkey, Nov. 10 to Dec. 15; woodcock or squirrel, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15; rabbits (by gun), Nov. 10 to Dec. 15; rail, plover or snipe, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15, and March 15 to May 1; ducks, geese, swans, coots or mud hens, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15 and March 15 to May 1.

It will be noticed that provision is made for two seasons for duck shooting.

The amount of game which one hunter may bag in one day is limited as follows: Quail, woodcock, geese, plover or snipe, 18; duck, 25; squirrel, 10; pheasant, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, Mongolian pheasants and English pheasants are protected until Nov. 10, 1904.

The bill makes it unlawful to buy, sell, expose for sale, offer for sale or have in one's possession any game birds or animals except rabbits during the closed seasons or to kill them for sale or shipment.

No person shall hunt upon another's property without written permission of the owner, agent or tenant thereof, under penalty of fine. Wardens are given the right to inspect any receptacle containing game believed to have been killed in violation of law.

No set lines of any sort must be used in catching fish. Bluegills and common sun fish are protected from May 15 to July 1. There must be no fishing through the ice in the waters of the state, and black bass caught in the state's waters must not be offered for sale.

After May 1, 1902, no person must hunt on another's property without a hunter's license, issued by the clerk of the courts. The fee for residents of Ohio is $1, and for non-residents $25. The money realized from this source is to be turned into the state treasury, to be used in paying the salaries and expenses of district wardens.

ELECTROCHEMICAL THEORY

Of Professors Loeb and Mathews. The Latter Known in East Liverpool.

The electrochemical theory of nervous action, due to Professors Loeb and Mathews of Chicago, continues to excite attention, but it apparently meets with more favor among physiologists than with electricians. Says the Electrical World and Engineer:

"Any physiological theory involving the ionic theory of electricity is a theory of the second degree, since the ionic is itself only a working hypothesis that has not yet been received as a matter of demonstration beyond the pale of doubt. Moreover, from the outline given of Dr. Mathews' theory that the ionic theory might fall without necessarily implicating the essentials of the nerve action theory here considered, so that in a certain sense it would seem that the new theory does not necessarily penetrate into the definite sense contemplated by the modern ionic theory. Almost any of the more recent theories of the electrochemical action would, perhaps, answer the purpose of the new hypothesis equally well. It is only reasonable to expect that in time physiologists will discover the fundamental laws—perhaps very simple in character, but no doubt very complex in superposition—which underlie nerve action, and the objective side of consciousness. There can be no doubt that electricity takes a share in this action, because all the phenomena of life are phenomena of differential liquids separated by thin septa, and it would be practically impossible to assemble such mechanism without originating electric and electrochemical actions."

The above has also some local interest, from the fact that Professor Albert P. Mathews, his wife and daughter, spent several days in East Liverpool last August, at the residence of Mr. N. G. Macrum, who is an uncle of Mrs. Mathews. Professor Mathews was then on his way to taken the chair of physiological chemistry in the Chicago university. The February Century announces an article from the pen of Doctor Mathews on his discovery. The doctor is a young man of about 33 and has been professor of biology in Harvard for some years.

PAIN SHORT CIRCUITED

An Akron Man Uses Electricity to Make Dental Operations Painless.

Akron, February 20.—Thomas W. McCue, of this city, has invented a machine which will make dentistry and surgical operations of all kinds painless. And that he has succeeded has been demonstrated by the fact that by its means live nerves have been removed from teeth without the patient feeling any pain whatever.

Thomas A. Edison, who frequently visits Akron, the former home of his wife, has examined thoroughly the machine, and expects to come to Akron for the express purpose of having an operation performed upon two molars which have heretofore defied dentists.

Mr. McCue's machine, in effect, "short-circuits" pain and prevents it from reaching the brain. He has also accomplished what all electricians declared to be impossible—the reduction of the energy of the electrical current to the one-hundred thousandth part of a volt.

Getting Even.

In the crowd that filled a Mulberry street auction room were two Italians who watched the sale with interest and enjoyed the badinage for which the auctioneer is noted. One of the Italians bid on some household article, and it was instantly accepted.

"What's the name?" asked the auctioneer as he opened the salesbook.

"Pietro Dionozella," answered the buyer.

"Oh, that's too much! I'll put down 'Peanuts, 50 cents.' You're on," said the auctioneer as he rattled off the next article. The other Italian bid enough to secure the article, and his name was requested.

"Patrick O'Sullivan," quickly answered the Italian.

"Well," mused the auctioneer, "that's a good old name for a dago. Come, that's not yours, though."

"You beta it isa nota mine," was the quick reply, "but ita is agooda as Peanuta. You maka de fun with 'taliano name; I maka fun wida Irish."—Newark Call.

Moreover, from the outline given of Dr. Mathews' theory that the ionic theory might fall with out necessarily implicating the essentials of the nerve action theory here considered, so that in a certain sense it would seem that the new theory does not necessarily penetrate into the definite sense contemplated by the modern ionic theory. Almost any of the more recent theories of the electrochemical action would, perhaps, answer the purpose of the new hypothesis equally well. It is only reasonable to expect that in time physiologists will discover the fundamental laws—perhaps very simple in character, but no doubt very complex in superposition—which underlie nerve action, and the objective side of consciousness. There can be no doubt that electricity takes a share in this action, because all the phenomena of life are phenomena of differential liquids separated by thin septa, and it would be practically impossible to assemble such mechanism without originating electric and electrochemical actions."

The above has also some local interest, from the fact that Professor Albert P. Mathews, his wife and daughter, spent several days in East Liverpool last August, at the residence of Mr. N. G. Macrum, who is an uncle of Mrs. Mathews. Professor Mathews was then on his way to take the chair of physiological chemistry in the Chicago university. The February Century announces an article from the pen of Doctor Mathews on his discovery. The doctor is a young man of about 33 and has been professor of biology in Harvard for some years.

PAIN SHORT CIRCUITED

An Akron Man Uses Electricity to Make Dental Operations Painless.

Akron, February 20.—Thomas W. McCue, of this city, has invented a machine which will make dentistry and surgical operations of all kinds painless. And that he has succeeded has been demonstrated by the fact that by its means live nerves have been removed from teeth without the patient feeling any pain whatever.

Thomas A. Edison, who frequently visits Akron, the former home of his wife, has examined thoroughly the machine, and expects to come to Akron for the express purpose of having an operation performed upon two molars which have heretofore defied dentists.

Mr. McCue's machine, in effect, "short-circuits" pain and prevents it from reaching the brain. He has also accomplished what all electricians declared to be impossible—the reduction of the energy of the electrical current to the one-hundred thousandth part of a volt.

Getting Even. In the crowd that filled a Mulberry street auction room were two Italians who watched the sale with interest and enjoyed the badinage for which the auctioneer is noted. One of the Italians bid on some household article, and it was instantly accepted.

"What's the name?" asked the auctioneer as he opened the salesbook.

"Pietro Dionozella," answered the buyer.

"Oh, that's too much! I'll put down 'Peanuts, 50 cents.' You're on," said the auctioneer as he rattled off the next article. The other Italian bid enough to secure the article, and his name was requested.

"Patricka O'Sullivan," quickly answered the Italian.

"Well," mused the auctioneer, "that's a good old name for a dago. Come, that's not yours, though."

"You beta it isa nota mine," was the quick reply, "but ita is agooda as Peanuta. You maka de fun witha 'taliano name; I maka fun wida Irish."—Newark Call.

For Art's Sake.

Mr. Boughton, the English artist, while sketching in the Alps, was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. He found at last the precise situation he was seeking, and best of all, says Tit-Bits, there happened to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old woman in the foreground.

"I asked the old lady," said Mr. Boughton, "to remain seated until I had made a sketch of her. She assented, but in a few minutes asked me how long I should be. 'Only about a quarter of an hour,' I answered reassuringly.

"Three minutes or so later she again asked me—this time with manifest anxiety—if I should be much longer.

"Oh, not long!" I answered. 'But why do you ask so anxiously?'

"Oh, it's nothing," she sadly answered, 'only I'm sitting on an ant hill.'"

A Puzzler.

The child was four years old, logical, persistent and curious. The mother endeavored in all possible conscientiousness never to depart from any statement once made the child as fact. One afternoon this conversation occurred:

"Mother, where is your grandmother?"

"In heaven, dear."

"Oh!"

Silence and apparent absorption in toys for a full hour, then:

"Mother, didn't I come from heaven?"

"Of course."

"Well, mother, it's awfully funny that I doesn't remember meeting your grandmother there."—New York Times.

The Phenix of Arabia.

In olden times a bird called a "phenix" was thought to live in the deserts of Arabia. His lease of life was said to be 500 years, at the end of which time he built a nest of spices and fanned it into a flame with his wings. The flame reduced the bird to ashes, out of which he sprang to live another 500 years. Richardson says that he had fifty orifices in his beak, through which he sung melodious airs.

His Talk.

"What will I talk about?" remarked a man who had been called on unexpectedly at a banquet and mentally groped for something to say.

"Talk about a minute!" was the rejoinder that came from a nimble witted chap at the other side of the dining room.—Boston Journal.

WEEK OF ACTIVITY

Taxation, Local Option and Other Bills Before the Legislature.

LONG SESSION PROBABLE

The Fight Over Temperance Bills Promises to Be Interesting—Opposition to Christian Science Measure—Of Interest to Fishermen.

Columbus, Feb. 20. — (Special)—The Beal bill, which contemplated giving local option in cities and towns, was thoroughly discussed at a meeting of the temperance committee, and the result is that the advocates of the measure have made a complete change of front, and without hearing from the opposition. The Beal bill proposed a special election in wards of cities on petition of 40 per cent of the voters, and a special election in smaller towns on petition of 25 per cent of the voters.

The ward feature has been wholly abandoned by the temperance advocates, and it is said now that they propose to amend the measure so that an election shall be held in any municipality if 40 per cent of the voters petition therefor. It is intimated that another bill will be introduced later which will provide that a ward shall go "dry" if 51 per cent of the voters shall petition.

Rev. Thomas Clark, ex-member of the legislature and author of the Clark bill, which was defeated two years ago, spoke to the temperance committee. He said the contemplated measures were not prohibitive, and that it was hoped they would help the temperance cause. His arraignment of the American saloon was severe, his statements creating a sensation.

The press of the state is taking a hand in the temperance fight, and much to the surprise of many people, numbers of the leading papers have advanced arguments against the proposed bills. The Toledo Times recently printed this editorial:

"The Times has believed and believes still that temperance legislation ought to be along more practical lines—that the saloon ought to be kept out of a residence community by vigorous restrictions surrounding its establishment instead of being driven out after it is entrenched. A number of states have illustrated for us most effectively how this may be done, and we may well learn from them the efficient means of regulation. The Beal bill may do some good and probably will, but it is, after all, only another of the sort of measures which, after it is on the statute books, at most places will find poor executors to see to the enforcement of its provisions. Ohio has many such laws and it seems poor policy to add to them."

The attitude of the anti-saloon people is generally accepted as being an acknowledgment of their signal defeat. They admit they could not pass the measures as drawn and they propose to amend them.

This means that the fight will be prolonged in the general assembly. The temperance committee of the house will have hearing this week and announce that the proposition will be left open for some time. This action of the Beal bill before the committee means that the whole proposition will have to be fought over, entailing time and labor on the part of the legislature and expense for the state.

How to Fight Anarchy

By Rev. Dr. LYMAN ABBOTT of New York.

THE FUNDAMENTAL CAUSE OF ANARCHY IS THE REACTION OF UNJUST GOVERNMENT. It was so in France. Shall we see this in America? If our legislators neglect the many and legislate for selfish ends in order to enable the few to lead lives of luxurious leisure, then we shall have anarchy east and west and north and south, but if the legislators are true to their calling, and if journalism would seek not to reflect, but to lead and direct, public opinion into proper channels, then anarchy will disappear.

ing reform in the matter of expenditures for running the state. He hoped to have a short session of the legislature and in that way cut out much expense. Without criticising either a Republican or Democratic administration or majority in the general assembly, it may be said that long sessions mean great expense to the taxpayers. Members of the legislature have good opportunities, during prolonged sessions, to run through the legislative mill laws that are worthless and which many times carry large expenditures. The fight over the temperance problem, over taxation and the abandonment of the canals, is sure to cause a long session.

There is a most determined and bitter opposition developing among the manufacturers of the state over the so-called fellow-servant bill, several of which have been introduced into both branches of the general assembly. The initiative in the matter was taken by the Columbus board of trade, but the movement is intended to take in every similar organization in the state, and to that end appeals have been sent out. As a basis for the opposition, the claim is made that the bill, if passed, will change the custom of half-century and entirely abolish the right of an employer to defend in an action for damages on the ground of assumption of risk or contributory negligence of an employee. The board of trade in this city went about the matter with some care, securing the opinion of an attorney as to just what the bills would do before taking any action, but having that, and fortified in what was considered a legal way, resolutions denouncing the bills were adopted and a copy of these resolutions, together with the lawyer's opinion, are being sent to every commercial organization in Ohio. The purpose is to begin a combined assault all along the line.

This week ought to see both the Willis and the Cole taxation bills reported back from the committee. They will come with favorable recommendations and their passage urged. The first to be taken up on the floor and fought out is the Willis bill, providing for the filing of annual reports by domestic corporations and the charging of a fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the authorized capital stock. It is doubtful if this can pass in its present form. The opposition of the Democrats can be counted on to a man. They desire the Nichols law somewhat amended and extended. But added to this, it is discovered that a number of Republicans are not in favor of the measure as it stands. Local manufacturers in every part of the state have written in to their member of the house or senate protesting, "If you pass that bill it will cripple us. We cannot stand such an increased tax. It means that many millions of dollars of capital will be driven from the state, as many millions of dollars have already gone. Why should we be asked to pay tax on an authorized capital stock where perhaps its face value is far below par? By this, the poorer a corporation becomes the higher is the tax. It's a tax on poverty." The potency of this argument is being shown. Several Republicans who were outspoken in favor of the bill at the start are weakening.

A most determined opposition has been shown to the passage of the so-called anti-Christian Science bill introduced by Mr. DeMuth of Toledo at the instance of the Toledo Humane society. The bill in substance provides that parents must call in the aid of a regularly authorized physician where children under 16 years of age are ill. In the house the measure passed with little debate, but in the senate a flood of protest arose and the bill was bitterly denounced. Mr. Harding of Marion led the fight and provoked some merriment when he said: "As the son of a physician, I may be forgiven if I expose a professional secret. Nine times out of ten when a child is ill and a physician is called, no medicine is given, and," he added, with a twinkle in his eye, "the nine times are when the child generally recovers." After a debate lasting nearly an entire afternoon, the bill was finally referred to the committee on judiciary.

Devotees of tobacco may hear with some alarm the complaint of Senator Eckert. Outside of the usual and well-known dangers attending a too persistent use of the weed, the senator has discovered another which, it is claimed, scientific experience demonstrates. This is, that Paris green sprinkled on a growing tobacco plant permeates the leaf and remains with it during all the subsequent processes until it finally comes to the user in one way or another, and he, in turn, is gradually poisoned. The senator, in the hope of removing this harmful ingredient, has a bill which he will endeavor to have passed making it a crime to sprinkle Paris green on tobacco and a crime punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Mr. Guerin, the young member from Erie county with a special regard for the supreme court, has a bill which would extend the terms of the judges from six to twelve years and make the election of a new one come every two instead of one year, as at present. In defense of this, Mr. Guerin says such a law promising long terms in office would raise the standard of the men willing to take the place and make it so that the very highest legal talent in the state would desire to be elected to the bench. He would likewise favor advancing the salaries to $10,000 a year, but since the present legislature gave the judges a substantial increase, the uselessness of such a thing at this time is recognized. Neither will the bill to extend the terms to twelve years meet with such hearty indorsement as to make it a law.

Fishermen in every part of the state, but more particularly along the lake, will be interested in a bill now awaiting legislative action. The bill provides a closed season against the use of nets of any kind for fishing in Ohio waters from Dec. 15 to March 15. A closed season is made against the catching of bass from May 20 to Aug. 1. As a protection to smaller fish, the size of the meshes is all nets must be increased to two and three-quarter inches. Other stipulations are that all companies or individual fishermen who wish to handle the rod and line must pay a license fee of fifty cents a year, while an additional fee of 25 cents per ton will be charged for all fish caught. This money is to be used in the advancement of fish culture and propagation. GEO. U. MARVIN.

A number of states have illustrated for us most effectively how this may be done, and we may well learn from them the efficient means of regulation. The Beal bill may do some good and probably will, but it is, after all, only another of the sort of measures which, after it is on the statute books, at most places will find poor executors to see to the enforcement of its provisions. Ohio has many such laws and it seems poor policy to add to them."

The attitude of the anti-saloon people is generally accepted as being an acknowledgment of their signal defeat. They admit they could not pass the measures as drawn and they propose to amend them.

This means that the fight will be prolonged in the general assembly. The temperance committee of the house will have hearing this week and announce that the proposition will be left open for some time. This action of the Beal bill before the committee means that the whole proposition will have to be fought over, entailing time and labor on the part of the legislature and expense for the state.

How to Fight Anarchy

By Rev. Dr. LYMAN ABBOTT of New York.

THE FUNDAMENTAL CAUSE OF ANARCHY IS THE REACTION OF UNJUST GOVERNMENT. It was so in France. Shall we see this in America? If our legislators neglect the many and legislate for selfish ends in order to enable the few to lead lives of luxurious leisure, then we shall have anarchy east and west and north and south, but if the legislators are true to their calling, and if journalism would seek not to reflect, but to lead and direct, public opinion into proper channels, then anarchy will disappear.

ing reform in the matter of expenditures for running the state. He hoped to have a short session of the legislature and in that way cut out much expense. Without criticizing either a Republican or Democratic administration or majority in the general assembly, it may be said that long sessions mean great expense to the taxpayers. Members of the legislature have good opportunities, during prolonged sessions, to run through the legislative mill laws that are worthless and which many times carry large expenditures. The fight over the temperance problem, over taxation and the abandonment of the canal, is sure to cause a long session.

There is a most determined and bitter opposition developing among the manufacturers of the state over the so-called fellow-servant bill, several of which have been introduced into both branches of the general assembly. The initiative in the matter was taken by the Columbus board of trade, but the movement is intended to take in every similar organization in the state, and to that end appeals have been sent out. As a basis for the opposition, the claim is made that the bill, if passed, will change the custom of half-century and entirely abolish the right of an employer to defend in an action for damages on the ground of assumption of risk or contributory negligence of an employee. The board of trade in this city went about the matter with some care, securing the opinion of an attorney as to just what the bills would do before taking any action, but having that, and fortified in what was considered a legal way, resolutions denouncing the bills were adopted and a copy of these resolutions, together with the lawyer's opinion, are being sent to every commercial organization in Ohio. The purpose is to begin a combined assault all along the line.

This week ought to see both the Willis and the Cole taxation bills reported back from the committee. They will come with favorable recommendations and their passage urged. The first to be taken up on the floor and fought out is the Willis bill, providing for the filing of annual reports by domestic corporations and the charging of a fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the authorized capital stock. It is doubtful if this can pass in its present form. The opposition of the Democrats can be counted on to a man. They desire the Nichols law somewhat amended and extended. But added to this, it is discovered that a number of Republicans are not in favor of the measure as it stands. Local manufacturers in every part of the state have written in to their member of the house or senate protesting. "If you pass that bill it will cripple us. We cannot stand such an increased tax. It means that many millions of dollars of capital will be driven from the state, as many millions of dollars have already gone. Why should we be asked to pay tax on an authorized capital stock where perhaps its face value is far below par? By this, the poorer a corporation becomes the higher is the tax. It's a tax on poverty." The potency of this argument is being shown. Several Republicans who were outspoken in favor of the bill at the start are weakening.

A most determined opposition has been shown to the passage of the so-called anti-Christian Science bill introduced by Mr. Demuth of Toledo at the instance of the Toledo Humane society. The bill in substance provides that parents must call in the aid of a regularly authorized physician where children under 16 years of age are ill. In the house the measure passed with little debate, but in the senate a flood of protest arose and the bill was bitterly denounced. Mr. Harding of Marion led the fight and provoked some merriment when he said: "As the son of a physician, I may be forgiven if I expose a professional secret. Nine times out of ten when a child is ill and a physician is called, no medicine is given, and," he added, with a twinkle in his eye, "the nine times are when the child generally recovers." After a debate lasting nearly an entire afternoon, the bill was finally referred to the committee on judiciary.

Devotees of tobacco may hear with some alarm the complaint of Senator Eckert. Outside of the usual and well-known dangers attending a too persistent use of the weed, the senator has discovered another which, it is claimed, scientific experience demonstrates. This is, that Paris green sprinkled on a growing tobacco plant permeates the leaf and remains with it during all the subsequent processes until it finally comes to the user in one way or another, and he, in turn, is gradually poisoned. The senator, in the hope of removing this harmful ingredient, has a bill which he will endeavor to have passed making it a crime to sprinkle Paris green on tobacco and a crime punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Mr. Guerin, the young member from Erie county with a special regard for the supreme court, has a bill which would extend the terms of the judges from six to twelve years and make the election of a new one come every two instead of one year, as at present. In defense of this, Mr. Guerin says such a law promising long terms in office would raise the standard of the men willing to take the place and make it so that the very highest legal talent in the state would desire to be elected to the bench. He would likewise favor advancing the salaries to $10,000 a year, but since the present legislature gave the judges a substantial increase, the uselessness of such a thing at this time is recognized. Neither will the bill to extend the terms to twelve years meet with such hearty indorsement as to make it a law.

Fishermen in every part of the state, but more particularly along the lake, will be interested in a bill now awaiting legislative action. The bill provides a closed season against the use of nets of any kind for fishing in Ohio waters from Dec. 15 to March 15. A closed season is made against the catching of bass from May 20 to Aug. 1. As a protection to smaller fish, the size of the meshes is all nets must be increased to two and three-quarter inches. Other stipulations are that all companies or individual fishermen who wish to handle the rod and line must pay a license fee of fifty cents a year, while an additional fee of 25 cents per ton will be charged for all fish caught. This money is to be used in the advancement of fish culture and propagation.

WEEK OF ACTIVITY

Taxation, Local Option and Other Bills Before the Legislature.

LONG SESSION PROBABLE

The Fight Over Temperance Bills Promises to Be Interesting—Opposition to Christian Science Measure—Of Interest to Fishermen.

Columbus, Feb. 20.—(Special)—The Beal bill, which contemplated giving local option in cities and towns, was thoroughly discussed at a meeting of the temperance committee, and the result is that the advocates of the measure have made a complete change of front, and without hearing from the opposition. The Beal bill proposed a special election in wards of cities on petition of 40 per cent of the voters, and a special election in smaller towns on petition of 25 per cent of the voters.

The ward feature has been wholly abandoned by the temperance advocates, and it is said now that they propose to amend the measure so that an election shall be held in any municipality if 40 per cent of the voters petition therefor. It is intimated that another bill will be introduced later which will provide that a ward shall go "dry" if 51 per cent of the voters shall petition.

Rev. Thomas Clark, ex-member of the legislature and author of the Clark bill, which was defeated two years ago, spoke to the temperance committee. He said the contemplated measures were not prohibitive, and that it was hoped they would help the temperance cause. His arraignment of the American saloon was severe, his statements creating a sensation.

The press of the state is taking a hand in the temperance fight, and much to the surprise of many people, numbers of the leading papers have advanced arguments against the proposed bills. The Toledo Times recently printed this editorial:

"The Times has believed and believes still that temperance legislation ought to be along more practical lines—that the saloon ought to be kept out of a residence community by vigorous restrictions surrounding its establishment instead of being driven out after it is entrenched. A number of states have illustrated for us most effectively how this may be done, and we may well learn from them the efficient means of regulation. The Beal bill may do some good and probably will, but it is, after all, only another of the sort of measures which, after it is on the statute books, at most places will find poor executors to see to the enforcement of its provisions. Ohio has many such laws and it seems poor policy to add to them."

The attitude of the anti-saloon people is generally accepted as being an acknowledgment of their signal defeat. They admit they could not pass the measures as drawn and they propose to amend them.

This means that the fight will be prolonged in the general assembly. The temperance committee of the house will have hearing this week and announce that the proposition will be left open for some time. This action of the Beal bill before the committee means that the whole proposition will have to be fought over, entailing time and labor on the part of the legislature and expense for the state.

HUNDRED AND FIFTY (2,250).

DRED AND SEVENTY-THREE
(1,373) subscribers.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1902.

When college boys, in order to have "fun," think it necessary to imitate desperadoes who bind, gag and otherwise illtreat their victim, they should not be spared the penalty. The reports of a recent case of hazing at Butchell college, if true, show that the students adopted forms of barbarity that would shame a "hold-up" man or an Indiana white cap. The same law that applies to other lawbreakers should be applied to college ruffians. There is a vast difference between good natured pranks, which injure no one, and hazing practices that endanger the life and limb of the victim. There is no excuse for the latter, and the college authorities who seek to impress this truth by strenuous measures will be warmly upheld in their course by the public.

As was expected, certain persons sailing themselves Christian scientists are opposing the bill before the Ohio legislature which provides fine and imprisonment for parents or guardians who neglect or refuse to provide medical attendance for sick children. They argue that the law has no business interfering with the religious teachings or practices. Hasn't it? The very pertinent query is put forth whether, if religious fervor should direct mothers to sacrifice their children, as has been the case in northern India, the law should suffer them to do so. The state has an interest in its children and should protect them if their natural guardians refuse to do so.

The Democrats in the senate are now reported prepared to vote for the Nicaragua canal or none at all. Their old habit of obstruction is so strong that they cannot shake it off, to legislate for the good of the country. Party considerations are always first with them, and the party rule appears to be to oppose everything that Republicans favor. To make a party question out of a matter of such supreme importance is the height of absurdity and imprudence.

Brochrevinck, the Norwegian explorer, claims to have been 500 miles nearer the south pole than any other man, and still he was 800 miles from the goal he sought to reach. Moreover, the darkness was absolute, the temperature 84 degrees below zero and the wind blowing 100 miles an hour. What advantage to the world could accrue from human beings penetrating farther into such a desolate region if not readily apparent to the unscientific mind.

Southern Democratic newspapers of prominence and influence are warning the little Americans of their party that if they propose to make the abandonment of the Philippines an issue in the next national campaign they might as well make up their minds to be licked. Hauling down the flag has never been a popular doctrine, neither has surrender to rebels in arms.

All achievements of prospectors in the Klondike pale into insignificance, compared with that of the East Liverpool reporter who discovered a 9-foot vein of pig iron. A man of such talents is certainly wasting them in the journalistic field. He is one of the brainy young men for whom C. M. Schwab is looking.

State Treasurer Cameron does not propose to rest under the imputation that the Democrats seek to cast upon his department and will demand an investigation. This is the manly and proper course. He has nothing to fear, and the Democrats who mistook him for a man who would scare easily are certain to learn their mistake.

It is often said that politeness pays, though the dividends do not always come in tangible shape. A western railroad conductor, however, has been left $1,000 by a wealthy man for being uniformly courteous to him during his journeys.

The Pittsburg man who resigned a $2,000 office to run for councils, a position popularly supposed to be unsalaried, and then got defeated is probably both sadder and madder.

The timely hint is thrown out for the benefit of New York's 400 that they should not act as if they had never seen a prince before or they may never see one again.

A lot of Spaniards appear to be spoiling for a fight, but profiting by experience they are not likely to carry hostilities away from home.

Whisky-making is limited to one part of Kentucky, but disturbance-making thrives in all sections of the state.

AT THE THEATER

A large and appreciative audience witnessed "A Capitol Comedy" at the opera house last evening. The play is of a very pleasing order, with enough of plot to satisfy, and amusing situations innumerable. Tim Murphy in the leading role, won instant and continuous favor. The main interest for the audience, however, centered in the appearance of Miss Jeanette Ashbaugh, formerly of this city, whose friends were out in force and could not do enough to show their delight at seeing her and their appreciation of her really meritorious acting. She was showered with bouquets and applause. Her husband, James Durkin, who had an important role in the play, proved himself an intelligent and capable actor, and made a decided hit. The rest of the cast was good.

The Keystone Dramatic company will appear at the Grand opera house all next week in a fine repertoire of plays. Monday night they will present "For Home and Honor" with all the special scenery. Popular prices.

PUSHED UP ABOUT A POINT.

Were Union Pacific and St. Paul, in Final Hour of Market,
Wednesday.

New York, Feb. 20.—The principal activity in Wednesday's stock market was concentrated in the final hour, when Union Pacific and St. Paul, after lying quiescent all day, were suddenly pushed up about a point over Tuesday night. At the same time there was an urgent demand developed for Tennessee Coal, the reason for which was not explained, but which carried the price 3 1/4 over Tuesday night. These movements, coming on top of desultory advances in a number of stocks not usually prominent, induced a hardening tendency all around and disposed the shorts to cover. The earlier strong points meantime suffered from realizing, so that the closing was irregular but active. The speculative activity was confined to the high priced industrial and the stocks of small railroad systems up to that time. The movement in Sugar and Amalgamated Copper was very erratic, and after traversing a wide range they closed the day with net gains of only a fraction. The dealings in the United States Steel stocks were very large, and buying by brokers usually used by syndicate interests was on a large scale, but the speculative public refrained from following this initiative, which was supposed to be based upon the tentative proposition to convert the preferred stock into a 5 per cent bond. The movement in the stocks was very narrow. The Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville stocks and the Evansville and Terre Haute stocks made sensational advances on the belief that they are to be included in a coming consolidation. The United States Rubber stocks were moved upward on the basis of wet weather, which increased the demand for the company's goods. There were wide movements in other minor stocks, some showing new strength and others dropping back sharply after recent unexplained advances. The general market was inclined to be reactionary during the morning, the Readings especially showing the effect of profit taking. The question of gold exports today was an open one all day, and the decision not to send gold was an influence in the late rally. Rates for money are unchanged, but the undertone is firm.

There is a continued good demand for bonds of various grades, but the movement of prices continued irregular, owing to occasional profit taking. The general tendency, however, was firm. Total sales, par value, $3,665,000.

POTTERY NEWS

Freight rates always have been, and will doubtless continue to be a momentous question for manufacturers to wrestle with. This is an important factor in the shipping of ware from this city, and it frequently occurs that when orders are received, shipping instructions are inclosed. Various routes are quoted, which in many instances will be different from those finally selected, if the matter was left with the manufacturer, although the latter invariably looks up the cheapest and shortest route. At a recent meeting of the manufacturers at Pittsburg this matter was considered, and a committee appointed at that time is still at work on the matter of rates.

Word has been received in this city of the sudden death of Alfred Meakin, one of the largest stockholders of the Higat, Victoria and Royal Albert potteries, located at Tunstall, Eng. Mr. Meakin had been in apparent good health, and his death resulted from inflammation of the brain, according to a verdict of a coroner's jury. Mr. Meakin was born Nov. 7, 1847, and was one of the most prominent potters of Staffordshire. He has several distant relatives in this city, some of whom he has not seen for probably 20 years.

The Menke Pottery company, of Trenton, which has been considering the advisability of locating in South Jersey, has selected Millville as the site for a new plant. The plant will cover a plot of ground embracing 12 acres, along the main line of the West Jersey & Seashore railroad. The establishment at the start will employ 300 persons.

Practically all the old stock at the Union has been sold, and it is thought that within the next ten days there will not be a piece of hollow ware in the ware rooms. Most all the ware made here since the plant has been in operation under the new management has been sold.

The "King Midas" toilet shape recently placed before the trade by the Dresden, has proved to be an excellent seller. Some large orders have been received for this shape, and as it is finished in several decorations, the buyer is easily pleased.

Jeff Greene, a biscuit kilnhand at the Laughlin, is working out his notice. He will assume the management of the saggar shop of the new addition to the plant, and it is expected the department will be put in operation within a short time.

Charles Bowers, who has been employed as a dipper at the old end, has been compelled to quit that department of work on account of the glaze injuring his hands. He has commenced work as a kilnman on the glaze end of the Buckeye.

The glaze warehouse girls of the Union, who have been idle for several days, resumed work this morning. It seems the kilns cannot be drawn fast enough for the crew, although almost all the ware turned out by this firm is being shipped.

The kilnmen on the glaze end of the Diamond resumed work this morning. The men had been unable to work on account of the railroad company failing to deliver a car in which was to be placed a lot of ware for shipment to New York.

All departments of the Dresden are running as full as is possible, and from indications the firm is enjoying an excellent trade. Recently the kiln capacity was increased, and still the company is being rushed with business.

Alfred McKinnon, a clay digger employed by the American Sewerpipe company, in the East End, is ill at his home in Calhoun addition. He is suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Miss Fay Herron and Miss McIlvaine, finishers at the East Liverpool, will go to Beaver Falls Friday night to attend a ball to be given by a prominent club at that city.

Architect Adolph Fritz, who drew the plans for the new Barberton pottery, was at that town yesterday attending a meeting of the stockholders.

Will Owen, a cup jiggerman at the East Liverpool is working out his notice. He will start in a similar position at Thompson's Monday.

George Lemon, a finisher at the Diamond, has been unable to work for some time on account of illness. He has resumed his bench.

John Downard, has taken a position as saggermaker at the D. E. McNicol. He commenced work this morning.

The Brunt is running unusually

brisk at present. Mr. Brunt has said that all departments are running, and that no new shapes would be placed on the market during the present season.

Roy Risden, a presser at the East Liverpool, is ill at his home on East Market street. He is suffering with rheumatism.

Only seven men are working in the biscuit crew at the Diamond. Additions to this crew will be made in the near future.

Jere Lanning and Joseph Bennett, glaze kilnmen at the Buckeye, are unable to work on account of illness.

James Erwin, a well known potter of Trenton, N. J., died Saturday night, after being ill a short time.

Mike O'Brien, a kilnhand at Harker, will take a position as bench boss at the Laughlin next Monday.

Clyde Williams, an apprentice kilnman at Laughlin No. 1, has been advanced to a journeyman.

W. H. Deldrick, of the Sevres company, is spending several days at Cleveland on business.

W. C. Smith, a kilnhand at Laughlin No. 2, is unable to work on account of illness.

FRIENDS AND VISITORS

Dr. J. C. Taggart was in Lisbon yesterday.

Mrs. Dora Anderson, of Gardendale, is very ill.

A. S. Young has gone to New York on business.

John Dalley is ill at his home in Gardendale with grip.

Miss Bessie Huston, of Alliance, is visiting Katherine Kountz, of Sixth street.

Mr. and Mrs. David Boyd have left for Jacksonville, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

Jeff Tope, employed at Frank E. Oyster & Co.'s store, is confined to his room with the grip.

Dr. W. R. Clark was in Lisbon yesterday attending a meeting of the board of pension examiners.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Finneccum, have left for Mantua, to attend the funeral of Mrs. J. L. Neeley, an aunt of Mrs. Finneccum.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Allison, of Minerva street, entertained a number of friends last evening at their home at a eucher party.

Mrs. A. J. Cartwright and children, Lois and Homer, of East Liverpool, are visiting Mrs. Cartwright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Forbes, of Steubenville.

SOME NEWS IN BRIEF.

Mrs. Robert Coons, aged 57, while demented, committed suicide at Patakal, O., by hanging herself with a rope made of muslin.

In a rear-end collision on the West Penn railroad, near Blairsville, Pa., Engineer Joseph Thompson, of Allegheny; Conductor H. F. Felt, of Pittsburg, and brakeman C. H. Minium, of Harris, were badly but not fatally hurt. An engine was badly damaged and 12 cars were destroyed.

At Ebensburg, Pa., Judge Francis J. O'Connor granted 132 retail liquor licenses out of 335 applications filed. The remaining 201 will be passed upon later.

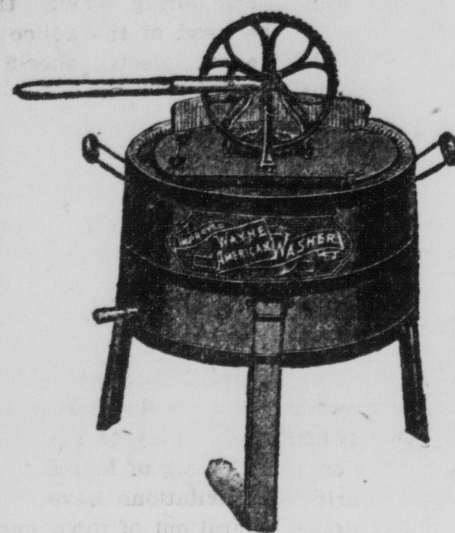

James Johnston, colored, who is wanted for the alleged murder of John Curtis, near Uniontown, Pa., Saturday night, was arrested at Morgantown, W. Va.

Giuseppe Scaccia, the Italian charged with the murder of Edward Jones, at Donora, Nov. 28 last, was convicted at Washington, Pa., of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

The Police Captain.

The police captain in New York is the czar of his precinct, and public virtue or vice prevails in his district in proportion as he is vigilant or lax in the enforcement of law. A police captain very quickly acquires a reputation among the criminal element in the city. If he is known to be easy going or crooked or a condoner of evil, if his own private life, represented by his talk, by his lax conduct or duty, shows him to be a man without high principle, the criminal element will flock to his precinct. On the other hand, the people of the rogues' gallery will naturally avoid the precinct of a vigilant and high minded police captain in the same way as the rats will scamper into their dark holes when a flood of sunlight is thrown in on them.

The proper estimate has not been placed, in my judgment, on the position and office of the precinct commanders. None but the best equipped men morally and otherwise should be chosen for this responsible position. Their salary should be made so large as to place them above temptation, and a strict account of their stewardship should be demanded.—Rev. A. P. Doyle in Outlook.

HUMAN HEAD HUNTERS.

The Savages of Polynesia Still Ply This Horrible Trade.

In the scarce known islands of the Pacific sea—New Guinea, Borneo, Ceram, Gilolo and others too numerous to mention—man still exists in the primeval state, and that most horrible of practices, head hunting, is still indulged in in spite of all efforts of various governments and missions as well as philanthropic societies who have come in contact with the people.

Just as the scalp lock on the belt of the young buck Indian was a token of manhood, so the gory head impaled on a tall pole over the hut of the would be young warrior, Papuan or Dayak, proclaims to all the prowess of the youth, henceforth a man and eligible for the council and the wooing of the maidens. It is immaterial how the trophy be obtained, whether by ambush or in fair battle. Generally it is the former. The candidate for martial honors simply waits his chance by night in some neighboring village as craftily and patiently as a leopard on the prowl, the kris or a poisoned arrow does the work swiftly and silently, and the severed head has ample time to cool before the deed is discovered and calls for retribution.

Thus an incessant vendetta and carnage go on, and only by living in inaccessible forests and strongly stockaded places is it possible at all for the tribes to save themselves from annihilation. Of the vast island continent of New Guinea the western or Dutch part is the worst looked after, and it often happens that numerous raiding parties in their great war canoes come swooping down the coast before the northwest monsoon and carry death and desolation into the comparatively quiet British portion around the mighty Fly river, opposite Torres strait. By the time the news is carried to Thursday island and the gunboat starts away in pursuit it is generally too late, and the marauders have vanished.

The writer was present once at the capture of a war party, and forty-eight heads were taken from the canoes. Hanging and deportation to penal servitude seem to be but a slight deterrent, for the terror recurs almost as regularly as a plague of locusts. These Papuans are a hardy, warlike people and expert bowmen, and they rely on their skill with this potent weapon solely, using their clubs for the dispatch of wounded foes.

The Dayaks of Borneo and their neighbors, on the other hand, are in favor of the "sumpitan" or blowpipe, shooting little diminutive but very cunningly poisoned arrows. The "sumpitan" has often a spear head attached to the outer end, like a bayonet on a musket. For close fighting they rely on the dreaded "parang," a heavy, hollow ground broadsword about two feet long, with the handle often carved of ivory and ornamented with gold and pearls, the wooden scabbard covered with human skin and hair.

They count him a poor warrior who cannot sever a head clean with one blow delivered backhanded. Even in a mountainous part of the Malay peninsula, north of Malacca, in the Dindings and Hegri Sembilan, there is to this day a remnant tribe of head hunters called the Sa-Ki.

 Wednesday.

New York, Feb. 20.—The principal activity in Wednesday's stock market was concentrated in the final hour, when Union Pacific and St. Paul, after lying quiescent all day, were suddenly pushed up about a point over Tuesday night. At the same time there was an urgent demand developed for Tennessee Coal, the reason for which was not explained, but which carried the price 3/4 over Tuesday night. These movements, coming on top of desultory advances in a number of stocks not usually prominent, induced a hardening tendency all around and disposed the shorts to cover. The earlier strong points meantime suffered from realizing, so that the closing was irregular but active. The speculative activity was confined to the high priced industrial and the stocks of small railroad systems up to that time. The movement in Sugar and Amalgamated Copper was very erratic, and after traversing a wide range they closed the day with net gains of only a fraction. The dealings in the United States Steel stocks were very large, and buying by brokers usually used by syndicate interests was on a large scale, but the speculative public refrained from following this initiative, which was supposed to be based upon the tentative proposition to convert the preferred stock into a 5 per cent bond. The movement in the stocks was very narrow. The Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville stocks and the Evansville and Terre Haute stocks made sensational advances on the belief that they are to be included in a coming consolidation. The United States Rubber stocks were moved upward on the basis of wet weather, which increased the demand for the company's goods. There were wide movements in other minor stocks, some showing new strength, and others dropping back sharply after recent unexplained advances. The general market was inclined to be reactionary during the morning, the Readings especially showing the effect of profit taking. The question of gold exports today was an open one all day, and the decision not to send gold was an influence in the late rally. Rates for money are unchanged, but the undertone is firm.

There is a continued good demand for bonds of various grades, but the movement of prices continued irregular, owing to occasional profit taking. The general tendency, however, was firm. Total sales, par value, $3,665,900.

POTTERY NEWS

Freight rates always have been, and will doubtless continue to be a momentous question for manufacturers to wrestle with. This is an important factor in the shipping of ware from this city, and it frequently occurs that when orders are received, shipping instructions are inclosed. Various routes are quoted, which in many instances will be different from those finally selected, if the matter was left with the manufacturer, although the latter invariably looks up the cheapest and shortest route. At a recent meeting of the manufacturers at Pittsburgh this matter was considered, and a committee appointed at that time is still at work on the matter of rates.

Word has been received in this city of the sudden death of Alfred Meakin, one of the largest stockholders of the Higat, Victoria and Royal Albert potteries, located at Tunstall, Eng. Mr. Meakin had been in apparent good health, and his death resulted from inflammation of the brain, according to a verdict of a coroner's jury. Mr. Meakin was born Nov. 7, 1847, and was one of the most prominent potters of Staffordshire. He has several distant relatives in this city, some of whom he has not seen for probably 20 years.

The Menke Pottery company, of Trenton, which has been considering the advisability of locating in South Jersey, has selected Millville as the site for a new plant. The plant will cover a plot of ground embracing 12 acres, along the main line of the West Jersey & Seashore railroad. The establishment at the start will employ 300 persons.

Practically all the old stock at the Union has been sold, and it is thought that within the next ten days there will not be a piece of hollow ware in the ware rooms. Most all the ware made here since the plant has been in operation under the new management has been sold.

The "King Midas" toilet shape recently placed before the trade by the Dresden, has proved to be an excellent seller. Some large orders have been received for this shape, and as it is finished in several decorations, the buyer is easily pleased.

Jeff Greene, a biscuit kilnhand at the Laughlin, is working out his notice. He will assume the management of the sagger shop of the new addition to the plant, and it is expected the department will be put in operation within a short time.

Charles Bowers, who has been employed as a dipper at the old end, has been compelled to quit that department of work on account of the glaze injuring his hands. He has commenced work as a kilnman on the glaze end of the Buckeye.

The glaze warehouse girls of the Union, who have been idle for several days, resumed work this morning. It seems the kilns cannot be drawn fast enough for the crew, although almost all the ware turned out by this firm is being shipped.

The kilnmen on the glaze end of the Diamond resumed work this morning. The men had been unable to work on account of the railroad company failing to deliver a car in which was to be placed a lot of ware for shipment to New York.

All departments of the Dresden are running as full as is possible, and from indications the firm is enjoying an excellent trade. Recently the kiln capacity was increased, and still the company is being rushed with business.

Alfred McKinnon, a clay digger employed by the American Sewerpipe company, in the East End, is ill at his home in Calhoun addition. He is suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Miss Fay Herron and Miss McIlvaine, finishers at the East Liverpool, will go to Beaver Falls Friday night to attend a ball to be given by a prominent club at that city.

Architect Adolph Fritz, who drew the plans for the new Barborton pottery, was at that town yesterday attending a meeting of the stockholders.

Will Owen, a cup jiggerman at the East Liverpool is working out his notice. He will start in a similar position at Thompson's Monday.

George Lemon, a finisher at the Diamond, has been unable to work for some time on account of illness. He has resumed his bench.

John Downard, has taken a position as saggermaker at the D. E. McNicol. He commenced work this morning.

The Brunt is running unusually

Roy Risden, a presser at the East Liverpool, is ill at his home on East Market street. He is suffering with rheumatism.

Only seven men are working in the biscuit crew at the Diamond. Additions to this crew will be made in the near future.

Jere Lanning and Joseph Bennett, glaze kilnmen at the Buckeye, are unable to work on account of illness.

James Erwin, a well known potter of Trenton, N. J., died Saturday night, after being ill a short time.

Mike O'Brien, a kilnhand at Harker, will take a position as bench boss at the Laughlin next Monday.

Clyde Williams, an apprentice kilnman at Laughlin No. 1, has been advanced to a journeyman.

W. H. Deldrick, of the Sevres company, is spending several days at Cleveland on business.

W. C. Smith, a kilnhand at Laughlin No. 2, is unable to work on account of illness.

SOME NEWS IN BRIEF.

Mrs. Robert Coons, aged 57, while demented, committed suicide at Pataskala, O., by hanging herself with a rope made of muslin.

In a rear-end collision on the West Penn railroad, near Blairsville, Pa., Engineer Joseph Thompson, of Allegheny; Conductor H. F. Felt, of Pittsburgh; and Brakeman C. H. Minum, of Harris, were badly but not fatally hurt. An engine was badly damaged and 12 cars were destroyed.

At Ebensburg, Pa., Judge Francis J. O'Connor granted 132 retail liquor licenses out of 335 applications filed. The remaining 201 will be passed upon later.

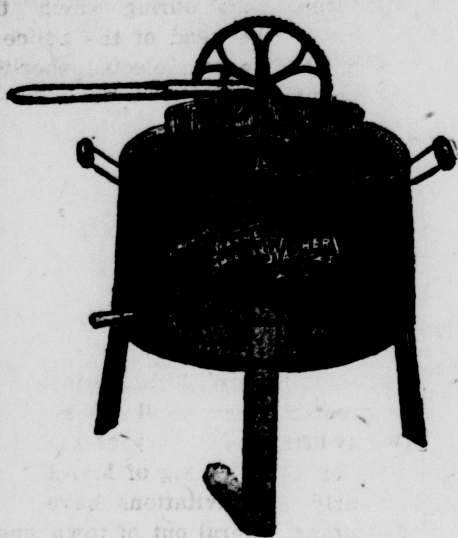

James Johnston, colored, who is wanted for the alleged murder of John Curtis, near Uniontown, Pa., Saturday night, was arrested at Morgantown, W. Va.

Giuseppe Scaccia, the Italian charged with the murder of Edward Jones, at Donora, Nov. 28 last, was convicted at Washington, Pa., of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.

The Police Captain.

The police captain in New York is the czar of his precinct, and public virtue or vice prevails in his district in proportion as he is vigilant or lax in the enforcement of law. A police captain very quickly acquires a reputation among the criminal element in the city. If he is known to be easy going or crooked or a condoner of evil, if his own private life, represented by his talk, by his lax conduct off duty, shows him to be a man without high principle, the criminal element will flock to his precinct. On the other hand, the people of the rogues' gallery will naturally avoid the precinct of a vigilant and high minded police captain in the same way as the rats will scamper into their dark holes when a flood of sunlight is thrown in on them.

The proper estimate has not been placed, in my judgment, on the position and office of the precinct commanders. None but the best equipped men morally and otherwise should be chosen for this responsible position. Their salary should be made so large as to place them above temptation, and a strict account of their stewardship should be demanded.—Rev. A. P. Doyle in Outlook.

HUMAN HEAD HUNTERS.

The Savages of Polynesia Still Ply This Horrible Trade.

In the scarce known islands of the Pacific sea—New Guinea, Borneo, Ceram, Gilolo and others too numerous to mention—man still exists in the primeval state, and that most horrible of practices, head hunting, is still indulged in in spite of all efforts of various governments and missions as well as philanthropic societies who have come in contact with the people.

Just as the scalp lock on the belt of the young buck Indian was a token of manhood, so the gory head impaled on a tall pole over the hut of the would be young warrior, Papuan or Dayak, proclaims to all the prowess of the youth, henceforth a man and eligible for the council and the wooing of the maidens. It is immaterial how the trophy be obtained, whether by ambush or in fair battle. Generally it is the former. The candidate for martial honors simply waits his chance by night in some neighboring village as craftily and patiently as a leopard on the prowl, the kris or a poisoned arrow does the work swiftly and silently, and the severed head has ample time to cool before the deed is discovered and calls for retribution.

Thus an incessant vendetta and carnage go on, and only by living in inaccessible forests and strongly stockaded places is it possible at all for the tribes to save themselves from annihilation. Of the vast island continent of New Guinea the western or Dutch part is the worst looked after, and it often happens that numerous raiding parties in their great war canoes come swooping down the coast before the northwest monsoon and carry death and desolation into the comparatively quiet British portion around the mighty Fly river, opposite Torres Strait. By the time the news is carried to Thursday island and the gunboat starts away in pursuit it is generally too late, and the marauders have vanished.

The writer was present once at the capture of a war party, and forty-eight heads were taken from the canoes. Hanging and deportation to penal servitude seem to be but a slight deterrent, for the terror recurs almost as regularly as a plague of locusts. These Papuans are a hardy, warlike people and expert bowmen, and they rely on their skill with this potent weapon solely, using their clubs for the dispatch of wounded foes.

The Dayaks of Borneo and their neighbors, on the other hand, are in favor of the "sumpitan" or blowpipe, shooting little diminutive but very cunningly poisoned arrows. The "sumpitan" has often a spear head attached to the outer end, like a bayonet on a musket. For close fighting they rely on the dreaded "parang," a heavy, hollow ground broadsword about two feet long, with the handle often carved of ivory and ornamented with gold and pearls, the wooden scabbard covered with human skin and hair.

They count him a poor warrior who cannot sever a head clean with one blow delivered backhanded. Even in a mountainous part of the Malay peninsula, north of Malacca, in the Dindings and Hegri Sembilan, there is to this day a remnant tribe of head hunters called the Sa-Ki.

When college boys, in order to have "fun," think it necessary to imitate desperadoes who blind, gag and otherwise ill-treat their victim, they should not be spared the penalty. The reports of a recent case of hazing at Butchert college, if true, show that the students adopted forms of barbarity that would shame a "hold-up" man or an Indiana white cap. The same law that applies to other lawbreakers should be applied to college ruffians. There is a vast difference between good natured pranks, which injure no one, and hazing practices that endanger the life and limb of the victim. There is no excuse for the latter, and the college authorities who seek to impress this truth by strenuous measures will be warmly upheld in their course by the public.

As was expected, certain persons sailing themselves Christian scientists are opposing the bill before the Ohio legislature which provides fine and imprisonment for parents or guardians who neglect or refuse to provide medical attendance for sick children. They argue that the law has no business interfering with the religious teachings or practices. Haven't it? The very pertinent query is put forth whether, if religious fervor should direct mothers to sacrifice their children, as has been the case in northern India, the law should suffer them to do so. The state has an interest in its children and should protect them if their natural guardians refuse to do so.

The Democrats in the senate are now reported prepared to vote for the Nicaragua canal or none at all. Their old habit of obstruction is so strong that they cannot shake it off, to legislate for the good of the country. Party considerations are always first with them, and the party rule appears to be to oppose everything that Republicans favor. To make a party question out of a matter of such supreme importance is the height of absurdity and imprudence.

Brochrevinck, the Norwegian explorer, claims to have been 500 miles nearer the south pole than any other man, and still he was 800 miles from the goal he sought to reach. Moreover, the darkness was absolute, the temperature 84 degrees below zero and the wind blowing 100 miles an hour. What advantage to the world could accrue from human beings penetrating farther into such a desolate region if not readily apparent to the unscientific mind.

Southern Democratic newspapers of prominence and influence are warning the little Americans of their party that if they propose to make the abandonment of the Philippines an issue in the next national campaign they might as well make up their minds to be licked. Hauling down the flag has never been a popular doctrine, neither has surrender to rebels in arms.

All achievements of prospectors in the Klondike pale into insignificance, compared with that of the East Liverpool reporter who discovered a 9-foot vein of pig iron. A man of such talents is certainly wasting them in the journalistic field. He is one of the brainy young men for whom C. M. Schwab is looking.

State Treasurer Cameron does not propose to rest under the imputation that the Democrats seek to cast upon his department and will demand an investigation. This is the manly and proper course. He has nothing to fear, and the Democrats who mistook him for a man who would scare easily are certain to learn their mistake.

It is often said that politeness pays, though the dividends do not always come in tangible shape. A western railroad conductor, however, has been left $1,000 by a wealthy man for being uniformly courteous to him during his journeys.

The Pittsburg man who resigned a $2,000 office to run for councils, a position popularly supposed to be unsalaried, and then got defeated is probably both sadder and madder.

The timely hint is thrown out for the benefit of New York's 400 that they should not act as if they had never seen a prince before or they may never see one again.

A lot of Spaniards appear to be spoiling for a fight, but profiting by experience they are not likely to carry hostilities away from home.

Whisky-making is limited to one part of Kentucky, but disturbance-making thrives in all sections of the state.

AT THE THEATER

A large and appreciative audience witnessed "A Capitol Comedy" at the opera house last evening. The play is of a very pleasing order, with enough of plot to satisfy, and amusing situations innumerable. Tim Murphy in the leading role, won instant and continuous favor. The main interest for the audience, however, centered in the appearance of Miss Jeanette Ashbaugh, formerly of this city, whose friends were out in force and could not do enough to show their delight at seeing her and their appreciation of her really meritorious acting. She was showered with bouquets and applause. Her husband, James Durkin, who had an important role in the play, proved himself an intelligent and capable actor, and made a decided hit. The rest of the cast was good.

The Keystone Dramatic company will appear at the Grand opera house all next week in a fine repertoire of plays. Monday night they will present "For Home and Honor" with all the special scenery. Popular prices.

HUMAN HEAD HUNTERS.

The Savages of Polynesia Still Ply This Horrible Trade.

In the scarce known islands of the Pacific sea—New Guinea, Borneo, Ceram, Gilolo and others too numerous to mention—man still exists in the primeval state, and that most horrible of practices, head hunting, is still indulged in in spite of all efforts of various governments and missions as well as philanthropic societies who have come in contact with the people.

Just as the scalp lock on the belt of the young buck Indian was a token of manhood, so the gory head impaled on a tall pole over the hut of the would be young warrior, Papuan or Dayak, proclaims to all the prowess of the youth, henceforth a man and eligible for the council and the wooing of the maidens. It is immaterial how the trophy be obtained, whether by ambush or in fair battle. Generally it is the former. The candidate for martial honors simply waits his chance by night in some neighboring village as craftily and patiently as a leopard on the prowl, the kris or a poisoned arrow does the work swiftly and silently, and the severed head has ample time to cool before the deed is discovered and calls for retribution.

Thus an incessant vendetta and carnage go on, and only by living in inaccessible forests and strongly stockaded places is it possible at all for the tribes to save themselves from annihilation. Of the vast island continent of New Guinea the western or Dutch part is the worst looked after, and it often happens that numerous raiding parties in their great war canoes come swooping down the coast before the northwest monsoon and carry death and desolation into the comparatively quiet British portion around the mighty Fly river, opposite Torres strait. By the time the news is carried to Thursday island and the gunboat starts away in pursuit it is generally too late, and the marauders have vanished.

The writer was present once at the capture of a war party, and forty-eight heads were taken from the canoes. Hanging and deportation to penal servitude seem to be but a slight deterrent, for the terror recurs almost as regularly as a plague of locusts. These Papuans are a hardy, warlike people and expert bowmen, and they rely on their skill with this potent weapon solely, using their clubs for the dispatch of wounded foes.

The Dayaks of Borneo and their neighbors, on the other hand, are in favor of the "sumpitan" or blowpipe, shooting little diminutive but very cunningly poisoned arrows. The "sumpitan" has often a spear head attached to the outer end, like a bayonet on a musket. For close fighting they rely on the dreaded "parang," a heavy, hollow ground broadsword about two feet long, with the handle often carved of ivory and ornamented with gold and pearls, the wooden scabbard covered with human skin and hair.

They count him a poor warrior who cannot sever a head clean with one blow delivered backhanded. Even in a mountainous part of the Malay peninsula, north of Malacca, in the Dindings and Hegri Sembilan, there is to this day a remnant tribe of head hunters called the Sa-Ki.

Supply Practically Inexhaustible.

"Don't you ever run out of material for plays?" asked the admiring friend. "Great Scott, no!" exclaimed the prolific writer of burlesque operas. "Look at this pile of blank paper and all these writing implements, will you?"—Exchange.

Wellsville lodge No. 28, Amalgamated association, and the Lisbon lodge, at meetings held recently, nominated delegates to represent their lodges at Wheeling April 22, when one of the most important conventions in the history of the association will be held.

The delegates will be elected Saturday night, March 1. It will be necessary for the great majority of the delegates from the Pittsburgh belt to pass through this city when en route to Wheeling and the Wellsville lodge is making preparations to have the whole contingent stop over for a few hours when on their return trip home. An elegant banquet will be served the visitors and many other enjoyable features for their entertainment are being arranged.

DEBT AND DAMAGE

Claimed By Mrs. Orr in a Suit Against Edwin K. Anderson.

Mrs. Margaret Orr has entered suit in Squire MacKenzie's court against Edwin K. Anderson for the sum of $299.90 with interest from August, 1901. Mrs. Orr claims that the defendant owes for that amount for some stone which he purchased from her and for damages incurred to her yard and house by the removing of the stone from her quarry, which is located at the rear of her home, East End.

The case will likely be tried this evening before a jury. There are 11 witnesses, and it is said that attorneys have been employed by both parties.

WAR UPON RATS

Declared By Ticket Men Who Have Been Very Much Annoyed.

Edward Harrigan and William Shoulitz, freight and ticket agents, respectively, at the West End depot, have some exciting times during the last few days with a large number of black rats which have made the depot their headquarters. Harrigan succeeded in killing three of them yesterday, and they are on exhibition at a local barber shop.

Several big traps have been set and target guns will be procured, if possible, to exterminate the creatures which are not alone dangerous, but have wrought considerable damage to books, etc., in the office.

FOR NEW WEST POINT

CONGRESS ASKED TO REBUILD HISTORIC INSTITUTION.

Present Buildings Antiquated and Unfit For the Needs of the Military School - Barracks Crowded and Lack Modern Conveniences.

The United States Military academy at West Point is in a dilapidated condition, and extensive improvements are necessary to put it in a fit condition for the purposes for which it is intended. Congress will be asked to appropriate $10,000,000 at the present session for the rebuilding of a large portion of the institution.

Members of the committees on military affairs of both the house of representatives and the senate made a thorough inspection of the academy a few days ago, and, although no formal action was taken, it was conceded by all the congressmen that the extensive improvements asked for by the war department were greatly needed and that they should be made.

Last fall the report of the board of visitors to West Point mercilessly exposed the discomforts and inconveniences of life at the academy. It said that the cadet who entered the West Point barracks the first day the institution opened its doors 100 years ago found himself surrounded by almost as many comforts and conveniences as the cadet who entered last June.

"The barracks," the report stated, "are little better equipped than the barracks at the average county poor house, and the ventilation is in accordance with the hygienic notions of a century ago and is simply execrable."

CORNER TOWER OF OLD BARRACKS.

There is not a drop of water except what is carried in buckets and pails by the cadets, and there is not a sink or bathroom.

By an act of congress March 10, 1802, fixing the military peace establishment, forty cadets were attached to the artillery and ten to the corps of engineers.

Since that time, 100 years ago, nearly all the improvements have been on the patchwork plan. There is but one building at the post constructed by the government that is in harmony with the present day and generation. All the others are old, uncomfortable and inadequate to meet present conditions. Few are equipped with any of the conveniences to be found in the average public school building in country districts.

The improvements called for in the specifications of the war department are for a new additional cadet barracks and the alteration of the present barracks, which have room for only 320 cadets if properly housed, as they should be, two in a room. At present over forty cadets are compelled to sleep three in a room. The first building to be enlarged would be the barracks by completing the quadrangle and adding eight divisions. These divisions would accommodate thirty-two cadets each, so that the enlarged building would accommodate 640 cadets properly. The number now on the rolls is 459.

The improvements contemplated include also the building of a new mess hall for bachelor officers, thus allowing the present building to be used exclusively by cadets. The accommodations at present are a constant source of annoyance through overcrowding.

In order to provide proper facilities for the riding school a new hall 300 feet long and 100 feet wide must be provided. The present building is but 75 by 65 feet. This building may be converted into stables.

These are but a fraction of the improvements contemplated, but serve to indicate the pressing need for improvements required for this historic institution, to the end that in the near future the Military academy, by reason of its splendid equipment as well as its great name, may be an inspiration and a source of pride to the people of the United States and at the same time attract the attention of the world.

AN ANECDOTE OF WHITMAN.

How the Poet Was Trying to Cheer Up a Friendless Boy.

One day I was stopped on Washington street, says J. T. Trowbridge in The Atlantic, by a friend who made this startling announcement: "Walt Whitman is in town. I have just seen him!" When I asked where, he replied: "At the stereotype foundry, just around the corner. Come along. I'll take you to him." The author of "Leaves of Grass" had loomed so large in my imagination as to seem almost superhuman, and I was filled with some such feeling of wonder and astonishment as if I had been invited to meet Socrates or King Solomon.

We found a large, gray haired and gray bearded, plainly dressed man, reading proof sheets at a desk in a little dingy office, with a lank, unwholesome looking lad at his elbow listlessly watching him. The man was Whitman, and the proofs were those of his new edition. There was a scarcity of chairs, and Whitman, rising to receive us, offered me his, but we all remained standing except the sickly looking lad, who kept his seat until Whitman turned to him and said: "You'd better go now. I'll see you this evening." After he had gone out Whitman explained: "He is a friendless boy I found at my boarding place. I am trying to cheer him up and strengthen him with my magnetism," a practical but curiously prosaic illustration of these powerful lines in the early poems:

To any one dying thither I speed and twist the knob of the door.

I seize the descending man; I raise him with resistless will.

Keep Busy.

An unhappy life is an idle one. Those who are happiest are the most earnest workers. It is folly to say that we can find no labor. Life itself is a stupendous task. It is cowardly, however, to shirk labor by feigning not to see it. Each mortal, if he does his duty, will have a busy life.

Most Unusual.

"Jigby's a queer fellow. He bought a couple of tickets from me for an amateur theatrical performance for charity."

"And he actually used them?"

"Not only that, but he says he enjoyed himself."—Catholic Standard and Times.

FOR NEW WEST POINT

Present Buildings Antiquated and Unfit For the Needs of the Military School — Barracks Crowded and Lack Modern Conveniences.

The United States Military academy at West Point is in a dilapidated condition, and extensive improvements are necessary to put it in a fit condition for the purposes for which it is intended. Congress will be asked to appropriate $10,000,000 at the present session for the rebuilding of a large portion of the institution.

Members of the committees on military affairs of both the house of representatives and the senate made a thorough inspection of the academy a few days ago, and although no formal action was taken, it was conceded by all the congressmen that the extensive improvements asked for by the war department were greatly needed and that they should be made.

Last fall the report of the board of visitors to West Point mercilessly exposed the discomforts and inconveniences of life at the academy. It said that the cadet who entered the West Point barracks the first day the institution opened its doors 100 years ago found himself surrounded by almost as many comforts and conveniences as the cadet who entered last June.

"The barracks," the report stated, "are little better equipped than the barracks at the average county poor house, and the ventilation is in accordance with the hygienic notions of a century ago and is simply execrable."

CORNER TOWER OF OLD BARRACKS.

There is not a drop of water except what is carried in buckets and pails by the cadets, and there is not a sink or bathroom.

By an act of congress March 10, 1802, fixing the military peace establishment, forty cadets were attached to the artillery and ten to the corps of engineers.

and that corps was constituted a military academy and stationed at West Point, the senior officer of engineers present being the superintendent thereof. This was the beginning of the present Military academy.

Since that time, 100 years ago, nearly all the improvements have been on the patchwork plan. There is but one building at the post constructed by the government that is in harmony with the present day and generation. All the others are old, uncomfortable and inadequate to meet present conditions. Few are equipped with any of the conveniences to be found in the average public school building in country districts.

The improvements called for in the specifications of the war department are for a new additional cadet barracks and the alteration of the present barracks, which have room for only 320 cadets if properly housed, as they should be, two in a room. At present over forty cadets are compelled to sleep three in a room. The first building to be enlarged would be the barracks by completing the quadrangle and adding eight divisions. These divisions would accommodate thirty-two cadets each, so that the enlarged building would accommodate 640 cadets properly. The number now on the rolls is 459.

The improvements contemplated include also the building of a new mess hall for bachelor officers, thus allowing the present building to be used exclusively by cadets. The accommodations at present are a constant source of annoyance through overcrowding.

In order to provide proper facilities for the riding school a new hall 300 feet long and 100 feet wide must be provided. The present building is but 75 by 85 feet. This building may be converted into stables.

These are but a fraction of the improvements contemplated, but serve to indicate the pressing need for improvements required for this historic institution, to the end that in the near future the Military academy, by reason of its splendid equipment as well as its great name, may be an inspiration and a source of pride to the people of the United States and at the same time attract the attention of the world.

AN ANECDOTE OF WHITMAN.

How the Poet Was Trying to Cheer Up a Friendless Boy.

One day I was stopped on Washington street, says J. T. Trowbridge in The Atlantic, by a friend who made this startling announcement: "Walt Whitman is in town. I have just seen him." When I asked where, he replied: "At the stereotypy foundry, just around the corner. Come along. I'll take you to him." The author of "Leaves of Grass" had loomed so large in my imagination as to seem almost superhuman, and I was filled with some such feeling of wonder and astonishment as if I had been invited to meet Socrates or King Solomon.

We found a large, gray haired and gray bearded, plainly dressed man, reading proof sheets at a desk in a little dingy office, with a lank, unwholesome looking lad at his elbow listlessly watching him. The man was Whitman, and the proofs were those of his new edition. There was a scarcity of chairs, and Whitman, rising to receive us, offered me his, but we all remained standing except the sickly looking lad, who kept his seat until Whitman turned to him and said: "You'd better go now. I'll see you this evening." After he had gone out Whitman explained: "He is a friendless boy I found at my boarding place. I am trying to cheer him up and strengthen him with my magnetism." A practical but curiously prosaic illustration of these powerful lines in the early poems:

To any one dying thither I speed and twist the knob of the door.

I seize the descending man; I raise him with resistless will.

Every room of the house do I fill with an armed force, lovers of one, bafflers of graves.

Wellsville lodge No. 98, Amalgamated association, and the Lisbon lodge, at meetings held recently, nominated delegates to represent their lodges at Wheeling April 22, when one of the most important conventions in the history of the association will be held. The delegates will be elected Saturday night, March 1. It will be necessary for the great majority of the delegates from the Pittsburgh belt to pass through this city when en route to Wheeling and the Wellsville lodge is making preparations to have the whole contingent stop over for a few hours when on their return trip home. An elegant banquet will be served the visitors and many other enjoyable features for their entertainment are being arranged.

DEBT AND DAMAGE

Claimed By Mrs. Orr in a Suit Against Edwin K. Anderson.

Mrs. Margaret Orr has entered suit in Squire MacKenzie's court against Edwin K. Anderson for the sum of $299.90 with interest from August, 1901. Mrs. Orr claims that the defendant owes for that amount for some stone which he purchased from her and for damages incurred to her yard and house by the removing of the stone from her quarry, which is located at the rear of her home, East End.

The case will likely be tried this evening before a jury. There are 11 witnesses, and it is said that attorneys have been employed by both parties.

WAR UPON RATS

Declared By Ticket Men Who Have Been Very Much Annoyed.

Edward Harrigan and William Shultz, freight and ticket agents, respectively, at the West End depot, have some exciting times during the last few days with a large number of black rats which have made the depot their headquarters. Harrigan succeeded in killing three of them yesterday, and they are on exhibition at a local barber shop.

Several big traps have been set and target guns will be procured, if possible, to exterminate the creatures which are not alone dangerous, but have wrought considerable damage to books, etc., in the office.

SHORTAGE OF GAS

Necessitated the Temporary Shut-Down of the Wellsville Mill.

PRESIDENT CONDEMNS SCHLEY.

His "Reprehensible" Conduct
Should Have Prevented His Being Second In Charge
of Fleet.

SAMPSON'S PLANS WERE FOLLOWED IN THE BATTLE.

Neither Gave Orders That Were Followed In Battle—Schley Only Directed the Brooklyn—The Famous "Loop" Condemned — Otherwise, Schley Did Admirably In Battle. President McKinley's Decision That Sampson Technically Was In Command Approved.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The decision of President Roosevelt to the appeal of Admiral Schley is dated Washington, Feb. 18, and said in part:

It appears that the court of inquiry was unanimous in its findings of fact and unanimous in its expressions of opinion on most of its findings of fact. No appeal is made to me from the verdict of the court on these points where it was unanimous. I have, however, gone carefully over the evidence on these points also. I am satisfied that on the whole the court did substantial justice.

Should Have Condemned Blockade.

It should have specifically condemned the failure to enforce an efficient night blockade at Santiago while Admiral Schley was in command. On the other hand, I feel that there is no reasonable doubt whether he did not move his squadron with sufficient expedition from port to port. The court is a unit in condemning Admiral Schley's action on the point where it seems to me he most gravely erred; his "retrograde movement" when he abandoned the blockade, and his disobedience of orders and misstatement of facts in relation thereto. It should be remembered, however, that the majority of these actions which the court censures occurred five weeks or more before the fight itself; and it certainly seems that if Schley's actions were censurable he should not have been left as second in command under Admiral Sampson. His offenses were in effect condoned when he was not called to account for them. Admiral Sampson, after the fight, in an official letter to the department, alluded for the first time to Admiral Schley's "reprehensible conduct" six weeks previously. If Admiral Schley was guilty of reprehensible conduct of a kind which called for such notice from Admiral Sampson, then Admiral Sampson ought not to have left him as senior officer of the blockading squadron on the 3d of July, when he (Sampson) steamed away on his proper errand of communication with General Shafter.

As to Which Was In Command.

The point raised in the appeal is between Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley, as to which was in command, and as to which was entitled to the credit, if either of them was really entitled to any unusual and pre-eminent credit by any special exhibition of genius, skill and courage. The court could have considered both of these questions, but as a matter of fact it unanimously excluded evidence offered upon them, and through its president announced its refusal to hear Admiral Sampson's side at all; and in view of such exclusion the majority of the court acted with entire propriety in not expressing any opinion on these points. The matter has, however, been raised by the president of the court.

Appeal From McKinley's Decision.

Five-sixths of the appeal is devoted to this question of command and credit; that is, to matter which the court of inquiry did not consider. It is in effect an appeal from the action of President McKinley three years ago, when he sent in the recommendations for promotion for the various officers connected with the Santiago squadron, basing these recommendations upon his estimate of the credit to which the officers were respectively entitled. What I have to decide, therefore, is whether or not President McKinley did injustice in the matter. This necessarily involves a comparison of the actions of the different commanders engaged. The exhaustive official reports of the action leave little to be brought out anew; but as the question of Admiral Sampson's right to be considered in chief command, which was determined in his favor by President McKinley, and later by the court of claims, has never hitherto been officially raised, I deemed it best to secure statements of the commanders of the five ships (other than the Brooklyn and New York, the flagships of the two admirals) which were actively engaged in the fight. Admiral Philip is dead. I quote extract from his magazine article on the fight, written immediately after it occurred; closing with an extract from his letter to the Secretary of the Navy of February 27, 1899.

Here follows the extract from Philip's article, then statements from the different then captains and also Wainwright.

Survey of Shots' Effects.

The survey of the damages of the four Spanish war vessels shows that in addition to several score hits by the six-pounder and one-pounder guns of the American fleet, they were struck 43 times by the larger guns of four inches calibre and over. The Colon, which came out inside the others and did comparatively little fighting, received but three of these hits. The other three ships, which bore the brunt of the action, received 40 among them. Of these 40, 11, according to the report of the board which examined into them, were by four-inch guns, 10 by five-inch guns, four by either four or five-inch (the board could not determine which), while one was by either a five or six-inch, 12 were by eight-inch and two by 12-inch guns. All of our big ships except the Texas had eight-inch guns. Only the Texas and Iowa had 12-inch guns. The Oregon and Indiana had 13-inch guns, and they and the Texas had six-inch guns. The only four-inch guns were on the Iowa; the only five-inch guns on the Brooklyn.

Where Shots Came From.

Therefore on the three Spanish ships which did the bulk of the fighting, out of the 40 large calibre shots that struck them 11 certainly came from the Iowa, 10 certainly came from the Brooklyn, four from either the Iowa or the Brooklyn, and two from either the Iowa or the Texas. Of the three which struck the Colon two were five-inch and must have come from the Brooklyn; one was either a five-inch or a six-inch. It must be remembered that the four and five-inch guns were the only quick firers above six-pounders in our fleet, and that they were not only much more rapidly but much more surely handled than were the larger and slower firing guns. The damage and loss of the American vessels were trivial. The only loss suffered was aboard the Brooklyn, where one man was killed and one wounded. In damage, the cost of repairs shows that the Oregon suffered most and the Texas least.

Act of Gloucester Most Striking.

The American ships engaged possessed a more than twofold material superiority over the Spanish ships, and the difference in the handling of their guns and their engines was even greater. We have just cause to be proud of the vigilance and instant readiness our ships displayed, and the workmanlike efficiency with which they were handled. The most striking act was that of the Gloucester, a converted yacht, which her commander, Wainwright, pushed into the fight through a hail of projectiles, any one of which would have sunk her, in order that he might do his part in destroying the two torpedo boats, each possessing far more than his own offensive power.

How the Battle Was Fought.

From the statements of the captains above, from the official reports, and from the testimony before the court of inquiry, the fight can be plotted with absolute certainty in its important outlines, though there is conflict as to minor points. When the four Spanish cruisers came out of the harbor the New York had left her position in the blockading line 40 or 45 minutes before. She had hoisted the signal "Disregard the movements of the commander-in-chief," but had not hoisted the signal to the second in command to take charge, which, as appears by the signal book, was sometimes, but not always, used when the command was transferred. As soon as the engagement began the New York turned and steamed back, hoisting a signal to close in, which, however, none of the squadron saw. She was in plain sight, and not very much farther from the easternmost blockading ships than the latter were from the Brooklyn, which was the westernmost of the line.

According to Sampson's Plan.

As soon as the Spanish ships appeared the five big American blockaders started toward them in accordance with the standing orders of Admiral Sampson. After this first move each acted purely on his own initiative. For some minutes the Spanish and American vessels steadily approached one another, and the fighting was at its hottest. Then the already damaged Spanish ships turned to the westward, while at the same time the westernmost American vessel, the Brooklyn, which was nearest the Spanish line, turned to the eastward, making a loop or three-quarter circle, at the end of which she again headed westward, farther off from and farther behind the Spanish vessels than before the loop had begun, but still ahead of any of the American vessels, although farther outside. The Texas, the next ship to the Brooklyn, either was or conceived herself to be put in such jeopardy by the Brooklyn's turn toward her that she backed her engines, coming almost or quite to a standstill; so that both the Oregon and the Iowa, which were originally to the eastward of her, passed her, and it was some time after she again started before she regained her former position relative to the Spanish vessels. The Spanish vessels had straightened out in column for the west, the Colon going inside of the others and gradually forging ahead of them, without suffering much damage. The two torpedo boats, which had followed them out of the harbor, were now destroyed by the fire of the rear-most of the American big vessels and of the Gloucester, which headed straight in for them, paying no more heed to their quick-fire guns than to the heavy artillery of the forts, to which she was also exposed.

Indiana Gradually Dropped Behind.

In the running fight which followed, until the Teresa, Oquendo and Viscaya were destroyed, the Indiana gradually dropped behind, although she continued to fire until the last of the three vessels went ashore. The Brooklyn was ahead of any of the other American vessels on a course outside theirs; she was nearly broadside on to the Spaniards. The Oregon, Iowa and Texas were all close together and actively engaged throughout this running fight. The Brooklyn and Oregon, followed at some distance by the Texas, then continued in chase of the Colon, which went nearly 30 miles farther before she also went ashore. During this chase of the Colon there was practically no fighting.

These are the facts as set forth above in the statements of the captains, and elsewhere in their official reports and testimony. They leave no room for doubt on any important point.

The question of command is in this case nominal and technical. Admiral Sampson's ship, the New York, was seen at the outset of the fight from all the other ships except the Brooklyn. Four of these five ship captains have testified that they regarded him as present and in command. He signaled "Close in" to the fleet as soon as the first Spanish ship appeared, but his signal was not seen by any American vessel. He was actually under fire from the forts, and himself fired a couple of shots, at the close of the action with the torpedo boats, in addition to signaling the Indiana just at the close of the action. But during the action not a single order from him was received by any of the ships that were actively engaged.

Schley Carried Out Sampson's Plan.

Admiral Schley at the outset of the action hoisted the two signals of "Clear ship" and "Close in," which was simply carrying out the standing orders of Admiral Sampson as to what should be done if the enemy's ships attempted to break out of the harbor. Until after the close of the first portion of the fight at the mouth of the harbor, and until after he had made his loop and the Spanish ships were fleeing to the westward, not another American ship noticed a signal from him. When the western pursuit had begun the Oregon, and the Oregon only, noticed and repeated one of his signals of command. The captain of the Oregon then regarded him as in command, but did not in any shape or way execute any movement or any action of any kind whatsoever in accordance with any order from him.

In short, the question as to which of the two men, Admiral Sampson or Admiral Schley, was at the time in command, is of merely nominal character. Technically Sampson commanded the fleet, and Schley, as usual, the western division. The actual fact, the important fact, is that after the battle was joined not a helm was shifted, not a gun was fired, not a pound of steam was put on in the engine room aboard any ship actively engaged, in obedience to the order of either Sampson or Schley, save on their own two vessels. It was a captain's fight.

Neither In Actual Command.

Therefore the credit to which each of the two is entitled rests on matters apart from the claim of nominal command over the squadron; for so far as the actual fight was concerned neither one nor the other in fact exercised any command. Sampson was hardly more than technically in the fight. His real claim for credit rests upon his work as commander-in-chief; upon the excellence of the blockade; upon the preparedness of the squadron; upon the arrangement of the ships head-on in a semicircle around the harbor; and the standing orders in accordance with which they instantly moved to the attack of the Spaniards when the latter appeared. For all these things the credit is his. Admiral Schley is rightly entitled

AN OPPORTUNITY

Many people would like to honor the memory of departed loved ones with a handsome monument, but the high prices demanded by the local monument dealers prevent them. We sell and deliver fine monuments or headstones at much lower prices than similar stones can be obtained elsewhere. Most of our local monument dealers work by expensive hand methods, while our work is done by the most improved labor saving machinery. Machine work not only lessens the cost of the monument, but insures better results as the moldings, letters, etc., are cut much deeper and smoother than by hand and therefore show plainer. The stone we use is the very best—will not rust, discolor or become streaked as most granites do. We sell to monument dealers at wholesale and also sell direct to the individual buyer, delivering complete in the cemetery. Our handsome booklet with designs explains all. It's free if you mention this paper.

DUNNING MARBLE
AND GRANITE CO.
PITTSBURG, PA.

—as is Captain Cook—to the credit of what the Brooklyn did in the fight. On the whole she did well, but I agree with the unanimous finding of the court of inquiry as to the "loop." It seriously marred the Brooklyn's otherwise excellent record, being in fact the one grave mistake made by any American ship that day. Had the Brooklyn turned to the westward, that is, in the same direction that the Spanish ships were going, instead of in the contrary direction, she would undoubtedly have been in more "dangerous proximity" to them. But it would have been more dangerous for them as well as for her. This kind of danger must not be too nicely weighed by those whose trade it is to dare greatly for the honor of the flag.

Wainwright In More Danger.

Moreover, the danger was certainly not as great as that which, in the self-same movement, menaced Wainwright's fragile craft as he drove forward against the foe. It was not, in my judgment, as great as the danger to which the Texas was exposed by the turn as actually made. It certainly caused both the Brooklyn and the Texas materially to lose position compared to the fleeing Spanish vessels. But after the loop had once been taken Admiral Schley handled the Brooklyn manfully and well. She and the Oregon were therefore the headmost of the American vessels—though the Iowa certainly, and seemingly the Texas also, did as much in hammering to a standstill the Viscaya, Oquendo and Teresa, while the Indiana did all her eastward position and crippled machinery permitted. In the chase of the Colon the Brooklyn and Oregon share the credit between them.

Under such circumstances it seems to me that the recommendations of President McKinley were eminently proper, and that so far as Admirals Sampson and Schley were concerned it would have been unjust for him to have made other recommendations. Personally I feel that in view of Captain Clark's long voyage in the Oregon and the condition in which he brought her to the scene of service, as well as the way in which he actually managed her before and during the fight, it would have been well to have given him the same advancement that was given Wainwright: Sampson Deserved More Promotion.

But, waiving this, it is evident that Wainwright was entitled to receive more than any of the other commanders, and that it was just to Admiral Sampson that he should receive a greater advance in numbers than Admiral Schley—there was nothing done in the battle that warranted any unusual reward for either. In short, as regards Admirals Sampson and Schley, I find that President McKinley did substantial justice, and that there would be no warrant for reversing his action.

Both Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley are now on the retired list. In concluding their report the members of the court of inquiry, Admirals Dewey, Benham and Ramsay, unite in stating that they recommend that no further action be had in the matter. With this recommendation I most heartily concur. There is no excuse whatever from either side for any further agitation of this unhappy controversy. To keep it alive would merely do damage to the navy and to the country.

PRESIDENT CONDEMNS SCHLEY.

His "Reprehensible" Conduct
Should Have Prevented His Being Second In Charge
of Fleet.

SAMPSON'S PLANS WERE FOLLOWED IN THE BATTLE.

Neither Gave Orders That Were Followed In Battle—Schley Only Directed the Brooklyn—The Famous
"Loop" Condemned — Otherwise, Schley Did Admirably In Battle.

President McKinley's Decision That Sampson Technically Was In Command Approved.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The decision of President Roosevelt to the appeal of Admiral Schley is dated Washington, Feb. 18, and said in part:

It appears that the court of inquiry was unanimous in its findings of fact and unanimous in its expressions of opinion on most of its findings of fact. No appeal is made to me from the verdict of the court on these points where it was unanimous. I have, however, gone carefully over the evidence on these points also. I am satisfied that on the whole the court did substantial justice.

Should Have Condemned Blockade.

It should have specifically condemned the failure to enforce an efficient night blockade at Santiago while Admiral Schley was in command. On the other hand, I feel that there is a reasonable doubt whether he did not move his squadron with sufficient expedition from port to port. The court is a unit in condemning Admiral Schley's action on the point where it seems to me he most gravely erred; his "retrograde movement" when he abandoned the blockade, and his disobedience of orders and misstatement of facts in relation thereto.
It should be remembered, however, that the majority of these actions which the court censures occurred five weeks or more before the fight itself; and it certainly seems that if Schley's actions were censurable he should not have been left as second in command under Admiral Sampson. His offenses were in effect condoned when he was not called to account for them. Admiral Sampson, after the fight, in an official letter to the department, alluded for the first time to Admiral Schley's "reprehensible conduct" six weeks previously. If Admiral Schley was guilty of reprehensible conduct of a kind which called for such notice from Admiral Sampson, then Admiral Sampson ought not to have left him as senior officer of the blockading squadron on the 3d of July, when he (Sampson) steamed away on his proper errand of communication with General Shafter.

As to Which Was In Command.

The point raised in the appeal is between Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley, as to which was in command, and as to which was entitled to the credit, if either of them was really entitled to any unusual and preeminent credit by any special exhibition of genius, skill and courage. The court could have considered both of these questions, but as a matter of fact it unanimously excluded evidence offered upon them, and through its president announced its refusal to hear Admiral Sampson's side at all;
and in view of such exclusion the majority of the court acted with entire propriety in not expressing any opinion on these points. The matter has, however, been raised by the president of the court.

Appeal From McKinley's Decision.

Five-sixths of the appeal is devoted to this question of command and credit; that is, to matter which the court of inquiry did not consider. It is in effect an appeal from the action of President McKinley three years ago, when he sent in the recommendations for promotion for the various officers connected with the Santiago squadron, basing these recommendations upon his estimate of the credit to which the officers were respectively entitled. What I have to decide, therefore, is whether or not President McKinley did injustice in the matter. This necessarily involves a comparison of the actions of the different commanders engaged. The exhaustive official reports of the action leave little to be brought out anew; but as the question of Admiral Sampson's right to be considered in chief command, which was determined in his favor by President McKinley, and later by the court of claims, has never hitherto been officially raised, I deemed it best to secure statements of the commanders of the five ships (other than the Brooklyn and New York, the flagships of the two admirals) which were actively engaged in the fight. Admiral Philip is dead.

I quote extract from his magazine article on the fight, written immediately after it occurred; closing with an extract from his letter to the Secretary of the Navy of February 27, 1899.

Here follows the extract from Philip's article, then statements from the different then captains and also Wainwright.

Survey of Shots' Effects.

The survey of the damages of the four Spanish war vessels shows that in addition to several score hits by the six-pounder and one-pounder guns of the American fleet, they were struck 43 times by the larger guns of four inches calibre and over. The Colon, which came out inside the others and did comparatively little fighting, received but three of these hits.
The other three ships, which bore the brunt of the action, received 40 among them. Of these 40, 11, according to the report of the board which examined into them, were by four-inch guns, 10 by five-inch guns, four by either four or five-inch (the board could not determine which), while one was by either a five or six-inch, 12 were by eight-inch and two by 12-inch guns. All of our big ships except the Texas had eight-inch guns.
Only the Texas and Iowa had 12-inch guns. The Oregon and Indiana had 13-inch guns, and they and the Texas had six-inch guns. The only four-inch guns were on the Iowa; the only five-inch guns on the Brooklyn.

Where Shots Came From.

Therefore on the three Spanish ships which did the bulk of the fighting, out of the 40 large calibre shots that struck them 11 certainly came from the Iowa, 10 certainly came from the Brooklyn, four from either the Iowa or the Brooklyn, and two from either the Iowa or the Texas. Of the three which struck the Colon two were five-inch and must have come from the Brooklyn; one was either a five-inch or a six-inch. It must be remembered that the four and five-inch guns were the only quick fireers above six-pounders in our fleet, and that they were not only much more rapidly but much more surely handled than were the larger and slower firing guns. The damage and loss of the American vessels were trivial.
The only loss suffered was aboard the Brooklyn, where one man was killed and one wounded. In damage, the cost of repairs shows that the Iowa suffered most and the Oregon least.

Act of Gloucester Most Striking.

The American ships engaged possessed a more than twofold material superiority over the Spanish ships, and the difference in the handling of their guns and their engines was even greater. We have just cause to be proud of the vigilance and instant readiness our ships displayed, and the workmanlike efficiency with which they were handled. The most striking act was that of the Gloucester, a converted yacht, which her commander, Wainwright, pushed into the fight through a hail of projectiles, any one of which would have sunk her, in order that he might do his part in destroying the two torpedo boats, each possessing far more than his own offensive power.

How the Battle Was Fought.

From the statements of the captains above, from the official reports, and from the testimony before the court of inquiry, the fight can be plotted with absolute certainty in its important outlines, though there is conflict as to minor points. When the four Spanish cruisers came out of the harbor the New York had left her position in the blockading line 40 or 45 minutes before. She had hoisted the signal "Disregard the movements of the commander-in-chief," but had not hoisted the signal to the second in command to take charge, which, as appears by the signal book, was sometimes, but not always, used when the command was transferred. As soon as the engagement began the New York turned and steamed back, hoisting a signal to close in, which, however, none of the squadron saw. She was in plain sight, and not very much farther from the easternmost blockading ships than the latter were from the Brooklyn, which was the westernmost of the line.

According to Sampson's Plan.

As soon as the Spanish ships appeared the five big American blockaders started toward them in accordance with the standing orders of Admiral Sampson. After this first move each acted purely on his own initiative. For some minutes the Spanish and American vessels stealily approached one another, and the fighting was at its hottest. Then the already damaged Spanish ships turned to the westward, while at the same time the westernmost American vessel, the Brooklyn, which was nearest the Spanish line, turned to the eastward, making a loop or three-quarter circle, at the end of which she again headed westward, farther off from and farther behind the Spanish vessels than before the loop had begun, but still ahead of any of the American vessels, although farther outside. The Texas, the next ship to the Brooklyn, either was or conceived herself to be put in such jeopardy by the Brooklyn's turn toward her that she backed her engines, coming almost or quite to a standstill; so that both the Oregon and the Iowa, which were originally to the eastward of her, passed her, and it was some time after she again started before she regained her former position relative to the Spanish vessels. The Spanish vessels had straightened out in column for the west, the Colon going inside of the others and gradually forging ahead of them, without suffering much damage. The two torpedo boats, which had followed them out of the harbor, were now destroyed by the fire of the rearmost of the American big vessels and of the Gloucester, which headed straight in for them, paying no more heed to their quick-fire guns than to the heavy artillery of the forts, to which she was also exposed.

Indiana Gradually Dropped Behind.

In the running fight which followed, until the Teresa, Oquendo and Viscaya were destroyed, the Indiana gradually dropped behind, although she continued to fire until the last of the three vessels went ashore. The Brooklyn was ahead of any of the other American vessels on a course outside theirs; she was nearly broad-side on to the Spaniards. The Oregon, Iowa and Texas were all close together and actively engaged throughout this running fight. The Brooklyn and Oregon, followed at some distance by the Texas, then continued in chase of the Colon, which went nearly 20 miles farther before she also went ashore. During this chase of the Colon there was practically no fighting.

These are the facts as set forth above in the statements of the captains, and elsewhere in their official reports and testimony. They leave no room for doubt on any important point.

The question of command is in this case nominal and technical. Admiral Sampson's ship, the New York, was seen at the outset of the fight from all the other ships except the Brooklyn. Four of these five ship captains have testified that they regarded him as present and in command. He signaled "Close in" to the fleet as soon as the first Spanish ship appeared, but his signal was not seen by any American vessel. He was actually under fire from the forts, and himself fired a couple of shots, at the close of the action with the torpedo boats, in addition to signaling the Indiana just at the close of the action. But during the action not a single order from him was received by any of the ships that were actively engaged.

Schley Carried Out Sampson's Plan.

Admiral Schley at the outset of the action hoisted the two signals of "Clear ship" and "Close in," which was simply carrying out the standing orders of Admiral Sampson as to what should be done if the enemy's ships attempted to break out of the harbor. Until after the close of the first portion of the fight at the mouth of the harbor, and until after he had made his loop and the Spanish ships were fleeing to the westward, not another American ship noticed a signal from him. When the western pursuit had begun the Oregon, and the Oregon only, noticed and repeated one of his signals of command.
The captain of the Oregon then regarded him as in command, but did not in any shape or way execute any movement or any action of any kind whatsoever in accordance with any order from him.

In short, the question as to which of the two men, Admiral Sampson or Admiral Schley, was at the time in command, is of merely nominal character. Technically Sampson commanded the fleet, and Schley, as usual, the western division. The actual fact, the important fact, is that after the battle was joined not a helm was shifted, not a gun was fired, not a pound of steam was put on in the engine room aboard any ship actively engaged, in obedience to the order of either Sampson or Schley, save on their own two vessels. It was a captain's fight.

Neither In Actual Command.

Therefore the credit to which each of the two is entitled rests on matters apart from the claim of nominal command over the squadron; for so far as the actual fight was concerned neither one nor the other in fact exercised any command. Sampson was hardly more than technically in the fight. His real claim for credit rests upon his work as commander-in-chief; upon the excellence of the blockade; upon the preparedness of the squadron; upon the arrangement of the ships head-on in a semicircle around the harbor; and the standing orders in accordance with which they instantly moved to the attack of the Spaniards when the latter appeared.
For all these things the credit is his.
Admiral Schley is rightly entitled

AN OPPORTUNITY

Many people would like to honor the memory of departed loved ones with a handsome monument, but the high prices demanded by the local monument dealers prevent them.
We sell and deliver fine monuments or headstones at much lower prices than similar stones can be obtained for elsewhere.
Most of your local monument dealers work by expensive hand methods, while our work is done by the most improved labor saving machinery. Machine work not only lessens the cost of the monument, but insures better results as the moldings, letters, etc., are cut much deeper and smoother than by hand and therefore show plainer.
The stone we use is the very best—will not rust, discolor or become streaked as most granites do.
We sell to monument dealers at wholesale and also sell direct to the individual buyer, delivering complete in the cemetery.
Our handsome booklet with designs explains all. It's free if you mention this paper.

DUNNING MARBLE
AND GRANITE CO.
PITTSBURG, PA.

—as is Captain Cook—to the credit of what the Brooklyn did in the fight.
On the whole she did well, but I agree with the unanimous finding of the three admirals who composed the court of inquiry as to the "loop." It seriously marred the Brooklyn's otherwise excellent record, being in fact the one grave mistake made by any American ship that day. Had the Brooklyn turned to the westward, that is, in the same direction that the Spanish ships were going, instead of in the contrary direction, she would undoubtedly have been in more "dangerous proximity" to them. But it would have been more dangerous for them as well as for her. This kind of danger must not be too nicely weighed by those whose trade it is to dare greatly for the honor of the flag.

Wainwright In More Danger.

Moreover, the danger was certainly not as great as that which, in the self-same movement, menaced Wainwright's fragile craft as he drove forward against the foe. It was not, in my judgment, as great as the danger to which the Texas was exposed by the turn as actually made.
It certainly caused both the Brooklyn and the Texas materially to lose position compared to the fleeing Spanish vessels. But after the loop had once been taken Admiral Schley handled the Brooklyn manfully and well. She and the Oregon were therefore the headmost of the American vessels—though the Iowa certainly, and seemingly the Texas also, did as much in hammering to a standstill the Viscaya, Oquendo and Teresa, while the Indiana did all her eastward position and crippled machinery permitted. In the chase of the Colon the Brooklyn and Oregon share the credit between them.

Under such circumstances it seems to me that the recommendations of President McKinley were eminently proper, and that so far as Admirals Sampson and Schley were concerned, it would have been unjust for him to have made other recommendations.
Personally I feel that in view of Captain Clark's long voyage in the Oregon and the condition in which he brought her to the scene of service, as well as the way in which he actually managed her before and during the fight, it would have been well to have given him the same advancement that was given Wainwright.

Sampson Deserved More Promotion.
But, waiving this, it is evident that Wainwright was entitled to receive more than any of the other commanders, and that it was just to Admiral Sampson that he should receive a greater advance in numbers than Admiral Schley—there was nothing done in the battle that warranted any unusual reward for either. In short, as regards Admirals Sampson and Schley, I find that President McKinley did substantial justice, and that there would be no warrant for reversing his action.

Both Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley are now on the retired list. In concluding their report the members of the court of inquiry, Admirals Dewey, Benham and Ramsay, unite in stating that they recommend that no further action be had in the matter. With this recommendation I most heartily concur. There is no excuse whatever from either side for any further agitation of this unhappy controversy. To keep it alive would merely do damage to the navy and to the country.

BOWING TO ROYALTY.

Subject of a Speech by Which Boutell Entertained the House.

BROMWELL, OF OHIO, SPOKE,

As Did Kern, of Illinois, and Fleming,
of Georgia, on the Issue Raised by Wheeler's Speech—Senate Considered Philippine Tariff Bill.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Again yesterday the general debate on the Indian appropriation bill was devoted almost entirely to extraneous topics. As on Tuesday the issue raised by Mr. Wheeler (Ky.) a few days ago came in for considerable attention and was the feature of the session. Mr. Bromwell, an Ohio Republican; Mr. Kern, an Illinois Democrat; and Mr. Fleming, a Georgia Democrat, added their views to the literature on the subject, but it was Mr. Boutell, an Illinois Republican, who entertained the house most. He was well fortified with material, and with exceeding good temper and a trenchant display of wit he traced the history of what Mr. Wheeler had called "truculent sycophancy," as he said, from the day when the first Democratic president purchased a bogus coat of arms to the entertainment of Queen Liliuokalani by the last Democratic president. He finally dismissed the whole subject by saying it should be accepted abroad as one of the "erratic and sporadic phases of American humor."

Mr. Hamilton, a Michigan Republican, enlivened the proceedings with an entertaining speech on trusts. The other speakers were Mr. Little (Ark.), who discussed conditions in the Indian territory; Mr. Corliss (Mich.), who spoke on the Pacific cable; Mr. Stephens (Texas), on statehood for Oklahoma; Mr. Sulzer (N. Y.), on increased pay for letter carriers; Mr. Fitzgerald (N. Y.), on the education of the Indians; Mr. Jackson (Kan.), on election of senators by the people, and Mr. Newlands (Nev.), on the bill to redeem silver dollars in gold.

Senate Considered Philippines Bill.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The senate continued the consideration of the Philippine tariff bill yesterday, the main speeches being made by Mr. Burrows (Mich.), for the bill, and Mr. Money (Miss.), against it, although Mr. Mitchell (Ore.), Mr. Foraker (O.), Mr. Mallory (Fla.) and Mr. Tillman (S. C.) all took more or less part in the general debate on the subject.

Mr. Burrows maintained that congress was dealing with the question as it was today and not with any reference to what took place in the past or might take place in the future. He maintained that the United States' occupancy of the islands was with due regard to the international obligations. Mr. Mallory (Fla.) spoke particularly in favor of his amendment to that portion of the bill relating to the navigation laws, and said that it was necessary in the interest of American shipping.

Mr. Money maintained that it was not so much a question of what could be done with the Filipinos as it was to legislate in the interests of our own people. There were several rather lively exchanges between Mr. Foraker and the opposition senators during the debate.

COMMON PROPERTY

Public Praise Is Public Property—E.
Liverpool People May Profit
by Local Experience.

Grateful people will talk.
Tell their experience for the public good.

East Liverpool citizens praise Doan's Kidney Pills.

Kidney sufferers appreciate this.
They find relief for every kidney ill.
Read what this citizen says:

Mr. H. Thompson, of 306 Fourth street, presser at the D. E. McNicol pottery, and resident of East Liverpool for the past 45 years, says: "During my campaign experience between the years of '61 and '64 contracted a weakness of the kidneys, and at intervals I had an aching pain across the small of my back, and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down and in fact could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. They filled the bill exactly. They gave me almost immediate relief and warded off the last attack."

OLD STAGE COACHES

THE LINE THAT RAN BETWEEN KANSAS AND CALIFORNIA.

It Cost $225 For the Through Trip, and Seats Often Brought a Big Bonus—How One Load of Passengers Amused Themselves.

The stage line between Atchison and Placerville, Cal., which ran daily coaches for about five years in 1890-95, was the finest ever known in the stagecoach business. In equipment no similar line could equal it. It was the greatest stage line on the globe, carrying passengers, mail and express.

In 1894-95 it cost more for meals between Atchison and Denver than the railroad fare now costs, with meals added. The run from Atchison to Denver is now made in something like fifteen hours as against six days in the stagecoach days. At one time the fare from Atchison to Denver was $175; the railroad fare at present is $15. The quickest time ever made by stage between Atchison and Denver was four and a half days. Ben Holladay, owner of the line, traveled by special coaches from Placerville, Cal., to Atchison, 2,000 miles, in twelve days and two hours, beating the regular daily schedule five days. This feat cost Holladay $20,000, but it was a great advertisement for his line. The stages, when crowded, carried fifteen persons, besides great quantities of mail and express.

One of the coaches used on the Atchison-Placerville line is now in the Smithsonian institution at Washington. After leaving Atchison it was operated on the Deadwood line and was several times captured by Indians and outlaws. Once when captured by outlaws it carried $60,000 in gold. In this attack three guards were killed. Buffalo Bill heard that the old coach had been abandoned and went after it, using it for years in his wild west show. In London it carried the Prince of Wales, and all the notables of Europe examined it with interest. On the Fourth of July, 1895, this famous old coach was exhibited with the wild west show at Concord, N. H., where it was made. The owners and employees of the stagecoach factory gave the historic old stage a great deal of attention, and in the parade it bore this sign: "1895—Home Again—1895."

Including Atchison and Placerville, there were 153 stations on the line, the longest in existence (1,913 miles). The fare was $225, or about 12 cents a mile. The stations were from ten to fourteen miles apart. Some days $2,000 was taken in at the stage office in Atchison for fares alone. Each passenger was allowed twenty-five pounds of baggage; each pound of excess cost $1, which was the price for carrying express. The fare to Denver during the war was $175, or 27 cents a mile per passenger. The stages were nearly always crowded, and passengers were often compelled to wait several days at Atchison before they could be accommodated. A minister once refused to travel on Sunday and abandoned his place. He did not get a chance to go until the following Sunday, and this time he concluded that, under certain circumstances, traveling on Sunday was excusable. Sometimes passengers booked for a certain day sold out for a bonus of from $20 to $50 and waited for a later stage.

The quickest route between New York and San Francisco at that time was by way of Atchison. The western terminus of the line was changed from St. Joseph to Atchison on completion of the Hannibal and St. Joseph road to this point, as Atchison was eight miles nearer Placerville than St. Joseph. The stage line ran a little north of west from Atchison, crossing the Big Blue at Marysville, 100 miles west; then continuing in a northwesterly course up the north side of the Little Blue and over the divide into the Platte valley; thence by way of Fort Kearney, Plum Creek and Julesburg to Denver. The road between Atchison and Denver was in the form of a crescent. O'Fallon's Bluff was 100 miles north of Atchison and Denver. The easiest part of the line was between Atchison and Fort Kearney. The schedule time of the stages was four and a half miles an hour, night and day, including stops. Occasionally the drivers would make fifteen miles an hour, and the passengers thought it very fast. The express messengers received $62.50 a month, with free meals, and were compelled to ride beside the driver six days and nights without rest, except as they could sleep while the stage was in motion. They received a lay over of nine days every three weeks. On going to bed after a trip they frequently slept twenty-four hours without moving. Drivers received from $40 to $75 a month and board. On the main line there were 2,750 horses and mules and 100 coaches. The annual cost of operating the line was $2,425,000.

The passengers were nearly all men, and they had a hard time amusing themselves. A gay party of eight once started from Atchison, and they sang for two days and nights, using ribald words to old church tunes. Finally one man proposed a collection. With the money thus raised they bought a jug of whisky at a station. Then there were a spree and quarrelling and poker playing. One man said he had been robbed by one of the players, and he insisted so strongly on a fight that the stage was stopped and a ring formed. The two drunken men rushed at each other, bumped each other down and could not get up. The other men helped the fighters to their feet, and the harmless battle was renewed. Finally the driver would wait no longer, and the stage went on, with the passengers quarrelling on the inside. At last they engaged in a general fight and then went off into a drunken sleep.—Atchison Globe.

COLLEGE ATHLETES.

Strength and Endurance the Result of Proper Training.

Blood Wine—Used at Principal
Universities—Improves General
Health of Students.

The interest in college athletics is undoubtedly growing. This is due to several causes. Probably the first reason is that of making a name for oneself—which goes down in history and becomes a monument to one's memory—respected and honored by the succeeding generations and constituents of the several institutions of learning.

The fact that athletics, as now indulged in throughout the country, has been a means of turning sickly, puny men into sturdy specimens of manhood is also a very great inducement, and serves to arouse athletic instincts in thousands of young fellows, who would otherwise have no aspirations in that direction.

The training of a college athlete is a good example for everyone to follow throughout life.

FRANK J. KERNS.

Where can you find any better representatives of good health, good dispositions, good cheer and good citizenship?

These fellows are made what they are. Proper food, good hours, careful medical examinations and advice enable them to rid their systems of disease and supplant weakness with strength. How many deaths take place in our large colleges? Few, not as many as in towns with half the population. "Blood Wine" is used in nearly all of the great colleges. It is one of the essentials when in training. It makes muscle and sinew because it contains ingredients that separate the nutrition from the waste in our food and turn it right into the vital substances of the system. It differs from anything else ever prescribed, simply because it was made to do just that very thing. College professors of Materia Medica and chemistry in advising their students to use "Blood Wine" recognize in it this peculiar property not to be found elsewhere in a medicine all prepared and ready to take. No injurious drugs or opiates enter into its composition.

"Blood Wine" is certainly the most potent of any medicine I ever used while training. It seems to correct the wrong activity of every organ of your system. I take it right along—wouldn't be without it—because I believe it as much a food as a germ killer and I have yet to see the first day that it hasn't kept me feeling fine. I find that nearly all college men take it and meet with the same results. FRANK J. KERNS, Capt. Georgetown "Varsity Crew."

If you have a cough, a cold, if your lungs are affected or you have kidney troubles, rheumatism, dyspepsia, lameness of your joints, pains in your back or chest, if you don't sleep well, can't relish a good meal or are pale or losing flesh, "Blood Wine," just as sure as gospel, will help you, because it begins at the bottom. It makes new blood of old. Investigate it for yourself, go to the druggist and get a free sample, read the literature and bear in mind always that "Blood Wine" represents not an old but a new, modern method of treating disease. It contains no wine or opiates. Get it or your sample at Will Reed and Hodson's drug stores.

BOWING TO ROYALTY.

Subject of a Speech by Which Boutell Entertained the House.

BROMWELL, OF OHIO, SPOKE.

As Did Kern, of Illinois, and Fleming,
of Georgia, on the Issue Raised by Wheeler's Speech—Senate Considered Philippine Tariff Bill.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Again yesterday the general debate on the Indian appropriation bill was devoted almost entirely to extraneous topics. As on Tuesday the issue raised by Mr. Wheeler (Ky.) a few days ago came in for considerable attention and was the feature of the session. Mr. Bromwell, an Ohio Republican; Mr. Kern, an Illinois Democrat, and Mr. Fleming, a Georgia Democrat, added their views to the literature on the subject, but it was Mr. Boutell, an Illinois Republican, who entertained the house most. He was well fortified with material, and with exceeding good temper and a trenchant display of wit he traced the history of what Mr. Wheeler had called "truculent sycophancy," as he said, from the day when the first Democratic president purchased a bogus coat of arms to the entertainment of Queen Liliuokalani by the last Democratic president. He finally dismissed the whole subject by saying it should be accepted abroad as one of the "erratic and sporadic phases of American humor."

Mr. Hamilton, a Michigan Republican, enlivened the proceedings with an entertaining speech on trusts. The other speakers were Mr. Little (Ark.), who discussed conditions in the Indian territory; Mr. Corliss (Mich.), who spoke on the Pacific cable; Mr. Stephens (Texas), on statehood for Oklahoma; Mr. Sulzer (N. Y.), on increased pay for letter carriers; Mr. Fitzgerald (N. Y.), on the education of the Indians; Mr. Jackson (Kan.), on election of senators by the people, and Mr. Newlands (Nev.), on the bill to redeem silver dollars in gold.

Senate Considered Philippines Bill.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The senate continued the consideration of the Philippine tariff bill yesterday, the main speeches being made by Mr. Burrows (Mich.), for the bill, and Mr. Money (Miss.), against it, although Mr. Mitchell (Ore.), Mr. Foraker (O.), Mr. Mallory (Fla.) and Mr. Tillman (S. C.) all took more or less part in the general debate on the subject.

Mr. Burrows maintained that congress was dealing with the question as it was today and not with any reference to what took place in the past or might take place in the future. He maintained that the United States' occupancy of the islands was with due regard to the international obligations. Mr. Mallory (Fla.) spoke particularly in favor of his amendment to that portion of the bill relating to the navigation laws, and said that it was necessary in the interest of American shipping.

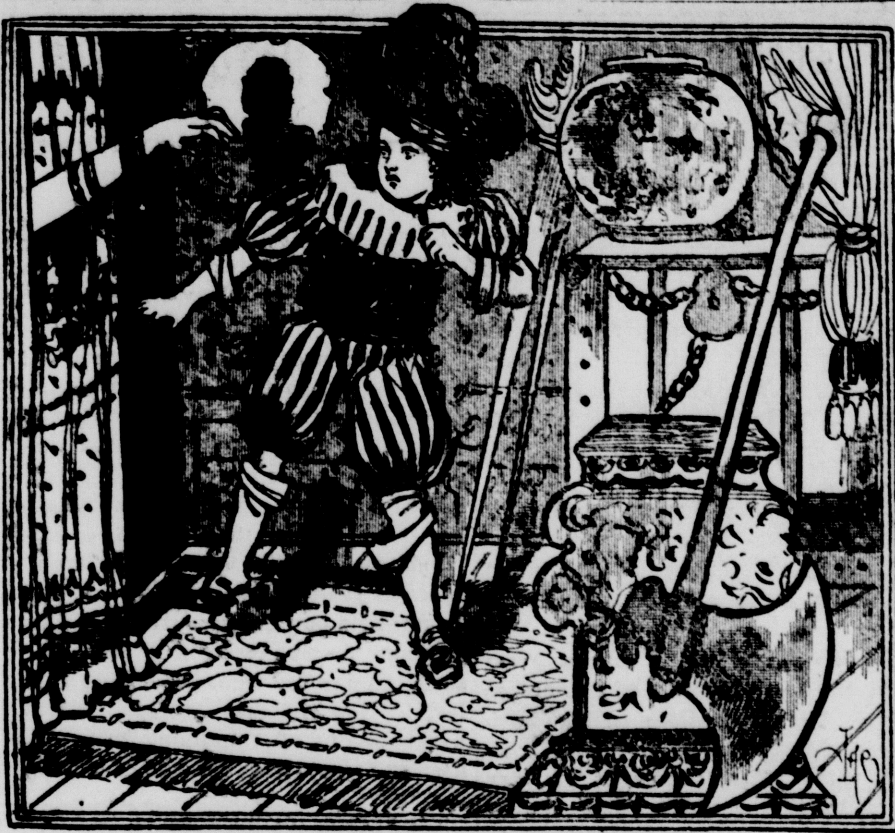

Mr. Money maintained that it was not so much a question of what could be done with the Filipinos as it was to legislate in the interests of our own people. There were several rather lively exchanges between Mr. Foraker and the opposition senators during the debate.

I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down and in fact could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy. They filled the bill exactly. They gave me almost immediate relief and worked off the last attack."

COLLEGE ATHLETES.

Strength and Endurance the Result of Proper Training.

Blood Wine—Used at Principal
Health of Students.

The interest in college athletics is undoubtedly growing. This is due to several causes. Probably the first reason is that of making a name for oneself—which goes down in history and becomes a monument to one's memory—respected and honored by the succeeding generations and constituents of the several institutions of learning.

The fact that athletics, as now indulged in throughout the country, has been a means of turning sickly, puny men into sturdy specimens of manhood is also a very great inducement, and serves to arouse athletic instincts in thousands of young fellows, who would otherwise have no aspirations in that direction.

The training of a college athlete is a good example for everyone to follow throughout life.

FRANK J. KERNS.

Where can you find any better representatives of good health, good dispositions, good cheer and good citizenship?

These fellows are made what they are. Proper food, good hours, careful medical examinations and advice enable them to rid their systems of disease and supplant weakness with strength. How many deaths take place in our large colleges? Few, not as many as in towns with half the population. "Blood Wine" is used in nearly all of the great colleges. It is one of the essentials when in training. It makes muscle and sinew because it contains ingredients that separate the nutrition from the waste in our food and turn it right into the vital substances of the system. It differs from anything else ever prescribed, simply because it was made to do just that very thing. College professors of Materia Medica and chemistry in advising their students to use "Blood Wine" recognize in it this peculiar property not to be found elsewhere in a medicine all prepared and ready to take. No injurious drugs or opiates enter into its composition.

"Blood Wine" is certainly the most potent of any medicine I ever used while training. It seems to correct the wrong activity of every organ of your system. I take it right along—wouldn't be without it—because I believe it as much a food as a germ killer and I have yet to see the first day that it hasn't kept me feeling fine. I find that nearly all college men take it and meet with the same results. FRANK J. KERNS, Capt. Georgetown Varsity Crew.

If you have a cough, a cold, if your lungs are affected or you have kidney troubles, rheumatism, dyspepsia, lameness of your joints, pains in your back or chest, if you don't sleep well, can't relish a good meal or are pale or losing flesh, "Blood Wine," just as sure as gospel, will help you, because it begins at the bottom. It makes new blood of old. Investigate it for yourself, go to the drugist and get a free sample, read the literature and bear in mind always that "Blood Wine" represents not an old but a new, modern method of treating disease. It contains no wine or opiates. Get it or your sample at Will Reed and Hodson's drug stores.

BOWING TO ROYALTY.

Subject of a Speech by Which Boutell Entertained the House.

BROMWELL, OF OHIO, SPOKE,

As Did Kern, of Illinois, and Fleming,
of Georgia, on the Issue Raised by
ered Philippine Tariff Bill.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Again yesterday the general debate on the Indian appropriation bill was devoted almost entirely to extraneous topics. As on Tuesday the issue raised by Mr. Wheeler (Ky.) a few days ago came in for considerable attention and was the feature of the session. Mr. Bromwell, an Ohio Republican, Mr. Kern, an Illinois Democrat, and Mr. Fleming, a Georgia Democrat, added their views to the literature on the subject, but it was Mr. Boutell, an Illinois Republican, who entertained the house most. He was well fortified with material, and with exceeding good temper and a trenchant display of wit he traced the history of what Mr. Wheeler had called "truculent sycophancy," as he said, from the day when the first Democratic president purchased a bogus coat of arms to the entertainment of Queen Liliuokalani by the last Democratic president. He finally dismissed the whole subject by saying it should be accepted abroad as one of the "erratic and sporadic phases of American humor."

Mr. Hamilton, a Michigan Republican, enlivened the proceedings with an entertaining speech on trusts. The other speakers were Mr. Little (Ark.), who discussed conditions in the Indian territory; Mr. Corliss (Mich.), who spoke on the Pacific cable; Mr. Stephens (Texas), on statehood for Oklahoma; Mr. Sulzer (N. Y.), on increased pay for letter carriers; Mr. Fitzgerald (N. Y.), on the education of the Indians; Mr. Jackson (Kan.), on election of senators by the people, and Mr. Newlands (Nev.), on the bill to redeem silver dollars in gold.

Senate Considered Philippines Bill.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The senate continued the consideration of the Philippine tariff bill yesterday, the main speeches being made by Mr. Burrows (Mich.), for the bill, and Mr. Money (Miss.), against it, although Mr. Mitchell (Ore.), Mr. Foraker (O.), Mr. Mallory (Fla.) and Mr. Tillman (S. C.) all took more or less part in the general debate on the subject.

Mr. Burrows maintained that congress was dealing with the question as it was today and not with any reference to what took place in the past or might take place in the future. He maintained that the United States' occupancy of the islands was with due regard to the international obligations. Mr. Mallory (Fla.) spoke particularly in favor of his amendment to that portion of the bill relating to the navigation laws, and said that it was necessary in the interest of American shipping.

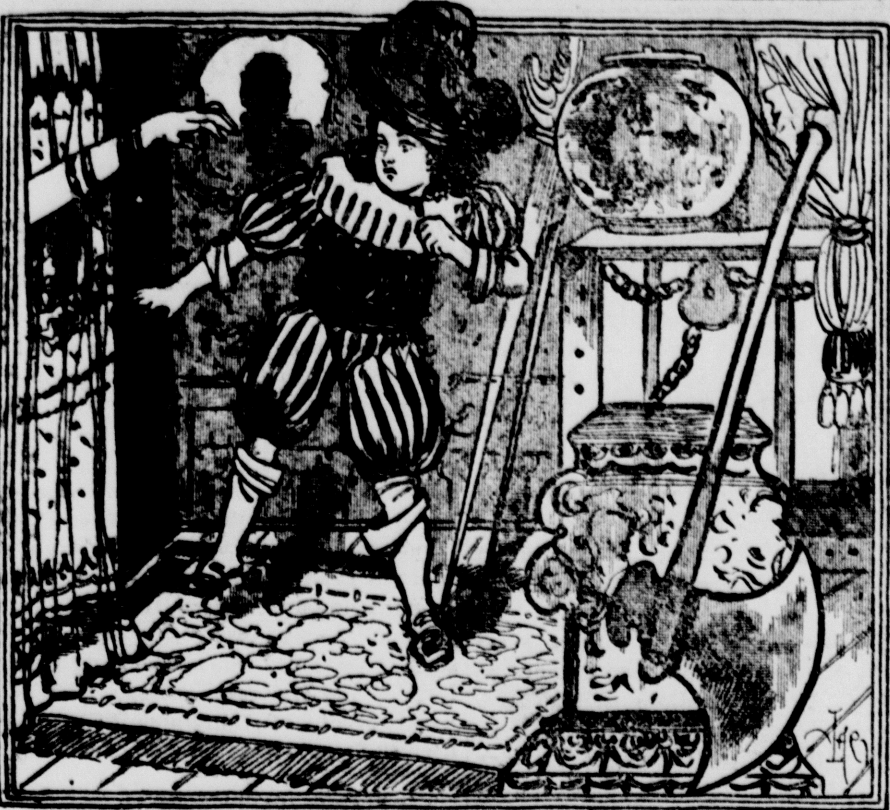

Mr. Money maintained that it was not so much a question of what could be done with the Filipinos as it was to legislate in the interests of our own people. There were several rather lively exchanges between Mr. Foraker and the opposition senators during the debate.

Grateful people will talk.
Tell their experience for the public good.
East Liverpool citizens praise Doan's Kidney Pills.
Kidney sufferers appreciate this. They find relief for every kidney ail. Read what this citizen says:
Mr. H. Thompson, of 305 Fourth street, presser at the D. E. McNicol pottery, and resident of East Liverpool for the past 45 years, says: "During my campaign experience between the years of '61 and '64 contracted a weakness of the kidneys, and at intervals I had an aching pain across the small of my back, and was subject to attacks of muscular rheumatism, especially in damp weather. I was frequently so bad that I could scarcely get up when down and in fact could hardly get around at all. I tried many remedies endeavoring to get rid of the trouble, but found nothing until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy. They filled the bill exactly. They gave me almost immediate relief and warded off the last attack."
Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

OLD STAGE COACHES

It Cost $225 For the Through Trip, and Seats Often Brought a Big Bonus—How One Load of Passengers Amused Themselves.

The stage line between Atchison and Placerville, Cal., which ran daily coaches for about five years in 1890-95, was the finest ever known in the stagecoach business. In equipment no similar line could equal it. It was the greatest stage line on the globe, carrying passengers, mail and express.

In 1894-95 it cost more for meals between Atchison and Denver than the railroad fare now costs, with meals added. The run from Atchison to Denver is now made in something like fifteen hours as against six days in the stagecoach days. At one time the fare from Atchison to Denver was $175; the railroad fare at present is $15. The quickest time ever made by stage between Atchison and Denver was four and a half days. Ben Holladay, owner of the line, traveled by special coaches from Placerville, Cal., to Atchison, 2,000 miles, in twelve days and two hours, beating the regular daily schedule five days. This feat cost Holladay $20,000, but it was a great advertisement for his line. The stages, when crowded, carried fifteen persons, besides great quantities of mail and express.

One of the coaches used on the Atchison-Placerville line is now in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. After leaving Atchison it was operated on the Deadwood line and was several times captured by Indians and outlaws. Once when captured by outlaws it carried $60,000 in gold. In this attack three guards were killed. Buffalo Bill heard that the old coach had been abandoned and went after it, using it for years in his wild west show. In London it carried the Prince of Wales, and all the notables of Europe examined it with interest. On the Fourth of July, 1895, this famous old coach was exhibited with the wild west show at Concord, N. H., where it was made. The owners and employees of the stagecoach factory gave the historic old stage a great deal of attention, and in the parade it bore this sign: "1893—Home Again—1895."

Including Atchison and Placerville, there were 153 stations on the line, the longest in existence (1,913 miles). The fare was $225, or about 12 cents a mile. The stations were from ten to fourteen miles apart. Some days $2,000 was taken in at the stage office in Atchison for fares alone. Each passenger was allowed twenty-five pounds of baggage; each pound of excess cost $1, which was the price for carrying express. The fare to Denver during the war was $175, or 27 cents a mile per passenger. The stages were nearly always crowded, and passengers were often compelled to wait several days at Atchison before they could be accommodated. A minister once refused to travel on Sunday and abandoned his place. He did not get a chance to go until the following Sunday, and this time he concluded that, under certain circumstances, traveling on Sunday was excusable. Sometimes passengers booked for a certain day sold out for a bonus of from $20 to $50 and waited for a later stage.

The quickest route between New York and San Francisco at that time was by way of Atchison. The western terminus of the line was changed from St. Joseph to Atchison on completion of the Hannibal and St. Joseph road to this point, as Atchison was eight miles nearer Placerville than St. Joseph. The stage line ran a little north of west from Atchison, crossing the Big Blue at Marysville, 100 miles west; thence continuing in a northwesterly course up the north side of the Little Blue and over the divide into the Platte valley; thence by way of Fort Kearney, Plum Creek and Julesburg to Denver. The road between Atchison and Denver was in the form of a crescent. O'Fallon's Bluff was 100 miles north of Atchison and Denver. The easiest part of the line was between Atchison and Fort Kearney. The schedule time of the stages was four and a half miles an hour, night and day, including stops. Occasionally the drivers would make fifteen miles an hour, and the passengers thought it very fast. The express messengers received $62.50 a month, with free meals, and were compelled to ride beside the driver six days and nights without rest, except as they could sleep while the stage was in motion. They received a lay over of nine days every three weeks. On going to bed after a trip they frequently slept twenty-four hours without moving. Drivers received from $40 to $75 a month and board. On the main line there were 2,750 horses and mules and 100 coaches. The annual cost of operating the line was $2,425,000.

The passengers were nearly all men, and they had a hard time amusing themselves. A gay party of eight once started from Atchison, and they sang for two days and nights, using ribald words to old church tunes. Finally one man proposed a collection. With the money thus raised they bought a jug of whisky at a station. Then there were a spree and quarrelling and poker playing. One man said he had been robbed by one of the players, and he insisted so strongly on a fight that the stage was stopped and a ring formed. The two drunken men rushed at each other, bumped each other down and could not get up. The other men helped the fighters to their feet, and the harmless battle was renewed. Finally the driver would wait no longer, and the stage went on, with the passengers quarrelling on the inside. At last they engaged in a general fight and then went off into a drunken sleep.—Atchison Globe.

How a Hindoo Uses Clocks.
The Hindoo places a clock in his showrooms not because he ever desires to know what the hour is, but because a clock is a foreign curiosity. Instead, therefore, of contenting himself with one good clock he will perhaps have a dozen in one room. They are signs of his wealth, but they do not add to his comfort, for he is so indifferent to time that he measures it by the number of bamboo lengths the sun has traveled above the horizon.—Temple Bar.

Japanese Chrysanthemums.
The Japanese cite 269 color varieties of the chrysanthemum, of which 63 are yellow, 87 white, 32 purple, 30 red, 31 pale pink, 12 russet and 14 of mixed colors. A fancy prevails in the country that in this flower the same tint is never exactly reproduced and that in this it resembles the endless variety of the human countenance.

What He Wanted to Say.
"Prisoner at the bar," said the judge, "is there anything you wish to say before sentence is passed on you?"
The prisoner looked wistfully toward the door and remarked that he would like to say "Good evening," if it would be agreeable to the company.

Woodmen's Progress—The Modern Woodmen of America, at a meeting held last evening, obligated six new members and received one application. The order in this city is growing rapidly.

Removed to Pittsburg—Mr. and Mrs. Morris Wissing, of Seventh street, who have been residents of this city for almost two years, have removed their household effects to Pittsburg, where they will make their home.

Royal Arcanum Growing—At the next meeting of the Royal Arcanum, which will be held next week, four new applications for membership will be presented. If these are accepted the membership of this order will be increased to 201.

Summoned By Telegraph—In response to a telegram, Mrs. Alice Goodwin Gilmore will arrive in the city Friday morning to attend the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. George S. Goodwin. Miss Emma Baker and her father, of Oil City, are also expected to attend the funeral.

HOME GUARDS MET

New Candidates Initiated And an Enjoyable Session Held—Officials Present.

A meeting of the McKinley home of Home Guards was held last evening in the hall in the Oyster building, which was largely attended and one of the most interesting since the organization of the local lodge. Supreme Manager George Detlor, of New Castle, Pa., was present, as was also Deputy Organizer Z. Z. Brandon, of McKeesport.

The regular routine work was first given attention, after which initiatory work was taken up. Three candidates climbed the greased pole and rode the goat, after which a social session was held. Mr. Detlor delivered a speech which was surprisingly eloquent, as well as instructive and interesting.

Messrs. Detlor and Brandon will remain in the city until the next meeting night of the Home Guards, when a large number of candidates will be initiated. The order is enjoying a phenomenal growth.

BROKEN GLASS

CANNOT BE THROWN INTO THE STREETS AND ALLEYS.

Complaints to Mayor Davidson Has Aroused Him to Vigorous Action.

Complaints in great number have been coming to Mayor Davidson recently as the result of the actions of unknown persons who have been making a practice of drinking beer and carousing in the vicinity of the Burford pottery. These carousals usually take place on Saturday nights, and though the fellows who take part in them do not make any unnecessary noise, they usually break the bottles which they drain and throw the pieces in the nearby alleys.

It is this feature of the rowdism that is causing the complaints to the mayor. The broken glass thrown in the alleys has been the cause in several instances of puncturing cushioned tires and cutting the solid rubber tires.

Another danger that arises from the glass is that of injuring the feet of horses. Yesterday afternoon a local liverman called at the mayor's office and stated that one of his horses had been badly hurt by stepping upon a broken beer bottle. The liverman also stated that once before while driving he had come upon a quantity of broken glass in an alley near the Burford pottery with the result that the tire on his buggy was almost ruined.

There is an ordinance forbidding the throwing of glass in the streets and alleys and the mayor says that anyone found guilty of violating the ordinance will be prosecuted. The officers propose keeping an eye on the young men who have been breaking beer bottles in the highways and prosecutions are likely to result.

Statements officially signed and sealed by the officers of the Allied Printing Trades Council, the bookbinders' union, stereotypers and electrotypers certified that the publishers of the Imperial Reference Library were a strictly union concern and entitled to use the label of each organization.

Carpenters' and Joiners' union No. 328, one of the largest organizations in the city, presented a resolution embodying some entirely new features.

The whereas show that a great many of the provisions of franchises granted to corporations doing business in this city have not been complied with. The document is very strong in this respect. The street railway company has neglected to paint its poles; good materials have not been used in the construction of either tracks or rolling stock, especially has it been negligent in the matter of extending its lines into the suburbs; the telephone companies have not painted their poles, nor have they complied with many other requirements called for in the franchises; the electric light company has not furnished the service it should and charges exorbitant prices for lighting. The lack of activity in the market house project also comes in for its share of censure, and the whole is topped with a resolution pledging the support of all unionists to candidates who will promise to use their vote and influence toward bringing about remedies for the existing evils. The resolution was adopted and a copy will be mailed to every union in the city.

A committee consisting of Willis Wells and Messrs. Stevenson and McConnell was appointed to visit, every merchant in the city who handles non-union bread. They are instructed to inform the dealers that Trades Council and the working people generally do not approve of the product and request them to discontinue its sale.

A resolution of respect to the memory of E. D. Griffith, a late member of the street railway men's union, and who represented that organization in Trades Council, was ordered prepared. The committee is G. M. B. Beatty, William Cope and Thomas Collins.

RICE DIDN'T SIGN 1900 WILL,

To Jones' Knowledge, So He Testified—Legacies Designed to Remove Opportunities.

New York, Feb. 20.—Charles F. Jones was the star witness in the Patrick trial again yesterday. There was a mass of evidence concerning Patrick's alleged drawing of Jones into a conspiracy to utter a forged will, by which Patrick was to be the principal beneficiary; of Jones' fear of discovery; of Patrick's alleged assurance that the tracks of the two would be well covered; of the doctoring of Mr. Rice's letterbook and many other details.

It was late in the afternoon when Jones touched on what the state seemed to think very important evidence. It was when Jones was shown the will of 1900—the so-called Patrick will. He had previously testified that Morris Meyer and David L. Short had been introduced into the Rice house to make out certain papers. Short acting as notary for Mr. Rice. Jones now swore that Patrick told him Meyer had typewritten this will and that when he (Jones) first saw it the will was unsigned. Then he swore that the only law business Patrick ever did for Rice was to pass on the correctness of some document of Mr. Rice's, and this was at Jones' request. He swore that to his knowledge Mr. Rice had never signed the 1900 will, and was certain he had not signed it June 30, 1900. He had seen this will in Patrick's office two weeks before Mr. Rice died and it was unsigned then. Mr. Rice died Sept. 23, 1900.

On the point of Patrick's alleged preparation to remove any obstacles to the probate of the will Jones said that Patrick explained that the legacies under the will were designed to remove the possibilities of such opposition and that Patrick had gone over each paragraph of it with the witness.

HINTS NATURE GIVES

SYMPTOMS THAT SHOULD WARN MEN OF COMING SICKNESS.

The Significance of Sneezing, Yawning and Recurring Winter Colds. The Meaning of Blue Hands—Apoplexy's Warning Signals.

Nature scarce ever strikes without warning. In so far as disease is concerned it gives clear signs of what is impending days, weeks, months and even years before the attack. If people looked for these signs and took warning from them, they would escape much serious illness and live many years longer than they do. It is indeed remarkable how careless we are in this respect. A man who will anxiously scan the sky for signs of coming rain lest his top hat may get spoiled will never dream of examining his eyes, nose or finger nails for signs of coming illness.

The sneeze, for instance, is very significant. It is always a sign that something is injuring the air passages anywhere from the nose down to the lungs. Should it be only a case of snuff or pepper, of course the sneeze is of no consequence. But often it is an indication of congestion. There is inflammation somewhere, with too much blood, and the object of the sneeze is to give relief by getting rid of some of the fluid. This sneeze is a warning that every prudent person should attend to. It is at least the forerunner of a cold. But it may indicate an approaching attack of bronchitis or pneumonia. When there is much sneezing, accompanied by something like a small shower of rain, the victim will do well to take a warm footbath, go to bed and adopt the other usual remedies to cure a cold.

The winter cold itself is a grave warning. When it recurs two or three times every winter, it is sure to be followed in the end by chronic bronchitis. Once this comes on it is practically incurable.

Men are started on their lives much as a shell from a cannon—with a certain fixed quantity of energy. If disease or accident does not carry them off, they will die some time of what we call old age—in other words, when the energy with which they started is spent. Some have energy enough to carry them over the full century; others have only sufficient to keep them going for ninety, eighty, seventy, sixty or fewer years. Now, early baldness is a sure sign, with some exceptions, that the energy is likely to fail sooner than in the average man. But all kinds of baldness have not this significance. Sometimes the loss of hair arises from scalp disease caused probably by microbes. The warning baldness is that kind which commences about the temples and on the crown of the head and gradually eats its way over the scalp until only a circular fringe of hair is left.

Blue nails, or blue hands, betoken weak or obstructed circulation. They are a warning against overexertion of any kind. The obstruction may occur from disorder of several organs in the body. But most commonly the blueness indicates that the heart is not up to the mark.

Yawning is a somewhat similar warning. It is a sign that the steam has run down and that it is time to go to bed or perhaps to go into the open air. When you sit in a close room, the lungs do not receive sufficient of the vital gas, oxygen. The yawn is then a desperate effort of the lungs to properly aerate the blood, and it warns you to open the windows or to leave the room. When you are out of bed too long or when you have done an unusually hard day's work, the waste products of your body are present in excessive quantity. Then the yawn is a warning to you to lie down and rest.

Most people have a great horror of getting a "stroke" or fit of apoplexy. It is not by any means as unpleasant as the toothache, but the suddenness of it is what appalls. There is really no suddenness about it, however. No disease gives such early warning. A "stroke" is a very simple occurrence and not at all horrible. It results from two or three causes, but the most common one is this: A little artery in the brain wears out and lets some blood escape, which clots, presses on the brain and paralyzes whatever part of the body is governed by the piece of brain pressed upon. Now this artery wears out only in common with other arteries of the body. In some people they all become what is called atheromatous, or hard and brittle. At the same time they become tortuous or twisted. We can see these hard and tortuous arteries on the temples, and then we know it is not safe to do anything which will congest the brain, lest the one little artery there, which is especially liable to give way, shall let the blood escape. Likewise warning is often given by the tiny arteries of the eye. They break and let out little traces of blood, which can easily be seen, but a cold or sleepless night may do the same. When these signs occur—and they occur months and years before the stroke—do not get excited or angry, no matter how great the provocation, do not rush to catch an omnibus or in any way overexert yourself, and do not dine too heartily. By taking the warnings given by nature you will insure yourself against this pleasantest way of leaving the world and be sure of dying of cholera or smallpox or some other respectable disease.—London Mail.

Groton, Mass., Feb. 20.—Young Theodore Roosevelt continued to improve yesterday and it was hoped that he might be able to sit up to-day, although this will, of course, depend entirely upon conditions existing at that time.

Owing to the blustering weather Mrs. Roosevelt and Alice kept indoors all day yesterday and were in close attendance upon the sick boy.

Mrs. Robinson, the president's sister, made a flying visit to Groton yesterday, returning to her home on the evening train.

Dr. Rixey last night was expected here from Washington today and will remain until such time as Teddy is well enough to return to Washington.

No Thanks Due.

A minister went from Kansas City down into the country to preach. Before going into the pulpit he asked if any one interrupted with "amens" and other ejaculations, as he could not stand such interjections. He was told of one old woman who always made herself heard at all good points. She was asked on this occasion to desist, and she obliged for once. At the end of the sermon the minister met her and warmly thanked her for holding her tongue.

"No need to thank me, no need to thank me!" she exclaimed. "You said nothing whatever to make me shout!"—Kansas City Independent.

Saved the Lamp.

An amusing scene occurred at a New York dock the other night. A Scotch engineer, who wished to go ashore, ordered a boy to show him the way with a lantern. As he was crossing the narrow plank that served as a gangway the boy slipped and fell into the water. The instinct of the true Scot instantly showed itself. "Hold on to the lamp, boy," the engineer shouted, leaning over toward the water. "Do you hear? If it's lost, there's a dollar gone from your wages."

After some time the boy was rescued half drowned, but clinging to the lamp. As some compensation for his trouble he was forgiven for losing the bottom of it.

Mrs. Mark Bough entertained a company of friends at dinner this evening at her home on Kossuth street.

Mrs. Frank Grosshans will entertain the members of the Card club this evening at her home on Fourth street.

Mrs. C. C. Thompson will entertain the members of the Carom club this evening at her home on Walnut street.

Mrs. Jennie Kail and daughter, Mrs. F. Laufenburger, have left for Pinehurst, N. C., in the hope of benefiting their health.

The Christian Endeavor society of the M. P. church will be entertained this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Burford, Florence street.

Mrs. H. A. Keffer, who had issued invitations for this evening, has recalled them until Tuesday evening, February 25, owing to the death of a neighbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Durkin, who played last night with Tim Murphy at the Grand, left this afternoon for New Castle. Mrs. Durkin's appearance here was greeted with unlimited cordiality.

Miss Bessie Gamble is entertaining friends this evening at her home on Fourth street in honor of her house guests, Misses May Murphy and Laura Wallover, of Steubenville; Miss Stella George, of Columbus, and Emma Moulds, of Rochester. The hostess' brother, Mr. Will Gamble, of McKeesport, will also be in attendance.

Statements officially signed and sealed by the officers of the Allied Printing Trades Council, the bookbinders' union, stereotypers and electrotypers certified that the publishers of the Imperial Reference library were a strictly union concern and entitled to use the label of each organization.

Carpenters' and Joiners' union No. 328, one of the largest organizations in the city, presented a resolution embodying some entirely new features.

The whereas show that a great many of the provisions of franchise granted to corporations doing business in this city have not been complied with. The document is very strong in this respect. The street railway company has neglected to paint its poles; good materials have not been used in the construction of either tracks or rolling stock, especially has it been negligent in the matter of extending its lines into the suburbs; the telephone companies have not painted their poles; nor have they complied with many other requirements called for in the franchises; the electric light company has not furnished the service it should and charges exorbitant prices for lighting. The lack of activity in the market house project also comes in for its share of censure, and the whole is topped with a resolution pledging the support of all unionists to candidates who will promise to use their vote and influence toward bringing about remedies for the existing evils. The resolution was adopted and a copy will be mailed to every union in the city.

A committee consisting of Willis Wells and Messrs. Stevenson and McConnell was appointed to visit every merchant in the city who handles non-union bread. They are instructed to inform the dealers that Trades Council and the working people generally do not approve of the product and request them to discontinue its sale.

A resolution of respect to the memory of E. D. Griffith, a late member of the street railway men's union, and who represented that organization in Trades Council, was ordered prepared. The committee is G. M. B. Beatty, William Cope and Thomas Collins.

RICE DIDN'T SIGN 1900 WILL,

To Jones' Knowledge, So He Testified—Legacies Designed to Remove Opportunities.

New York, Feb. 20.—Charles F. Jones was the star witness in the Patrick trial again yesterday. There was a mass of evidence concerning Patrick's alleged drawing of Jones into a conspiracy to utter a forged will, by which Patrick was to be the principal beneficiary; of Jones' fear of discovery; of Patrick's alleged assurance that the tracks of the two would be well covered; of the doctoring of Mr. Rice's letterbook and many other details.

It was late in the afternoon when Jones touched on what the state seemed to think very important evidence. It was when Jones was shown the will of 1900—the so-called Patrick will. He had previously testified that Morris Meyer and David L. Short had been introduced into the Rice house to make out certain papers. Short acting as notary for Mr. Rice. Jones now swore that Patrick told him Meyer had typewritten this will and that when he (Jones) first saw it the will was unsigned. Then he swore that the only law business Patrick ever did for Rice was to pass on the correctness of some document of Mr. Rice's, and this was at Jones' request. He swore that to his knowledge Mr. Rice had never signed the 1900 will, and was certain he had not signed it June 30, 1900. He had seen this will in Patrick's office two weeks before Mr. Rice died and it was unsigned then. Mr. Rice died Sept. 23, 1900.

On the point of Patrick's alleged preparation to remove any obstacles to the probate of the will Jones said that Patrick explained that the legacies under the will were designed to remove the possibilities of such opposition and that Patrick had gone over each paragraph of it with the witness.

HINTS NATURE GIVES

SYMPTOMS THAT SHOULD WARN MEN OF COMING SICKNESS.

The Significance of Sneezing, Yawning and Recurring Winter Colds. The Meaning of Blue Hands—Apoplexy's Warning Signals.

Nature scarce ever strikes without warning. In so far as disease is concerned it gives clear signs of what is impending days, weeks, months and even years before the attack. If people looked for these signs and took warning from them, they would escape much serious illness and live many years longer than they do. It is indeed remarkable how careless we are in this respect. A man who will anxiously scan the sky for signs of coming rain lest his top hat may get spoiled will never dream of examining his eyes, nose or finger nails for signs of coming illness.

The sneeze, for instance, is very significant. It is always a sign that something is injuring the air passages anywhere from the nose down to the lungs. Should it be only a case of snuff or pepper, of course the sneeze is of no consequence. But often it is an indication of congestion. There is inflammation somewhere, with too much blood, and the object of the sneeze is to give relief by getting rid of some of the fluid. This sneeze is a warning that every prudent person should attend to. It is at least the forerunner of a cold. But it may indicate an approaching attack of bronchitis or pneumonia. When there is much sneezing, accompanied by something like a small shower of rain, the victim will do well to take a warm footbath, go to bed and adopt the other usual remedies to cure a cold. The winter cold itself is a grave warning. When it recurs two or three times every winter, it is sure to be followed in the end by chronic bronchitis. Once this comes on it is practically incurable.

Men are started on their lives much as a shell from a cannon—with a certain fixed quantity of energy. If disease or accident does not carry them off, they will die some time of what we call old age—in other words, when the energy with which they started is spent. Some have energy enough to carry them over the full century; others have only sufficient to keep them going for ninety, eighty, seventy, sixty or fewer years. Now, early baldness is a sure sign, with some exceptions, that the energy is likely to fall sooner than in the average man. But all kinds of baldness have not this significance. Sometimes the loss of hair arises from scalp disease caused probably by microbes. The warning baldness is that kind which commences about the temples and on the crown of the head and gradually eats its way over the scalp until only a circular fringe of hair is left.

Blue nails, or blue hands, betoken weak or obstructed circulation. They are a warning against overexertion of any kind. The obstruction may occur from disorder of several organs in the body. But most commonly the blueness indicates that the heart is not up to the mark.

Yawning is a somewhat similar warning. It is a sign that the steam has run down and that it is time to go to bed or perhaps to go into the open air. When you sit in a close room, the lungs do not receive sufficient of the vital gas, oxygen. The yawn is then a desperate effort of the lungs to properly aerate the blood, and it warns you to open the windows or to leave the room. When you are out of bed too long or when you have done an unusually hard day's work, the waste products of your body are present in excessive quantity. Then the yawn is a warning to you to lie down and rest.

Most people have a great horror of getting a "stroke" or fit of apoplexy. It is not by any means as unpleasant as the toothache, but the suddenness of it is what appalls. There is really no suddenness about it, however. No disease gives such early warning. A "stroke" is a very simple occurrence and not at all horrible. It results from two or three causes, but the most common one is this: A little artery in the brain wears out and lets some blood escape, which clots, presses on the brain and paralyzes whatever part of the body is governed by the piece of brain pressed upon. Now this artery wears out only in common with other arteries of the body. In some people they all become what is called arteriosclerotic, or hard and brittle. At the same time they become tortuous or twisted. We can see these hard and tortuous arteries on the temples, and then we know it is not safe to do anything which will congest the brain, lest the one little artery there, which is especially liable to give way, shall let the blood escape. Likewise warning is often given by the tiny arteries of the eyes. They break and let out little traces of blood, which can easily be seen, but a cold or sleepless night may do the same. When these signs occur—and they occur months and years before the stroke—do not get excited or angry, no matter how great the provocation, do not rush to catch an omnibus or in any way overexert yourself, and do not dine too heartily. By taking the warnings given by nature you will insure yourself against this pleasantest way of leaving the world and be sure of dying of cholera or smallpox or some other respectable disease.—London Mail.

TEDDY, JR., IMPROVED.

Dr. Rixey to Stay With Him Until Return to Washington.

Groton, Mass., Feb. 20.—Young Theodore Roosevelt continued to improve yesterday and it was hoped that he might be able to sit up today, although this will, of course, depend entirely upon conditions existing at that time.

Owing to the blustering weather Mrs. Roosevelt and Alice kept indoors all day yesterday and were in close attendance upon the sick boy.

Mrs. Robinson, the president's sister, made a flying visit to Groton yesterday, returning to her home on the evening train.

Dr. Rixey last night was expected here from Washington today and will remain until such time as Teddy is well enough to return to Washington.

No Thanks Due.
A minister went from Kansas City down into the country to preach. Before going into the pulpit he asked if any one interrupted with "amens" and other ejaculations, as he could not stand such interjections. He was told of one old woman who always made herself heard at all good points. She was asked on this occasion to desist, and she obliged for once. At the end of the sermon the minister met her and warmly thanked her for holding her tongue.

"No need to thank me, no need to thank me!" she exclaimed. "You said nothing whatever to make me shout!"
—Kansas City Independent.

Saved the Lamp.
An amusing scene occurred at a New York dock the other night. A Scotch engineer, who wished to go ashore, ordered a boy to show him the way with a lantern. As he was crossing the narrow plank that served as a gangway the boy slipped and fell into the water. The instinct of the true Scot instantly showed itself. "Hold on to the lamp, boy," the engineer shouted, leaning over toward the water. "Do you hear? If it's lost, there's a dollar gone from your wages."

After some time the boy was rescued half drowned, but clinging to the lamp. As some compensation for his trouble he was forgiven for losing the bottom of it.

BROKEN GLASS

CANNOT BE THROWN INTO THE STREETS AND ALLEYS.

Complaints to Mayor Davidson Has Aroused Him to Vigorous Action.

Complaints in great number have been coming to Mayor Davidson recently as the result of the actions of unknown persons who have been making a practice of drinking beer and carousing in the vicinity of the Burford pottery. These carousals usually take place on Saturday nights, and though the fellows who take part in them do not make any unnecessary noise, they usually break the bottles which they drain and throw the pieces in the nearby alleys.

It is this feature of the rowdism that is causing the complaints to the mayor. The broken glass thrown in the alleys has been the cause in several instances of puncturing cushioned tires and cutting the solid rubber tires.

Another danger that arises from the glass is that of injuring the feet of horses. Yesterday afternoon a local liverman called at the mayor's office and stated that one of his horses had been badly hurt by stepping upon a broken beer bottle. The liverman also stated that once before while driving he had come upon a quantity of broken glass in an alley near the Burford pottery with the result that the tire on his buggy was almost ruined.

There is an ordinance forbidding the throwing of glass in the streets and alleys and the mayor says that anyone found guilty of violating the ordinance will be prosecuted. The officers propose keeping an eye on the young men who have been breaking beer bottles in the highways and prosecutions are likely to result.

TEDDY, JR., IMPROVED.

Dr. Rixey to Stay With Him Until Return to Washington.

Groton, Mass., Feb. 20.—Young Theodore Roosevelt continued to improve yesterday and it was hoped that he might be able to sit up today, although this will, of course, depend entirely upon conditions existing at that time.

Owing to the blustering weather Mrs. Roosevelt and Alice kept indoors all day yesterday and were in close attendance upon the sick boy.

Mrs. Robinson, the president's sister, made a flying visit to Groton yesterday, returning to her home on the evening train.

Dr. Rixey last night was expected here from Washington today and will remain until such time as Teddy is well enough to return to Washington.

No Thanks Due.

A minister went from Kansas City down into the country to preach. Before going into the pulpit he asked if any one interrupted with "amens" and other ejaculations, as he could not stand such interjections. He was told of one old woman who always made herself heard at all good points. She was asked on this occasion to desist, and she obliged for once. At the end of the sermon the minister met her and warmly thanked her for holding her tongue.

"No need to thank me, no need to thank me!" she exclaimed. "You said nothing whatever to make me shout!"—Kansas City Independent.

Saved the Lamp.

An amusing scene occurred at a New York dock the other night. A Scotch engineer, who wished to go ashore, ordered a boy to show him the way with a lantern. As he was crossing the narrow plank that served as a gangway the boy slipped and fell into the water. The instinct of the true Scot instantly showed itself. "Hold on to the lamp, boy," the engineer shouted, leaning over toward the water. "D'ye hear? If it's lost, there's a dollar gone from your wages."

After some time the boy was rescued half drowned, but clinging to the lamp. As some compensation for his trouble he was forg'ven for losing the bottom of it.

INVESTIGATION DEMANDED BY TREASURER CAMERON

He Does Not Propose to Rest Under Imputations Cast by Democrats.

THE ANIMUS OF THE MATTER

A Number of Important Bills Acted Upon by the Legislature.

SHARP DEBATE IN THE HOUSE

Representative Buell Angry Over Changes Made in Committee in the Metzger Road Bill—State Capital Gossip.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, February 20.—State Treasurer I. B. Cameron will ask that a committee be appointed to make an investigation of the manner in which his department has been conducted. He is satisfied that if any investigation is made it will show that the business of the office has been transacted in a perfectly regular way.

The Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday advanced the reason that the Sharp resolution calling for an investigation of the office of the state treasury was inspired by a desire to get even with Mr. Cameron for the leading part he took in the organization of the present legislature. The Kurtzites, whom Mr. Cameron opposed in this fight, the Enquirer hints strongly, were hand in glove with those who were instrumental in securing the introduction of the resolution. Other reasons revealing the animus of the resolution could be mentioned, but as the resolution has failed dismally they need not be gone into now.

Representative Buell is mad. The revision committee of this house corralled the Metzger bill providing for the appointment of road commissioners in Stark and Columbiana counties and when it emerged from its hands the measure bore a striking resemblance to 30 cents. Mr. Buell was asked what the committee did to the bill and he replied that what they did was a plenty. It was necessary for him to get an introduction to the measure when he saw it. The representatives of the two counties will not stand for the liberties the revision committee took with the bill and they will ask that it be recommitted to them again. They will try to make it look like its original self and then will work hard for its passage without change.

The legislature passed some very important measures yesterday. The senate passed the Archer resolution making an appropriation for the St. Louis exposition in 1903. It originally provided for an appropriation of $200,000, which was reduced to $100,000, and which was amended by the senate to $75,000. It provides for the appointment of a commission consisting of six Republicans and four Democrats who are to carry out the purpose of the measure. Senator Connell led the fight against the passage of the resolution in the form in which it was submitted. He wanted the appropriation cut down and offered an amendment appropriating the sum of $50,000 instead of $100,000. The resolution provides for the erection of a suitable building in which to display the exhibits of this state.

There was a sharp debate in the house yesterday afternoon over the passage of the Pollock bill amending the stationary engineer's law. After the third reading of the bill, Mr. Pollock offered an amendment placing the minimum horsepower at 30 except in municipalities where licenses to be required for all classes of engines. An attempt to make this section only apply to cities was voted down. Mr. Kiddeswart, of Marietta, submitted an amendment requiring all persons operating engines of 30 horse power or over to take out a license, which was adopted. This change made votes for the measure and it passed, only four negative votes being recorded against it. The measure authorizes the appointment of two additional deputy examiners and increases the salary of the chief clerk of the inspector to $1,000.

The house passed the Arthur bill prohibiting members and clerks of election boards from being candidates at any election for which they might serve. The senate passed several important bills Wednesday. The Royer resolution providing for a constitutional amendment doing away with the double liability of holders of stock in Ohio corporations was passed unanimously. Senator Harding's bill to create a commission to investigate and report on the advisability of establishing hospitals for consumptives was passed with but one dissenting vote.

Miss Gertrude Baker, of Mt. Vernon, recently appointed librarian of the East Liverpool Carnegie library, has many friends at the state capital. She is a granddaughter of General G. A. Jones, who was an early settler of Mr. Vernon, and at one time was president of the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus Railroad company. He is also a brother of Frank Jones, of the well known firm of Jones & Laughlins, Pittsburg.

LARGER CAPITAL

STOCK OF GAS APPARATUS COMPANY INCREASED TO $50,000.

Decision Reached to Complete the Plant at Chester—Encouraging Reports.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Gas Apparatus and Construction company was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Potters' club on Fifth street for the purpose of increasing the capital stock of the corporation. About 50 persons were present, representing in the neighborhood of 1,000 shares of stock. A report of the auditing committee was made, showing the company to be in good condition financially. The construction engineer, Mr. Brown, made a report to the effect that the plant at Chester could be completed for the final test with the expenditure of not more than $600. He was ordered to complete the plant.

The real purpose of the session, to increase the capital stock of the corporation, met with no opposition whatever. The only provision made was that the old stockholders would be given the first chance of subscribing to the new allotment.

The stock will be increased from 1,400 shares of the par value of $25 each to 2,000 shares of the par value of $25 each, so that the authorized capital stock shall be $50,000 instead of $35,000, as heretofore.

VEIN OF PIG METAL

Astounding Discovery at Round Knob Made By a Gullible Reporter.

The report printed last evening in a local paper that a vein of pig metal had been discovered at Round Knob was the most absurd and ridiculous "hot air" story that has been sprung by that organ for some time. It is the laughing stock of the town. Of course, there was no foundation for the tale, and it was the wonder of everybody that read it how such a preposterous pipe dream ever found its way into print.

This is easily explained. It all came about through a conversation between Sanitary Officer Burgess and a News Review reporter, concerning the "new discovery," which was overheard by the gullible scribe who wrote the story without attempting to corroborate it, not knowing he was being made the victim of a premeditated "goose pasturing" game.

His article caused quite as much amusement as that of a new man on the pottery route, who, reading in the News Review of a reported pottery combine in Trenton, forthwith proceeded to construct a column in the effort to put the Union Potteries company into the combine, without its knowledge or consent.

MARK O. LODGE BADLY WOUNDED

Accidentally Shot Himself While Carrying a Gun Down Stairs.

MANY SHOTS EXTRACTED

Others Are Still Lodged in the Body And Likely to Cause Serious Complications—His Physicians Express Hope of Recovery.

Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—Ex-Sheriff Mark O. Lodge, at his farm near Franklin Square yesterday afternoon, was dangerously wounded by the accidental discharge of a shot gun which he was carrying down stairs.

Mr. Lodge held a shovel in one hand and the gun in the other. Just how the gun happened to be discharged is not clear. The charge entered his side and it was at first thought that it went inward and upward through the bowels. The wound was reported fatal. However, Dr. Tom B. Marquis, who attended him, said last night that there was much reason to believe that a large number of shot had torn along the side and had left the body after passing through the flesh.

Thirty-six shots were removed, the doctor said, and there is now hope that Mr. Lodge will recover.

The greatest danger to Mr. Lodge is peritonitis from the shots that entered the viscera.

TEN AT THE ALTAR

Nine of Whom Professed Conversion at the M. E. Services.

The First M. E. meetings still progress with great interest. There were 10 persons at the altar last night, nine of whom professed conversion. Prof. and Mrs. Phillips sang beautifully and Dr. Crawford preached a good sermon, taking as his text "The Touch of Faith." There will be services tonight.

THROWN FROM A BUGGY

Dr. Covert, of New Castle, Perhaps Fatally Hurt in a Runaway Accident.

Dr. J. W. Covert, of New Castle, was perhaps fatally injured yesterday by being thrown from a buggy in a runaway accident and his head striking a telegraph pole.

Will Remove to Salem.

Robert Curtis, who for some time has been employed at the Edmonston photograph gallery in this city, will go into business for himself on March 1, having rented a gallery at Salem, his former home city. Mr. Curtis has gained great popularity in East Liverpool and has numberless friends here who, though regretting his departure, wish him success in his new undertaking.

SCORED LOCAL CORPORATIONS

For Non-Compliance With the Provisions of Franchises Granted.

TRADES COUNCIL CONCURS

The Move Is to Be Made a General One, and Will Pledge Working Members to Support Only Candidates Who Will Comply.

One of the best evidences of the fact that the laboring classes of this community are alive to the necessity and importance of a central labor body is found in the very small number of changes now taking place in the representation in that organization from the various local unions.

At the meeting of Trades Council last night but two new delegates were seated. When it is considered that not long ago from five to 15 new members were received at each session it is at once apparent that the interest is more intense than ever before.

C. M. Walker, from carpenters' union No. 328, and Albert A. Taylor, from gilders' local No. 19, were seated and the business was proceeded with.

It was found necessary owing to the large number of communications to be read to appoint a reading clerk and U. G. King was selected. An acknowledgment was received from M. Bernard, secretary of the cigarmakers of Montreal, Canada, thanking the council for a recent donation.

A communication from City Clerk J. N. Hanley informed the organization that the market house proposition, recently laid before the city council, had been taken up at the last meeting. It also stated that a committee from council had been appointed to act with Trades Council in the matter. The communication was referred to the organization committee.

The machinists of the Southern railway, with headquarters at Knoxville, Tenn., who are on strike, forwarded a package of souvenir coupons, which they are selling at 25 cents each for the benefit of the strikers. There were 15 in the pack and the council purchased the entire lot.

The matter of affiliating with the Ohio Federation was up in the form of a communication from Secretary Goldsmith, of Cleveland, who gave additional information with reference to the working of the organization, and the probable cost to the local body per year. The question was laid over until the order of new business was reached, at which time it was decided to affiliate. An order was drawn for the amount of the per capita tax.

The bartenders' league of Ohio, with headquarters at Cleveland, asked the council to aid in the opposition to the passage of the Real local option bill now pending in the state legislature. The communication was tabled.

A very important communication was read from the Central Labor union of Cleveland, asking an endorsement of an act now before the Ohio legislature providing for municipal ownership of street railways, electric light and water works, for towns desiring it. Steps will be taken to acquaint the representatives from this county with the wishes of the council in favor of the measure.

Headquarters officers of the National Machinists' union inquired through a communication dated at Washington, D. C., as to what progress had been made toward a branch of that trade in this city. The letter stated a large amount of literature outlining the advantages of such an organization had been sent to this city, but so far as they were able to learn nothing had been done in the matter. The communication was received.

On May 5, of this year, the present Chinese exclusion law will be inoperative, and the American Federation of Labor had forwarded a resolution to be filled out and sent to congressmen and senators, requesting the reenactment of the law. A motion was

People Will Soon Be Able to Cross the Ohio on the Ice.

An ice bridge formed at this city early this morning, and before evening the river may be bridged the entire length of the city. At Walker there is a gorge about six feet in height and this was formed during the night. The ice is rather thin, but if the cold weather continues it will not be long until one will be able to cross the river on the ice.

There is a large gorge at Cables Eddy, one mile above Steubenville. This has helped to close the river here. All river craft moored about this city is safe, and no particular damage to this is anticipated by rivermen.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Husband Entered the Plea That His Wife Had Been Unfaithful.

Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—Judge Ambler yesterday granted a divorce to Ambrose Skellam, of East Liverpool, from Mary E. Skellam. The couple were married in England in 1891. Skellam accused his wife of unfaithfulness and mentioned the name of William Clay in his petition.

A great deal of proof was not demanded, as the records of the court showed that Mrs. William Clay had been divorced from her husband because of his intimacy with Mrs. Skellam. Skellam is granted the custody of a minor child aged 8.

SURPRISE PARTY

Given Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Van Fossen on Their Tenth Wedding Anniversary.

After the prayermeeting services at the McKinley avenue Union chapel had been concluded last evening about 25 members of the congregation assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ashbaugh and proceeded to the residence of W. C. VanFossen.

The affair was a complete surprise and the members of the family were at a loss to understand the invasion until reminded that it was the tenth anniversary of their marriage. The party was none the less enjoyable because of the lack of preparation for the reception of the guests.

A sumptuous supper was served and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

A Joke Causes Trouble.

Frank Dickey has been having trouble he didn't bargain for when he jokingly took his hostler's watch a few days ago. Mayor Davidson saw a chance for some fun and started the report that Dickey stole the watch. Many persons not aware of these gentlemen's aptitude at joking, have been asking him to explain. The watch was kept until the owner became thoroughly worried, when it was returned to him. Patrolman Woods also had a hand in the job.

Her Father Dead.

Mrs. John Appel, of Seventh street, today received word of the death of her father, who lived at Stewart Station, near Pittsburg, and left to attend the funeral.

Organized Gang Terrorizing the Residents of the Quiet Suburb.

CHILDREN ARE KEPT AT HOME

Afraid to Go to School and Less Than Twenty Are Now Attending.

SCORES OF THEFTS REPORTED

Law Offers No Relief And a Vigilance Committee Is About to Be Formed. Hobbes Not Alarmed By Threats. Women Terrorized.

Incensed to an unbearable point by the flagrant outrages committed by a bold and depraved gang of tramps, the residents of the quiet suburb of Walker are about to organize a vigilance committee and take the law in their own hands in a determined stand to force the brazen hoboes to seek other quarters.

This action has been decided on because of the inability of those who have been tormented by the vagrants to get relief by the aid of the law. Different appeals have been made to the magistrates, but owing to trivial technicalities which have rendered prosecution uncertain, the matter has been allowed to pass up from time to time, while the tramps in the meantime have been growing bolder daily.

The school house at Walker was broken into one night about two weeks ago, at which time the authorities both in this city and Wells-ville were asked to take action. Owing, however, to the refusal of the interested parties to file affidavits, no notice was given the matter. This could not be done because the names of the culprits were not known.

Nothing was done with them further than to threaten the use of shot guns if they again broke into the school house. Since that time they have been sleeping by a fire on the river bank below the brick plant, but the severe weather evidently having driven them to desperation, the gang again broke into the school house last night and slept there.

One of the directors of the school reported the case to Justice McLane. He also stated that the tramps had been stealing coal from the school for several weeks, and claimed that 70 more bushels had been bought already this winter than during the whole of the last school year. It was also claimed by the director that while the Walker school had an enrollment of more than 100 pupils, there were not 20 in attendance at the present time. He said the children were afraid to go to school because of the tramps and also stated that the room was left by the wretches in such a filthy condition that it was unfit for occupancy.

Women are becoming so alarmed they are afraid to venture out after dark, and because of this fact, together with the great amount of thieving that has been going on, it has been determined by a number of men in the neighborhood to arm themselves and drive the lazy hoboes out of the community.

This fact was made known today to Justice McLane by two men who are known to mean what they say, and who propose to lead the vigilance committee.

GETS $3,000 FOR INJURY

Settlement Made of the Annie McGoogan's Claim Against the Erie.

Lisbon, February 20.—(Special)—The settlement of the claim for personal injury to Annie McGoogan, of Lisbon, by the Erie railroad, has been approved by the court. The guardian sued for $10,000 and the child, who was injured while playing on a turn table, got $3,000. Joseph McGoogan has resigned the guardianship and Geo. T. Farrell has been appointed. Bond $6,000.

Funeral of Mrs. Goodwin.

The funeral of Mrs. George S. Goodwin will take place from the residence on Friday at 2 p. m. Friends are invited. Interment private at a later hour.

EAST END

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

To Be Made at the East End Brick Plant of Gamble & Surles.

More extensive improvements are to be made at the East End brick plant operated by Gamble & Surles, and with the opening of warm weather this firm will be making more brick than ever before. Recently it was found that the brick machine in use was too small to meet the demands, and an order was immediately placed for a much larger one with a capacity of 25,000 brick per day. This machine is expected to arrive from the factory at Keokuk, Ia., very soon.

It is the intention of this firm to make pressed brick also, and a large number of orders have been received for this class of brick.

PROFITABLE MEETINGS

Revival Services at the Erie Street Church Continue Successful.

The revival meetings at the Erie street M. E. church continue to be well attended and at the services last evening a large congregation was present. Several conversions were reported. A feature of this service was the singing, the new hymn books recently purchased by the board of trustees being used at each service. These meetings will continue for several weeks, or as long as the interest holds.

AN OPTION SECURED

By an East End Man on the Warren Pottery, Which May Be Purchased.

A prominent business man of the East End yesterday secured an option on the Warren pottery. When asked this morning what was the purpose of the option, an answer was declined. It is likely that several East End men will purchase this plant and place it in operation.

Stoneware is made at this factory.

Special Services Tonight.

The Second Presbyterian church was well filled last night and the congregation treated to a splendid sermon by Rev. S. L. Boston on the subject, "The Door Is Shut." Prof. A. A. Laughlin sang several solos, which were very pleasing. Three members were taken into the church. A special service will be held this evening, when Rev. Mr. Boston will preach. By request Prof. Laughlin will sing "The Holy City."

Will Erect a Fine House.

John Schmelzenbach, a well known contractor in the East End, has closed the deal for 1.55 acres of land on the new boulevard. It is his intention to erect a fine residence on this property, work upon which will begin in the spring. It has been proposed by Mr. Schmelzenbach to plant a large number of trees about the new residence, and for this work a landscape gardener will be secured.

Back to the Farm.

J. A. Neel, who has been spending several years at Los Angeles, has returned to his home, and this spring will assume the management of his large farm at Neel's station, on the C. & P. road. This farm had been leased for five years by the Mahons, and the lease is about to expire. This farm is planted in fruit trees, and is said to be one of the best orchard farms in this section.

Ready for Business in April.

The success of the new East End Federal Building & Loan association is assured. During the last few days some large stock subscriptions have been obtained and within a few days an application for a charter will be forwarded to Columbus. It is proposed to open the office for business not later than April 1.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Mrs. Duncan, of Sebring, is ill at the home of Mrs. Dr. Davis, of St. George street.

M. J. Kerr returned to the East End yesterday from Shippingsport, where he spent several days.

Two children of Mr. Ed McMillen,

of the East End, who have been seriously ill of croup, are convalescent.

Robert Harker, of Calhoun's addition, who had his ears partially frozen several days ago, is greatly improved.

Samuel Thomas, of Sebring, who has been in the East End for several days, during which time he attended the funeral of his wife, has returned to Sebring.

ARCHER GAME BILL

Great Care Shown in Its Construction, Pleases Farmers And Sportsmen.

The Archer game bill which was passed in the senate at Columbus Tuesday is clear in its provisions and an effort has been made to please both the farmer and sportsman.

A brief summary of the most important provisions of the bill is given herewith:

Doves, killdeer, swallows, blue birds, meadow larks, gulls and buzzards and the nests and young of all song and insectivorous birds are included among those which are fully protected at all seasons.

The open seasons for game are as follows:

Quail and wild turkey, Nov. 10 to Dec. 15; woodcock or squirrel, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15; rabbits (by gun), Nov. 10 to Dec. 15; rail, plover or snipe, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15, and March 15 to May 1; ducks, geese, swans, coots or mud hens, Sept. 1 to Dec. 15 and March 15 to May 1.

It will be noticed that provision is made for two seasons for duck shooting.

The amount of game which one hunter may bag in one day is limited as follows: Quail, woodcock, geese, plover or snipe, 18; duck, 25; squirrel, 10; pheasant, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, Mongolian pheasants and English pheasants are protected until Nov. 10, 1904.

The bill makes it unlawful to buy, sell, expose for sale, offer for sale or have in one's possession any game birds or animals except rabbits during the closed seasons or to kill them for sale or shipment.

No person must hunt upon another's property without written permission of the owner, agent or tenant thereof, under penalty of fine. Wardens are given the right to inspect any receptacle containing game believed to have been killed in violation of law.

No set lines of any sort must be used in catching fish. Bluegills and common sun fish are protected from May 15 to July 1. There must be no fishing through the ice in the waters of the state, and black bass caught in the state's waters must not be offered for sale.

After May 1, 1902, no person must hunt on another's property without a hunter's license, issued by the clerk of the courts. The fee for residents of Ohio is $1, and for non-residents $25. The money realized from this source is to be turned into the state treasury, to be used in paying the salaries and expenses of district wardens.

ESCAPED TOO EASILY

Brute Who Tried to Burn His Mother Got a Workhouse Sentence.

Youngstown, February 20.—James Carney, aged 22 years, on the refusal of his aged mother to supply him with money for liquor, assaulted her, and then set fire to her residence in an attempt to cremate her. The was extinguished.

Carney was arrested and yesterday he was sent to the workhouse for three months and fined $100 and costs. After serving his time he will be arrested on the charge of arson.

ELECTROCHEMICAL THEORY

Of Professors Loeb and Mathews. The Latter Known in East Liverpool.

The electrochemical theory of nervous action, due to Professors Loeb and Mathews of Chicago, continues to excite attention, but it apparently meets with more favor among physiologists than with electricians. Says the Electrical World and Engineer: "Any physiological theory involving the ionic theory of electricity is a theory of the second degree, since the ionic is itself only a working hypothesis that has not yet been received as a matter of demonstration beyond the pale of doubt. Moreover, from the outline given of Dr. Mathews' theory that the ionic theory might fall without necessarily implicating the essentials of the nerve action theory here considered, so that in a certain sense it would seem that the new theory does not necessarily penetrate into the definite sense contemplated by the modern ionic theory. Almost any of the more recent theories of the electrochemical action would, perhaps, answer the purpose of the new hypothesis equally well. It is only reasonable to expect that in time physiologists will discover the fundamental laws—perhaps very simple in character, but no doubt very complex in superposition—which underlie nerve action, and the objective side of consciousness. There can be no doubt that electricity takes a share in this action, because all the phenomena of life are phenomena of differential liquids separated by thin septa, and it would be practically impossible to assemble such mechanism without originating electric and electrochemical actions."

The above has also some local interest, from the fact that Professor Albert P. Mathews, his wife and daughter, spent several days in East Liverpool last August, at the residence of Mr. N. G. Macrum, who is an uncle of Mrs. Mathews. Professor Mathews was then on his way to take the chair of physiological chemistry in the Chicago university. The February Century announces an article from the pen of Doctor Mathews on his discovery. The doctor is a young man of about 33 and has been professor of biology in Harvard for some years.

PAIN SHORT CIRCUITED

An Akron Man Uses Electricity to Make Dental Operations Painless.

Akron, February 20.—Thomas W. McCue, of this city, has invented a machine which will make dentistry and surgical operations of all kinds painless. And that he has succeeded has been demonstrated by the fact that by its means live nerves have been removed from teeth without the patient feeling any pain whatever.

Thomas A. Edison, who frequently visits Akron, the former home of his wife, has examined thoroughly the machine, and expects to come to Akron for the express purpose of having an operation performed upon two molars which have heretofore defied dentists.

Mr. McCue's machine, in effect, "short-circuits" pain and prevents it from reaching the brain. He has also accomplished what all electricians declared to be impossible—the reduction of the energy of the electrical current to the one-hundred thousandth part of a volt.

SUDDENLY SETTLED

A $30,000 Breach of Promise Suit at Steubenville Com-promised.

Steubenville, February 20.—The trial of the $30,000 breach of promise suit of Mrs. Amanda Young against William F. Lewis came to a sudden end in common pleas court yesterday.

After the jury was secured a recess was taken and a settlement reached. Just what the terms of settlement were was not made public.

Getting Even.

In the crowd that filled a Mulberry street auction room were two Italians who watched the sale with interest and enjoyed the badinage for which the auctioneer is noted. One of the Italians bid on some household article, and it was instantly accepted.

"What's the name?" asked the auctioneer as he opened the salesbook. "Pietro Dionozella," answered the buyer.

"Oh, that's too much! I'll put down 'Peanuts, 50 cents.' You're on," said the auctioneer as he rattled off the next article. The other Italian bid enough to secure the article, and his name was requested.

"Patricia O'Sullivan," quickly answered the Italian.

"Well," mused the auctioneer, "that's a good old name for a dago. Come, that's not yours, though."

"You beta it isa nota mine," was the quick reply, "but ita is agooda as Peanuta. You maka de fun witha 'tallano name; I maka fun widia Irish."—Newark Call.

For Art's Sake.

Mr. Boughton, the English artist, while sketching in the Alps, was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. He found at last the precise situation he was seeking, and best of all, says Tit-Bits, there happened to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old woman in the foreground.

"I asked the old lady," said Mr. Boughton, "to remain seated until I had made a sketch of her. She assented, but in a few minutes asked me how long I should be. 'Only about a quarter of an hour,' I answered reassuringly.

"Three minutes or so later she again asked me—this time with manifest anxiety—if I should be much longer.

"Oh, it's nothing," she sadly answered, 'only I'm sitting on an ant hill.'"

A Puzzler.

The child was four years old, logical, persistent and curious. The mother endeavored in all possible conscientiousness never to depart from any statement once made the child as fact. One afternoon this conversation occurred:

"Mother, where is your grandmother?"

"In heaven, dear."

Silence and apparent absorption in toys for a full hour, then:

"Mother, didn't I come from heaven?"

"Of course."

"Well, mother, it's awfully funny that I doesn't remember meeting your grandmother there."—New York Times.

The Phenix of Arabia.

In olden times a bird called a "phenix" was thought to live in the deserts of Arabia. His lease of life was said to be 500 years, at the end of which time he built a nest of spices and fanned it into a flame with his wings. The flame reduced the bird to ashes, out of which he sprang to live another 500 years. Richardson says that he had fifty orifices in his beak, through which he sung melodious airs.

His Talk.

"What will I talk about?" remarked a man who had been called on unexpectedly at a banquet and mentally groped for something to say.

Travelers to California

Naturally desire to see the grandest and most impressive scenery en route. This you will do by selecting the Denver & Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western, "The Scenic Line of the World," and "The Great Salt Lake Route," in one or both directions, as this line has two separate routes across the Rocky mountains between Denver and Ogden. Tickets reading via this route are available either via its main line through the Royal George, Leadville, over Tennessee Pass, through the Canon of the Grand river and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon of the Gunnison, thus enabling the traveler to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Three splendidly equipped fast trains are operated to and from the Pacific coast, which carry through standard sleepers daily between Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. Dining cars (service a la carte) on all through trains. If you contemplate such a trip, let us send you beautifully illustrated pamphlets, free. S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Col. 7-tf-3-tf

WEEK OF ACTIVITY

Taxation, Local Option and Other Bills Before the Legislature.

LONG SESSION PROBABLE

The Fight Over Temperance Bills Promises to Be Interesting—Opposition to Christian Science Measure—Of Interest to Fishermen.

Columbus, Feb. 20. — (Special)—The Beal bill, which contemplated giving local option in cities and towns, has been thoroughly discussed at a meeting of the temperance committee, and the result is that the advocates of the measure have made a complete change of front, and without hearing from the opposition. The Beal bill proposed a special election in wards of cities on petition of 40 per cent of the voters, and a special election in smaller towns on petition of 25 per cent of the voters.

The ward feature has been wholly abandoned by the temperance advocates, and it is said now that they propose to amend the measure so that an election shall be held in any municipality if 40 per cent of the voters petition therefor. It is intimated that another bill will be introduced later which will provide that a ward shall go "dry" if 51 per cent of the voters shall petition.

Rev. Thomas Clark, ex-member of the legislature and author of the Clark bill, which was defeated two years ago, spoke to the temperance committee. He said the contemplated measures were not prohibitive, and that it was hoped they would help the temperance cause. His arraignment of the American saloon was severe, his statements creating a sensation.

The press of the state is taking a hand in the temperance fight, and much to the surprise of many people, numbers of the leading papers have advanced arguments against the proposed bills. The Toledo Times recently printed this editorial:

"The Times has believed and believes still that temperance legislation ought to be along more practical lines—that the saloon ought to be kept out of a residence community by vigorous restrictions surrounding its establishment instead of being driven out after it is entrenched. A number of states have illustrated for us most effectively how this may be done, and we may well learn from them the efficient means of regulation. The Beal bill may do some good and probably will, but it is, after all, only another of the sort of measures which, after it is on the statute books, at most places will find poor executors to see to the enforcement of its provisions. Ohio has many such laws and it seems poor policy to add to them."

The attitude of the anti-saloon people is generally accepted as being an acknowledgment of their signal defeat. They admit they could not pass the measures as drawn and they propose to amend them.

This means that the fight will be prolonged in the general assembly. The temperance committee of the house will have hearing this week and announce that the proposition will be left open for some time. This action of the Beal bill before the committee means that the whole proposition will have to be fought over, entailing time and labor on the part of the legislature and expense for the state.

How to Fight Anarchy

By Rev. Dr. LYMAN ABBOTT of New York.

THE FUNDAMENTAL CAUSE OF ANARCHY IS THE REACTION OF UNJUST GOVERNMENT. It was so in France. Shall we see this in America? If our legislators neglect the many and legislate for selfish ends in order to enable the few to lead lives of luxurious leisure, then we shall have anarchy east and west and north and south, but if the legislators are true to their calling, and if journalism would seek not to reflect, but to lead and direct, public opinion into proper channels, then anarchy will disappear.

ing reform in the matter of expenditures for running the state. He hoped to have a short session of the legislature and in that way cut out much expense. Without criticizing either a Republican or Democratic administration or majority in the general assembly, it may be said that long sessions mean great expense to the taxpayers. Members of the legislature have good opportunities, during prolonged sessions, to run through the legislative mill laws that are worthless and which many times carry large expenditures. The fight over the temperance problem, over taxation and the abandonment of the canals is sure to cause a long session.

There is a most determined and bitter opposition developing among the manufacturers of the state over the so-called fellow-servant bill, several of which have been introduced into both branches of the general assembly. The initiative in the matter was taken by the Columbus board of trade, but the movement is intended to take in every similar organization in the state, and to that end appeals have been sent out. As a basis for the opposition, the claim is made that the bill, if passed, will change the custom of half-century and entirely abolish the right of an employer to defend in an action for damages on the ground of assumption of risk or contributory negligence of an employee. The board of trade in this city went about the matter with some care, securing the opinion of an attorney as to just what the bills would do before taking any action, but having that, and fortified in what was considered a legal way, resolutions denouncing the bills were adopted and a copy of these resolutions, together with the lawyer's opinion, are being sent to every commercial organization in Ohio. The purpose is to begin a combined assault all along the line.

This week ought to see both the Willis and the Cole taxation bills reported back from the committee. They will come with favorable recommendations and their passage urged. The first to be taken up on the floor and fought out is the Willis bill, providing for the filing of annual reports by domestic corporations and the charging of a fee of one-tenth of one per cent of the authorized capital stock. It is doubtful if this can pass in its present form. The opposition of the Democrats can be counted on to a man. They desire the Nichols law somewhat amended and extended. But added to this, it is discovered that a number of Republicans are not in favor of the measure as it stands. Local manufacturers in every part of the state have written in to their member of the house or senate protesting. "If you pass that bill it will cripple us. We cannot stand such an increased tax. It means that many millions of dollars of capital will be driven from the state, as many millions of dollars have already gone. Why should we be asked to pay tax on an authorized capital stock where perhaps its face value is far below par? By this, the poorer a corporation becomes the higher is the tax. It's a tax on poverty." The potency of this argument is being shown. Several Republicans who were outspoken in favor of the bill at the start are weakening.

A most determined opposition has been shown to the passage of the so-called anti-Christian Science bill introduced by Mr. DeMuth of Toledo at the instance of the Toledo Humane society. The bill in substance provides that parents must call in the aid of a regularly authorized physician where children under 16 years of age are ill. In the house the measure passed with little debate, but in the senate a flood of protest arose and the bill was bitterly denounced. Mr. Harding of Marion led the fight and provoked some merriment when he said: "As the son of a physician, I may be forgiven if I expose a professional secret. Nine times out of ten when a child is ill and a physician is called, no medicine is given, and," he added, with a twinkle in his eye, "the nine times are when the child generally recovers." After a debate lasting nearly an entire afternoon, the bill was finally referred to the committee on judiciary.

Devotees of tobacco may hear with some alarm the complaint of Senator Eckert. Outside of the usual and well-known dangers attending a too persistent use of the weed, the senator has discovered another which, it is claimed, scientific experience demonstrates. This is, that Paris green sprinkled on a growing tobacco plant permeates the leaf and remains with it during all the subsequent processes until it finally comes to the user in one way or another, and he, in turn, is gradually poisoned. The senator, in the hope of removing this harmful ingredient, has a bill which he will endeavor to have passed making it a crime to sprinkle Paris green on tobacco and a crime punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Mr. Guerin, the young member from Erie county with a special regard for the supreme court, has a bill which would extend the terms of the judges from six to twelve years and make the election of a new one come every two instead of one year, as at present. In defense of this, Mr. Guerin says such a law promising long terms in office would raise the standard of the men willing to take the place and make it so that the very highest legal talent in the state would desire to be elected to the bench. He would likewise favor advancing the salaries to $10,000 a year, but since the present legislature gave the judges a substantial increase, the uselessness of such a thing at this time is recognized. Neither will the bill to extend the terms to twelve years meet with such hearty indorsement as to make it a law.

Fishermen in every part of the state, but more particularly along the lake, will be interested in a bill now awaiting legislative action. The bill provides a closed season against the use of nets of any kind for fishing in Ohio waters from Dec. 15 to March 15. A closed season is made against the catching of bass from May 20 to Aug. 1. As a protection to smaller fish, the size of the meshes is all nets must be increased to two and three-quarter inches. Other stipulations are that all companies or individual fishermen who wish to handle the rod and line must pay a license fee of fifty cents a year, while an additional fee of 25 cents per ton will be charged for all fish caught. This money is to be used in the advancement of fish culture and propagation. GEO. U. MARVIN.

Later Returns Confirmed Victory Won by Anti-Film People, at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Feb. 20.—Complete returns from Tuesday's election, which were received yesterday, confirmed the first reports of election night as to the sweeping victory which was won by the people in the election of councils. The opposition to the ring controls common council by a majority so decisive that no attempt whatever can be made by the ring to control legislation in that body. Select council will be controlled by a majority of not more than one or two either way, and the determination of some legal questions which came to the surface yesterday may give it to the Democrats and Citizens.

When college boys, in order to have "fun," think it necessary to imitate desperadoes who bind, gag and otherwise illtreat their victim, they should not be spared the penalty. The reports of a recent case of hazing at Butchell college, if true, show that the students adopted forms of barbarity that would shame a "hold-up" man or an Indiana white cap. The same law that applies to other lawbreakers should be applied to college ruffians. There is a vast difference between good natured pranks, which injure no one, and hazing practices that endanger the life and limb of the victim. There is no excuse for the latter, and the college authorities who seek to impress this truth by strenuous measures will be warmly upheld in their course by the public.

As was expected, certain persons selling themselves Christian scientists are opposing the bill before the Ohio legislature which provides fine and imprisonment for parents or guardians who neglect or refuse to provide medical attendance for sick children. They argue that the law has no business interfering with the religious teachings or practices. Hasn't it? The very pertinent query is put forth whether, if religious fervor should direct mothers to sacrifice their children, as has been the case in northern India, the law should suffer them to do so. The state has an interest in its children and should protect them if their natural guardians refuse to do so.

The Democrats in the senate are now reported prepared to vote for the Nicaragua canal or none at all. Their old habit of obstruction is so strong that they cannot shake it off, to legislate for the good of the country. Party considerations are always first with them, and the party rule appears to be to oppose everything that Republicans favor. To make a party question out of a matter of such supreme importance is the height of absurdity and imprudence.

Brochrevinck, the Norwegian explorer, claims to have been 500 miles nearer the south pole than any other man, and still he was 800 miles from the goal he sought to reach. Moreover, the darkness was absolute, the temperature 84 degrees below zero and the wind blowing 100 miles an hour. What advantage to the world could accrue from human beings penetrating farther into such a desolate region it not readily apparent to the unsentimental mind.

Southern Democratic newspapers of prominence and influence are warning the little Americans of their party that if they propose to make the abandonment of the Philippines an issue in the next national campaign they might as well make up their minds to be licked. Hauling down the flag has never been a popular doctrine, neither has surrender to rebels in arms.

All achievements of prospectors in the Klondike pale into insignificance, compared with that of the East Liverpool reporter who discovered a 9-foot vein of pig iron. A man of such talents is certainly wasting them in the journalistic field. He is one of the brainy young men for whom C. M. Schwab is looking.

State Treasurer Cameron does not propose to rest under the imputation that the Democrats seek to cast upon his department and will demand an investigation. This is the manly and proper course. He has nothing to fear, and the Democrats who mistook him for a man who would scare easily are certain to learn their mistake.

It is often said that politeness pays, though the dividends do not always come in tangible shape. A western railroad conductor, however, has been left $1,000 by a wealthy man for being uniformly courteous to him during his journeys.

The Pittsburg man who resigned a $2,000 office to run for councils, a position popularly supposed to be unsalaried, and then got defeated is probably both sadder and madder.

The timely hint is thrown out for the benefit of New York's 400 that they should not act as if they had never seen a prince before or they may never see one again.

A lot of Spaniards appear to be spoiling for a fight, but profiting by experience they are not likely to carry hostilities away from home.

AT THE THEATER

A large and appreciative audience witnessed "A Capitol Comedy" at the opera house last evening. The play is of a very pleasing order, with enough of plot to satisfy, and amusing situations innumerable. Tim Murphy in the leading role, won instant and continuous favor. The main interest for the audience, however, centered in the appearance of Miss Jeanette Ashbaugh, formerly of this city, whose friends were out in force and could not do enough to show their delight at seeing her and their appreciation of her really meritorious acting. She was showered with bouquets and applause. Her husband, James Durkin, who had an important role in the play, proved himself an intelligent and capable actor, and made a decided hit. The rest of the cast was good.

The Keystone Dramatic company will appear at the Grand opera house all next week in a fine repertoire of plays. Monday night they will present "For Home and Honor" with all the special scenery. Popular prices.

PUSHED UP ABOUT A POINT,

Were Union Pacific and St. Paul, In Final Hour of Market,
Wednesday.

New York, Feb. 20.—The principal activity in Wednesday's stock market was concentrated in the final hour, when Union Pacific and St. Paul, after lying quiescent all day, were suddenly pushed up about a point over Tuesday night. At the same time there was an urgent demand developed for Tennessee Coal, the reason for which was not explained, but which carried the price 3/4 over Tuesday night. These movements, coming on top of desultory advances in a number of stocks not usually prominent, indicated a hardening tendency all around and disposed the shorts to cover. The earlier strong points meantime suffered from realizing, so that the closing was irregular but active. The speculative activity was confined to the high priced industrials and the stocks of small railroad systems up to that time. The movement in Sugar and Amalgamated Copper was very erratic, and after traversing a wide range they closed the day with net gains of only a fraction. The dealings in the United States Steel stocks were very large, and buying by brokers usually used by syndicate interests was on a large scale, but the speculative public refrained from following this initiative, which was supposed to be based upon the tentative proposition to convert the preferred stock into a 5 per cent bond. The movement in the stocks was very narrow. The Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville stocks and the Evansville and Terre Haute stocks made sensational advances on the belief that they are to be included in a coming consolidation. The United States Rubber stocks were moved upward on the basis of wet weather, which increased the demand for the company's goods. There were wide movements in other minor stocks, some showing new strength and others dropping back sharply after recent unexplained advances. The general market was inclined to be reactionary during the morning, the readings especially showing the effect of profit taking. The question of gold exports today was an open one all day, and the decision not to send gold was an influence in the late rally. Rates for money are unchanged, but the undertone is firm.

There is a continued good demand for bonds of various grades, but the movement of prices continued irregular, owing to occasional profit taking. The general tendency, however, was firm. Total sales, par value, $3,665,000.

POTTERY NEWS

Freight rates always have been, and will doubtless continue to be a momentous question for manufacturers to wrestle with. This is an important factor in the shipping of ware from this city, and it frequently occurs that when orders are received, shipping instructions are inclosed. Various routes are quoted, which in many instances will be different from those finally selected, if the matter was left with the manufacturer, although the latter invariably looks up the cheapest and shortest route. At a recent meeting of the manufacturers at Pittsburg this matter was considered, and a committee appointed at that time is still at work on the matter of rates.

Word has been received in this city of the sudden death of Alfred Meakin, one of the largest stockholders of the Higat, Victoria and Royal Albert potteries, located at Tunstall, Eng. Mr. Meakin had been in apparent good health, and his death resulted from inflammation of the brain, according to a verdict of a coroner's jury. Mr. Meakin was born Nov. 7, 1847, and was one of the most prominent potters of Staffordshire. He has several distant relatives in this city, some of whom he has not seen for probably 20 years.

The Menke Pottery company, of Trenton, which has been considering the advisability of locating in South Jersey, has selected Millville as the site for a new plant. The plant will cover a plot of ground embracing 12 acres, along the main line of the West Jersey & Seashore railroad. The establishment at the start will employ 300 persons.

Practically all the old stock at the Union has been sold, and it is thought that within the next ten days there will not be a piece of hollow ware in the ware rooms. Most all the ware made here since the plant has been in operation under the new management has been sold.

The "King Midas" toilet shape recently placed before the trade by the Dresden, has proved to be an excellent seller. Some large orders have been received for this shape, and as it is finished in several decorations, the buyer is easily pleased.

Jeff Greene, a biscuit kilnhand at the Laughlin, is working out his notice. He will assume the management of the saggar shop of the new addition to the plant, and it is expected the department will be put in operation within a short time.

Charles Bowers, who has been employed as a dipper at the old end, has been compelled to quit that department of work on account of the glaze injuring his hands. He has commenced work as a kilnman on the glaze end of the Buckeye.

The glaze warehouse girls of the Union, who have been idle for several days, resumed work this morning. It seems the kilns cannot be drawn fast enough for the crew, although almost all the ware turned out by this firm is being shipped.

The kilnmen on the glaze end of the Diamond resumed work this morning. The men had been unable to work on account of the railroad company failing to deliver a car in which was to be placed a lot of ware for shipment to New York.

All departments of the Dresden are running as full as is possible, and from indications the firm is enjoying an excellent trade. Recently the kiln capacity was increased, and still the company is being rushed with business.

Alfred McKinnon, a clay digger employed by the American Sewerpipe company, in the East End, is ill at his home in Calhoun addition. He is suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Miss Fay Herron and Miss McIlvaine, finishers at the East Liverpool, will go to Beaver Falls Friday night to attend a ball to be given by a prominent club at that city.

Architect Adolph Fritz, who drew the plans for the new Barberton pottery, was at that town yesterday attending a meeting of the stockholders.

Will Owen, a cup jiggerman at the East Liverpool is working out his notice. He will start in a similar position at Thompson's Monday.

George Lemon, a finisher at the Diamond, has been unable to work for some time on account of illness. He has resumed his bench.

John Downard, has taken a position as saggermaker at the D. E. McNicol. He commenced work this morning.

The Brunt is running unusually

Roy Risgen, a presser at the East Liverpool, is ill at his home on East Market street. He is suffering with rheumatism.

Only seven men are working in the biscuit crew at the Diamond. Additions to this crew will be made in the near future.

Jere Lanning and Joseph Bennett, glaze kilnmen at the Buckeye, are unable to work on account of illness.

James Erwin, a well known potter of Trenton, N. J., died Saturday night, after being ill a short time.

Mike O'Brien, a kilnhand at Harker, will take a position as bench boss at the Laughlin next Monday.

Clyde Williams, an apprentice kilnman at Laughlin No. 1, has been advanced to a journeyman.

W. H. Deldrick, of the Severs company, is spending several days at Cleveland on business.

W. C. Smith, a kilnhand at Laughlin No. 2, is unable to work on account of illness.

SOME NEWS IN BRIEF.

Mrs. Robert Coons, aged 57, while demented, committed suicide at Pataskala, O., by hanging herself with a rope made of muslin.

In a rear-end collision on the West Penn railroad, near Blairsville, Pa., Engineer Joseph Thompson, of Allegheny; Conductor H. F. Felt, of Pittsburg, and brakeman C. H. Minum, of Harris, were badly but not fatally hurt. An engine was badly damaged and 12 cars were destroyed. At Ebensburg, Pa., Judge Francis J. O'Connor granted 132 retail liquor licenses out of 335 applications filed. The remaining 201 will be passed upon later.

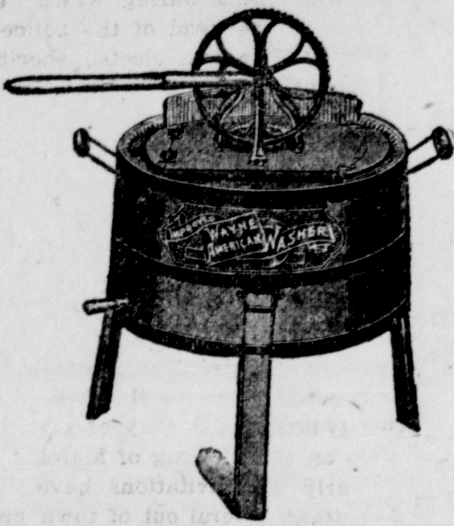

James Johnston, colored, who is wanted for the alleged murder of John Curtis, near Uniontown, Pa., Saturday night, was arrested at Morgantown, W. Va.

The Police Captain.

The police captain in New York is the czar of his precinct, and public virtue or vice prevails in his district in proportion as he is vigilant or lax in the enforcement of law. A police captain very quickly acquires a reputation among the criminal element in the city. If he is known to be easy going or crooked or a condoner of evil, if his own private life, represented by his talk, by his lax conduct off duty, shows him to be a man without high principle, the criminal element will flock to his precinct. On the other hand, the people of the rogues' gallery will naturally avoid the precinct of a vigilant and high minded police captain in the same way as the rats will scamper into their dark holes when a flood of sunlight is thrown in on them.

The proper estimate has not been placed, in my judgment, on the position and office of the precinct commanders. None but the best equipped men morally and otherwise should be chosen for this responsible position. Their salary should be made so large as to place them above temptation, and a strict account of their stewardship should be demanded.—Rev. A. P. Doyle in Outlook.

HUMAN HEAD HUNTERS.

The Savages of Polynesia Still Fly This Horrible Trade.

In the scarce known islands of the Pacific sea—New Guinea, Borneo, Ceram, Gilolo and others too numerous to mention—man still exists in the primeval state, and that most horrible of practices, head hunting, is still indulged in in spite of all efforts of various governments and missions as well as philanthropic societies who have come in contact with the people.

Just as the scalp lock on the belt of the young buck Indian was a token of manhood, so the gory head impaled on a tall pole over the hut of the would be young warrior, Papuan or Dayak, proclaims to all the prowess of the youth, henceforth a man and eligible for the council and the wooing of the maidens. It is immaterial how the trophy be obtained, whether by ambush or in fair battle. Generally it is the former. The candidate for martial honors simply waits his chance by night in some neighboring village as craftily and patiently as a leopard on the prowl, the kris or a poisoned arrow does the work swiftly and silently, and the severed head has ample time to cool before the deed is discovered and calls for retribution.

Thus an incessant vendetta and carnage go on, and only by living in inaccessible forests and strongly stockaded places is it possible at all for the tribes to save themselves from annihilation. Of the vast island continent of New Guinea the western or Dutch part is the worst looked after, and it often happens that numerous raiding parties in their great war canoes come swooping down the coast before the northwest monsoon and carry death and desolation into the comparatively quiet British portion around the mighty Fly river, opposite Torres strait. By the time the news is carried to Thursday island and the gunboat starts away in pursuit it is generally too late, and the marauders have vanished.

The writer was present once at the capture of a war party, and forty-eight heads were taken from the canoes. Hanging and deportation to penal servitude seem to be but a slight deterrent, for the terror recurs almost as regularly as a plague of locusts. These Papuans are a hardy, warlike people and expert bowmen, and they rely on their skill with this potent weapon solely, using their clubs for the dispatch of wounded foes.

The Dayaks of Borneo and their neighbors, on the other hand, are in favor of the "sumpitan" or blowpipe, shooting little diminutive but very cunningly poisoned arrows. The "sumpitan" has often a spear head attached to the outer end, like a bayonet on a musket. For close fighting they rely on the dreaded "parang," a heavy, hollow ground broadsword about two feet long, with the handle often carved of ivory and ornamented with gold and pearls, the wooden scabbard covered with human skin and hair.

They count him a poor warrior who cannot sever a head clean with one blow delivered backhanded. Even in a mountainous part of the Malay peninsula, north of Malacca, in the Dindings and Hegri Sembilan, there is to this day a remnant tribe of head hunters called the Sa-Ki.

Who Are to Attend Amalgamated Association Convention at Wheeling April 22.

Wellsville lodge No. 28, Amalgamated association, and the Lisbon lodge, at meetings held recently, nominated delegates to represent their lodges at Wheeling April 22, when one of the most important conventions in the history of the association will be held.

The delegates will be elected Saturday night, March 1. It will be necessary for the great majority of the delegates from the Pittsburgh belt to pass through this city when en route to Wheeling and the Wellsville lodge is making preparations to have the whole contingent stop over for a few hours when on their return trip home. An elegant banquet will be served the visitors and many other enjoyable features for their entertainment are being arranged.

DEBT AND DAMAGE

Claimed By Mrs. Orr in a Suit Against Edwin K. Anderson.

Mrs. Margaret Orr has entered suit in 'Squire MacKenzie's court against Edwin K. Anderson for the sum of $299.90 with interest from August, 1901. Mrs. Orr claims that the defendant owes for that amount for some stone which he purchased from her and for damages incurred to her yard and house by the removing of the stone from her quarry, which is located at the rear of her home, East End.

The case will likely be tried this evening before a jury. There are 11 witnesses, and it is said that attorneys have been employed by both parties.

And Wagon And Occupants Came Near Going Over a Steep Bank.

As George A. Arner and Thomas Bambrick were driving to Congo in a two-horse delivery wagon, when near Newell the rear wheels started to slide toward the edge of the embankment. They were only prevented from going over by the quick action of Mr. Arner, who gave the horses several smart cuts with a whip, causing them to bound forward, jerking the wagon and its occupants from the perilous position.

Had the wagon slipped a foot farther Messrs. Arner and Bambrick would undoubtedly have been precipitated to the rocks, a distance of 50 feet, and met a horrible death.

FOR NEW WEST POINT

Present Buildings Antiquated and Unit For the Needs of the Military School - Barracks Crowded and Lack Modern Conveniences.

The United States Military academy at West Point is in a dilapidated condition, and extensive improvements are necessary to put it in a fit condition for the purposes for which it is intended. Congress will be asked to appropriate $10,000,000 at the present session for the rebuilding of a large portion of the institution.

Members of the committees on military affairs of both the house of representatives and the senate made a thorough inspection of the academy a few days ago, and although no formal action was taken, it was conceded by all the congressmen that the extensive improvements asked for by the war department were greatly needed and that they should be made.

Last fall the report of the board of visitors to West Point mercilessly exposed the discomforts and inconveniences of life at the academy. It said that the cadet who entered the West Point barracks the first day the institution opened its doors 100 years ago found himself surrounded by almost as many comforts and conveniences as the cadet who entered last June.

"The barracks," the report stated, "are little better equipped than the barracks at the average county poor house, and the ventilation is in accordance with the hygienic notions of a century ago and is simply execrable."

CORNER TOWER OF OLD BARRACKS.

There is not a drop of water except what is carried in buckets and pitchers by the cadets, and there is not a sink or bathroom.

By an act of congress March 10, 1802, fixing the military peace establishment, forty cadets were attached to the artillery and ten to the corps of engineers.

and that corps was constituted a military academy and stationed at West Point, the senior officer of engineers present being the superintendent thereof. This was the beginning of the present Military academy.

Since that time, 100 years ago, nearly all the improvements have been on the patchwork plan. There is but one building at the post constructed by the government that is in harmony with the present day and generation. All the others are old, uncomfortable and inadequate to meet present conditions. Few are equipped with any of the conveniences to be found in the average public school building in country districts.

The improvements called for in the specifications of the war department are for a new additional cadet barracks and the alteration of the present barracks, which have room for only 320 cadets if properly housed, as they should be, two in a room. At present over forty cadets are compelled to sleep three in a room. The first building to be enlarged would be the barracks by completing the quadrangle and adding eight divisions. These divisions would accommodate thirty-two cadets each, so that the enlarged building would accommodate 640 cadets properly. The number now on the rolls is 459.

The improvements contemplated include also the building of a new mess hall for bachelor officers, thus allowing the present building to be used exclusively by cadets. The accommodations at present are a constant source of annoyance through overcrowding.

In order to provide proper facilities for the riding school a new hall 300 feet long and 100 feet wide must be provided. The present building is but 75 by 65 feet. This building may be converted into stables.

These are but a fraction of the improvements contemplated, but serve to indicate the pressing need for improvements required for this historic institution, to the end that in the near future the Military academy, by reason of its splendid equipment as well as its great name, may be an inspiration and a source of pride to the people of the United States and at the same time attract the attention of the world.

AN ANECDOTE OF WHITMAN.

How the Poet Was Trying to Cheer Up a Friendless Boy.

One day I was stopped on Washington street, says J. T. Trowbridge in The Atlantic, by a friend who made this startling announcement: "Walt Whitman is in town. I have just seen him!" When I asked where, he replied: "At the stereotype foundry, just around the corner. Come along. I'll take you to him." The author of "Leaves of Grass" had loomed so large in my imagination as to seem almost superhuman, and I was filled with some such feeling of wonder and astonishment as if I had been invited to meet Socrates or King Solomon.

We found a large, gray haired and gray bearded, plainly dressed man, reading proof sheets at a desk in a little dingy office, with a lank, unwholesome looking lad at his elbow listlessly watching him. The man was Whitman, and the proofs were those of his new edition. There was a scarcity of chairs, and Whitman, rising to receive us, offered me his, but we all remained standing except the sickly looking lad, who kept his seat until Whitman turned to him and said: "You'd better go now. I'll see you this evening." After he had gone out Whitman explained: "He is a friendless boy I found at my boarding place. I am trying to cheer him up and strengthen him with my magnetism," a practical but curiously prosaic illustration of these powerful lines in the early poems:

To any one dying thither I speed and twist the knob of the door.

I seize the descending man; I raise him with resistless will.

Keep Busy.

An unhappy life is an idle one. Those who are happiest are the most earnest workers. It is folly to say that we can find no labor. Life itself is a stupendous task. It is cowardly, however, to shirk labor by feigning not to see it. Each mortal, if he does his duty, will have a busy life.

PRESIDENT CONDEMNS SCHLEY.

His "Reprehensible" Conduct
Should Have Prevented His Being Second In Charge
of Fleet.

SAMPSON'S PLANS WERE FOLLOWED IN THE BATTLE.

Neither Gave Orders That Were Followed In Battle—Schley Only Directed the Brooklyn—The Famous "Loop" Condemned—Otherwise, Schley Did Admirably In Battle. President McKinley's Decision That Sampson Technically Was In Command Approved.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The decision of President Roosevelt to the appeal of Admiral Schley is dated Washington, Feb. 18, and said in part:

It appears that the court of inquiry was unanimous in its findings of fact and unanimous in its expressions of opinion on most of its findings of fact. No appeal is made to me from the verdict of the court on these points where it was unanimous. I have, however, gone carefully over the evidence on these points also. I am satisfied that on the whole the court did substantial justice.

Should Have Condemned Blockade.

It should have specifically condemned the failure to enforce an efficient night blockade at Santiago while Admiral Schley was in command. On the other hand, I feel that there is a reasonable doubt whether he did not move his squadron with sufficient expedition from port to port. The court is a unit in condemning Admiral Schley's action on the point where it seems to me he most gravely erred; his "retrograde movement" when he abandoned the blockade, and his disobedience of orders and misstatement of facts in relation thereto. It should be remembered, however, that the majority of these actions which the court censures occurred five weeks or more before the fight itself; and it certainly seems that if Schley's actions were censurable he should not have been left as second in command under Admiral Sampson. His offenses were in effect condoned when he was not called to account for them. Admiral Sampson, after the fight, in an official letter to the department, alluded for the first time to Admiral Schley's "reprehensible conduct" six weeks previously. If Admiral Schley was guilty of reprehensible conduct of a kind which called for such notice from Admiral Sampson, then Admiral Sampson ought not to have left him as senior officer of the blockading squadron on the 3d of July, when he (Sampson) steamed away on his proper errand of communication with General Shafter.

As to Which Was in Command.

The point raised in the appeal is between Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley, as to which was in command, and as to which was entitled to the credit, if either of them was really entitled to any unusual and pre-eminent credit by any special exhibition of genius, skill and courage. The court could have considered both of these questions, but as a matter of fact it unanimously excluded evidence offered upon them, and through its president announced its refusal to hear Admiral Sampson's side at all; and in view of such exclusion the majority of the court acted with entire propriety in not expressing any opinion on these points. The matter has, however, been raised by the president of the court.

Appeal From McKinley's Decision.

Five-sixths of the appeal is devoted to this question of command and credit; that is, to matter which the court of inquiry did not consider. It is in effect an appeal from the action of President McKinley three years ago, when he sent in the recommendations for promotion for the various officers connected with the Santiago squadron, basing these recommendations upon his estimate of the credit to which the officers were respectively entitled. What I have to decide, therefore, is whether or not President McKinley did injustice in the matter. This necessarily involves a comparison of the actions of the different commanders engaged. The exhaustive official reports of the action leave little to be brought out anew; but as the question of Admiral Sampson's right to be considered in chief command, which was determined in his favor by President McKinley, and later by the court of claims, has never hitherto been officially raised, I deemed it best to secure statements of the commanders of the five ships (other than the Brooklyn and New York, the flagships of the two admirals) which were actively engaged in the fight. Admiral Philip is dead. I quote extract from his magazine articles on the fight, written immediately after it occurred; closing with an extract from his letter to the Secretary of the Navy of February 27, 1899.

Here follows the extract from Philip's article, then statements from the different then captains and also Wainwright.

Survey of Shots' Effects.

The survey of the damages of the four Spanish war vessels shows that in addition to several score hits by the six-pounder and one-pounder guns of the American fleet, they were struck 43 times by the larger guns of four inches calibre and over. The Colon, which came out inside the others and did comparatively little fighting, received but three of these hits. The other three ships, which bore the brunt of the action, received 40 among them. Of these 40, 11, according to the report of the board which examined into them, were by four-inch guns, 10 by five-inch guns, four by either four or five-inch (the board could not determine which), while one was by either a five or six-inch, 12 were by eight-inch and two by 12-inch guns. All of our big ships except the Texas had eight-inch guns. Only the Texas and Iowa had 12-inch guns. The Oregon and Indiana had 13-inch guns, and they and the Texas had six-inch guns. The only four-inch guns were on the Iowa; the only five-inch guns on the Brooklyn.

Where Shots Came From.

Therefore on the three Spanish ships which did the bulk of the fighting, out of the 40 large calibre shots that struck them 11 certainly came from the Iowa, 10 certainly came from the Brooklyn, four from either the Iowa or the Brooklyn, and two from either the Iowa or the Texas. Of the three which struck the Colon two were five-inch and must have come from the Brooklyn; one was either a five-inch or a six-inch. It must be remembered that the four and five-inch guns were the only quick firers above six-pounders in our fleet, and that they were not only much more rapidly but much more surely handled than were the larger and slower firing guns. The damage and loss of the American vessels were trivial. The only loss suffered was aboard the Brooklyn, where one man was killed and one wounded. In damage, the cost of repairs shows that the Iowa suffered most and the Oregon least.

Act of Gloucester Most Striking.

The American ships engaged possessed a more than twofold material superiority over the Spanish ships, and the difference in the handling of their guns and their engines was even greater. We have just cause to be proud of the vigilance and instant readiness our ships displayed, and the workmanlike efficiency with which they were handled. The most striking act was that of the Gloucester, a converted yacht, which her commander, Wainwright, pushed into the fight through a hail of projectiles, any one of which would have sunk her, in order that he might do his part in destroying the two torpedo boats, each possessing far more than his own offensive power.

How the Battle Was Fought.

From the statements of the captains above, from the official reports, and from the testimony before the court of inquiry, the fight can be plotted with absolute certainty in its important outlines, though there is conflict as to minor points. When the four Spanish cruisers came out of the harbor the New York had left her position in the blockading line 40 or 45 minutes before. She had hoisted the signal "Disregard the movements of the commander-in-chief," but had not hoisted the signal to the second in command to take charge, which, as appears by the signal book, was sometimes, but not always, used when the command was transferred. As soon as the engagement began the New York turned and steamed back, hoisting a signal to close in, which, however, none of the squadron saw. She was in plain sight, and not very much farther from the easternmost blockading ships than the latter were from the Brooklyn, which was the westernmost of the line.

According to Sampson's Plan.

As soon as the Spanish ships appeared the five big American blockaders started toward them in accordance with the standing orders of Admiral Sampson. After this first move each acted purely on his own initiative. For some minutes the Spanish and American vessels steadily approached one another, and the fighting was at its hottest. Then the already damaged Spanish ships turned to the westward, while at the same time the westernmost American vessel, the Brooklyn, which was nearest the Spanish line, turned to the eastward, making a loop or three-quarter circle, at the end of which she again headed westward, farther off from and farther behind the Spanish vessels than before the loop had begun, but still ahead of any of the American vessels, although farther outside. The Texas, the next ship to the Brooklyn, either was or conceived herself to be put in such jeopardy by the Brooklyn's turn toward her that she backed her engines, coming almost or quite to a standstill; so that both the Oregon and the Iowa, which were originally to the eastward of her, passed her, and it was some time after she again started before she regained her former position relative to the Spanish vessels. The Spanish vessels had straightened out in column for the west, the Colon going inside of the others and gradually forging ahead of them, without suffering much damage. The two torpedo boats, which had followed them out of the harbor, were now destroyed by the fire of the rear-most of the American big vessels and of the Gloucester, which headed straight in for them, paying no more heed to their quick-fire guns than to the heavy artillery of the forts, to which she was also exposed.

Indiana Gradually Dropped Behind.

In the running fight which followed, until the Teresa, Oquendo and Viscaya were destroyed, the Indiana gradually dropped behind, although she continued to fire until the last of the three vessels went ashore. The Brooklyn was ahead of any of the other American vessels on a course outside theirs; she was nearly broadside on to the Spaniards. The Oregon, Iowa and Texas were all close together and actively engaged throughout this running fight. The Brooklyn and Oregon, followed at some distance by the Texas, then continued in chase of the Colon, which went nearly 30 miles farther before she also went ashore. During this chase of the Colon there was practically no fighting.

These are the facts as set forth above in the statements of the captains, and elsewhere in their official reports and testimony. They leave no room for doubt on any important point.

The question of command is in this case nominal and technical. Admiral Sampson's ship, the New York, was seen at the outset of the fight from all the other ships except the Brooklyn. Four of these five ship captains have testified that they regarded him as present and in command. He signaled "Close in" to the fleet as soon as the first Spanish ship appeared, but his signal was not seen by any American vessel. He was actually under fire from the forts, and himself fired a couple of shots, at the close of the action with the torpedo boats, in addition to signaling the Indiana just at the close of the action. But during the action not a single order from him was received by any of the ships that were actively engaged.

Schley Carried Out Sampson's Plan.

Admiral Schley at the outset of the action hoisted the two signals of "Clear ship" and "Close in," which was simply carrying out the standing orders of Admiral Sampson as to what should be done if the enemy's ships attempted to break out of the harbor. Until after the close of the first portion of the fight at the mouth of the harbor, and until after he had made his loop and the Spanish ships were fleeing to the westward, not another American ship noticed a signal from him. When the western pursuit had begun the Oregon, and the Oregon only, noticed and repeated one of his signals of command. The captain of the Oregon then regarded him as in command, but did not in any shape or way execute any movement or any action of any kind whatsoever in accordance with any order from him.

In short, the question as to which of the two men, Admiral Sampson or Admiral Schley, was at the time in command, is of merely nominal character. Technically Sampson commanded the fleet, and Schley, as usual, the western division. The actual fact, the important fact, is that after the battle was joined not a helm was shifted, not a gun was fired, not a pound of steam was put on in the engine room aboard any ship actively engaged, in obedience to the order of either Sampson or Schley, save on their own two vessels. It was a captain's fight.

Neither in Actual Command.

Therefore the credit to which each of the two is entitled rests on matters apart from the claim of nominal command over the squadron; for so far as the actual fight was concerned neither one nor the other in fact exercised any command. Sampson was hardly more than technically in the fight. His real claim for credit rests upon his work as commander-in-chief; upon the excellence of the blockade; upon the preparedness of the squadron; upon the arrangement of the ships head-on in a semicircle around the harbor; and the standing orders in accordance with which they instantly moved to the attack of the Spaniards when the latter appeared. For all these things the credit is his. Admiral Schley is rightly entitled

AN OPPORTUNITY

Many people would like to honor the memory of departed loved ones with a handsome monument, but the high prices demanded by the local monument dealers prevent them.

We sell and deliver fine monuments or headstones at much lower prices than similar ones can be obtained elsewhere. Most of your local monument dealers work by expensive hand methods, while our work is done by the most improved labor saving machinery. Machine work not only lessens the cost of the monument, but insures better results as the moldings, letters, etc., are cut much deeper and smoother than by hand and therefore show plainer.

The stone we use is the very best—will not rust, discolor or become streaked as most granites do.

We sell to monument dealers at wholesale and also sell direct to the individual buyer, delivering complete in the cemetery.

Our handsome booklet with designs explains all. It's free if you mention this paper.

PITTSBURG, PA.

—as is Captain Cook—to the credit of what the Brooklyn did in the fight. On the whole she did well, but I agree with the unanimous finding of the three admirals who composed the court of inquiry as to the "loop." It seriously marred the Brooklyn's otherwise excellent record, being in fact the one grave mistake made by any American ship that day. Had the Brooklyn turned to the westward, that is, in the same direction that the Spanish ships were going, instead of in the contrary direction, she would undoubtedly have been in more "dangerous proximity" to them. But it would have been more dangerous for them as well as for her. This kind of danger must not be too nicely weighed by those whose trade it is to dare greatly for the honor of the flag.

Wainwright in More Danger.

Moreover, the danger was certainly not as great as that which, in the self-same movement, menaced Wainwright's fragile craft as he drove forward against the foe. It was not, in my judgment, as great as the danger to which the Texas was exposed by the turn as actually made. It certainly caused both the Brooklyn and the Texas materially to lose position compared to the fleeing Spanish vessels. But after the loop had once been taken Admiral Schley handled the Brooklyn manfully and well. She and the Oregon were thenceforth the headmost of the American vessels—though the Iowa certainly, and seemingly the Texas also, did as much in hammering to a standstill the Viscaya, Oquendo and Teresa, while the Indiana did all her eastward position and crippled machinery permitted. In the chase of the Colon the Brooklyn and Oregon share the credit between them.

Under such circumstances it seems to me that the recommendations of President McKinley were eminently proper, and that so far as Admirals Sampson and Schley were concerned it would have been unjust for him to have made other recommendations. Personally I feel that in view of Captain Clark's long voyage in the Oregon and the condition in which he brought her to the scene of service, as well as the way in which he actually managed her before and during the fight, it would have been well to have given him the same advancement that was given Wainwright.

Sampson Deserved More Promotion. But, waiving this, it is evident that Wainwright was entitled to receive more than any of the other commanders, and that it was just to Admiral Sampson that he should receive a greater advance in numbers than Admiral Schley—there was nothing done in the battle that warranted any unusual reward for either. In short, as regards Admirals Sampson and Schley, I find that President McKinley did substantial justice, and that there would be no warrant for reversing his action.

Both Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley are now on the retired list. In concluding their report the members of the court of inquiry, Admirals Dewey, Benham and Ramsay, unite in stating that they recommend that no further action be had in the matter. With this recommendation I most heartily concur. There is no excuse whatever from either side for any further agitation of this unhappy controversy. To keep it alive would merely do damage to the navy and to the country.

You Will Get What You Want

IT IS OUR PRICES, OUR METHODS OF DEALING, AND THE HAVING WHAT YOU WANT THAT MAKES OUR BUSINESS SUCCESSFUL. THESE POINTS WE HAVE IN MIND IN OFFERING THE SALE OF THE PROPERTIES LISTED HERE.

$1,250—New 6 room slate roofed house with front portico, water, gas and cellar and sold lot 30x100. Situated with Jan. in 8 minutes walk of the 24th. Diamond; 7 minutes walk 1902. of 1/2 dozen factories and within 1/2 square of paved streets.

Call any time, we'll show it to you.

$1,325—New 4 room house, well built. Slate roof, good cellar, lot 30x100. Situated in central East End, 1 short square from the street car line.

Inquire of us for it, it will pay you.

$1,575—Four room slate roof house, with cellar, lot 40x100. Lot fronts on two streets; nice place to live; convenient and not far from center of the city.

It pays you to talk Real Estate with us.

$4,500—Won't attempt to describe its advantages and conveniences, it has them all; its rooms number six; its location is on a paved street within 5 minutes walk of the Diamond.

We want to show it to you.

$2,300—Double house; 5 rooms on each side; rents for $25 per month; lot 40x110. Buy it, live in one side; the rent of the other side will help you pay for it.

A home and an investment.

VACANT LOTS—We have them everywhere, from the Pennsylvania line to the mouth of Yellow Creek; from the river to Calcutta; at prices commensurate with their location, size and conveniences. It matters not what locality, street, addition or allotment; you had better see what we have; get our prices and terms.

OTHER PROPERTIES—We have scores of them at any price, on any street, in any locality. Come in and see us about them; ordinary prudence and business caution should compel you to do this for we can give you price and values of properties in all parts of the city. We know of a lot of misguided folks who ignored the real estate dealer and consequently paid more for their properties than they were listed at in our office. Lots more are doing it every day. WHY CAN WE GIVE YOU A BETTER PRICE? Because we must, and because of our experience and knowledge of value of real estate.

TEST US—If we don't measure up, don't deal with us. There will be no hard feeling on our part. All we ask is to be allowed to consider your wants, quote our prices and show you our properties.

Will you not look at it?

BROKEN GLASS

CANNOT BE THROWN INTO THE STREETS AND ALLEYS.

Complaints to Mayor Davidson Has Aroused Him to Vigorous Action.

Complaints in great number have been coming to Mayor Davidson recently as the result of the actions of unknown persons who have been making a practice of drinking beer and carousing in the vicinity of the Burford pottery. These carousals usually take place on Saturday nights, and though the fellows who take part in them do not make any unnecessary noise, they usually break the bottles which they drain and throw the pieces in the nearby alleys.

It is this feature of the rowdism that is causing the complaints to the mayor. The broken glass thrown in the alleys has been the cause in several instances of puncturing cushioned tires and cutting the solid rubber tires.

Another danger that arises from the glass is that of injuring the feet of horses. Yesterday afternoon a local liveryman called at the mayor's office and stated that one of his horses had been badly hurt by stepping upon a broken beer bottle. The liveryman also stated that once before while driving he had come upon a quantity of broken glass in an alley near the Burford pottery with the result that the tire on his buggy was almost ruined.

There is an ordinance forbidding the throwing of glass in the streets and alleys and the mayor says that anyone found guilty of violating the ordinance will be prosecuted. The officers propose keeping an eye on the young men who have been breaking beer bottles in the highways and prosecutions are likely to result.

SCORED LOCAL

passed authorizing the secretary to perform the work.

Carpenters' and Joiners' union No. 328, one of the largest organizations in the city, presented a resolution embodying some entirely new features.

The whereases show that a great many of the provisions of franchises granted to corporations doing business in this city have not been complied with. The document is very strong in this respect. The street railway company has neglected to paint its poles; good materials have not been used in the construction of either tracks or rolling stock, especially has it been negligent in the matter of extending its lines into the suburbs; the telephone companies have not painted their poles, nor have they complied with many other requirements called for in the franchises; the electric light company has not furnished the service it should and charges exorbitant prices for lighting. The lack of activity in the market house project also comes in for its share of censure, and the whole is topped with a resolution pledging the support of all unionists to candidates who will promise to use their vote and influence toward bringing about remedies for the existing evils. The resolution was adopted and a copy will be mailed to every union in the city.

A committee consisting of Willis Wells and Messrs. Stevenson and McConnell was appointed to visit, every merchant in the city who handles non-union bread. They are instructed to inform the dealers that Trades Council and the working people generally do not approve of the product and request them to discontinue its sale.

A resolution of respect to the memory of E. D. Griffith, a late member of the street railway men's union, and who represented that organization in Trades Council, was ordered prepared. The committee is G. M. B. Beatty, William Cope and Thomas Collins.

RICE DIDN'T SIGN 1900 WILL,

To Jones' Knowledge, So He Testified—Legacies Designed to Remove Opportunities.

New York, Feb. 20.—Charles F. Jones was the star witness in the Patrick trial again yesterday. There was a mass of evidence concerning Patrick's alleged drawing of Jones into a conspiracy to utter a forged will, by which Patrick was to be the principal beneficiary; of Jones' fear of discovery; of Patrick's alleged assurance that the tracks of the two would be well covered; of the doctoring of Mr. Rice's letterbook and many other details.

It was late in the afternoon when Jones touched on what the state seemed to think very important evidence. It was when Jones was shown the will of 1900—the so-called Patrick will. He had previously testified that Morris Meyer and David L. Short had been introduced into the Rice house to make out certain papers. Short acting as notary for Mr. Rice. Jones now swore that Patrick told him Meyer had typewritten this will and that when he (Jones) first saw it the will was unsigned. Then he swore that the only law business Patrick ever did for Rice was to pass on the correctness of some document of Mr. Rice's, and this was at Jones' request. He swore that to his knowledge Mr. Rice had never signed the 1900 will, and was certain he had not signed it June 30, 1900. He had seen this will in Patrick's office two weeks before Mr. Rice died and it was unsigned then. Mr. Rice died Sept. 23, 1900.

On the point of Patrick's alleged preparation to remove any obstacles to the probate of the will Jones said that Patrick explained that the legacies under the will were designed to remove the possibilities of such opposition and that Patrick had gone over each paragraph of it with the witness.

HINTS NATURE GIVES

SYMPTOMS THAT SHOULD WARN MEN OF COMING SICKNESS.

The Significance of Sneezing, Yawning and Recurring Winter Colds. The Meaning of Blue Hands—Apothecary's Warning Signals.

Nature scarce ever strikes without warning. In so far as disease is concerned it gives clear signs of what is impending days, weeks, months and even years before the attack. If people looked for these signs and took warning from them, they would escape much serious illness and live many years longer than they do. It is indeed remarkable how careless we are in this respect. A man who will anxiously scan the sky for signs of coming rain lest his top hat may get spoiled will never dream of examining his eyes, nose or finger nails for signs of coming illness.

The sneeze, for instance, is very significant. It is always a sign that something is injuring the air passages anywhere from the nose down to the lungs. Should it be only a case of snuff or pepper, of course the sneeze is of no consequence. But often it is an indication of congestion. There is inflammation somewhere, with too much blood, and the object of the sneeze is to give relief by getting rid of some of the fluid. This sneeze is a warning that every prudent person should attend to. It is at least the forerunner of a cold. But it may indicate an approaching attack of bronchitis or pneumonia. When there is much sneezing, accompanied by something like a small shower of rain, the victim will do well to take a warm footbath, go to bed and adopt the other usual remedies to cure a cold.

The winter cold itself is a grave warning. When it recurs two or three times every winter, it is sure to be followed in the end by chronic bronchitis. Once this comes on it is practically incurable.

Men are started on their lives much as a shell from a cannon—with a certain fixed quantity of energy. If disease or accident does not carry them off, they will die some time of what we call old age—in other words, when the energy with which they started is spent. Some have energy enough to carry them over the full century; others have only sufficient to keep them going for ninety, eighty, seventy, sixty or fewer years. Now, early baldness is a sure sign, with some exceptions, that the energy is likely to fall sooner than in the average man. But all kinds of baldness have not this significance. Sometimes the loss of hair arises from scalp disease caused probably by microbes. The warning baldness is that kind which commences about the temples and on the crown of the head and gradually eats its way over the scalp until only a circular fringe of hair is left.

Blue nails, or blue hands, betoken weak or obstructed circulation. They are a warning against overexertion of any kind. The obstruction may occur from disorder of several organs in the body. But most commonly the blueness indicates that the heart is not up to the mark.

Yawning is a somewhat similar warning. It is a sign that the steam has run down and that it is time to go to bed or perhaps to go into the open air. When you sit in a close room, the lungs do not receive sufficient of the vital gas, oxygen. The yawn is then a desperate effort of the lungs to properly aerate the blood, and it warns you to open the windows or to leave the room. When you are out of bed too long or when you have done an unusually hard day's work, the waste products of your body are present in excessive quantity. Then the yawn is a warning to you to lie down and rest.

Most people have a great horror of getting a "stroke" or fit of apoplexy. It is not by any means as unpleasant as the toothache, but the suddenness of it is what appalls. There is really no suddenness about it, however. No disease gives such early warning. A "stroke" is a very simple occurrence and not at all horrible. It results from two or three causes, but the most common one is this: A little artery in the brain wears out and lets some blood escape, which clots, presses on the brain and paralyzes whatever part of the body is governed by the piece of brain pressed upon. Now this artery wears out only in common with other arteries of the body. In some people they all become what is called arteriosclerotic, or hard and brittle. At the same time they become tortuous or twisted. We can see these hard and tortuous arteries on the temples, and then we know it is not safe to do anything which will congest the brain, lest the one little artery there, which is especially liable to give way, shall let the blood escape. Likewise warning is often given by the tiny arteries of the eye. They break and let out little traces of blood, which can easily be seen, but a cold or sleepless night may do the same. When these signs occur—and they occur months and years before the stroke—do not get excited or angry, no matter how great the provocation, do not rush to catch an omnibus or in any way overexert yourself, and do not dine too heartily. By taking the warnings given by nature you will insure yourself against this pleasantest way of leaving the world and be sure of dying of cholera or smallpox or some other respectable disease.—London Mail.

Opportunities He Had Neglected.
"Were you surprised when I proposed?" he asked.

"Well," she replied thoughtfully, "I was not so surprised that you proposed when you did as I was that you did not propose on some previous occasions."—Chicago Post.

TEDDY, JR., IMPROVED.

Dr. Rixey to Stay With Him Until Return to Washington.

Groton, Mass., Feb. 20.—Young Theodore Roosevelt continued to improve yesterday and it was hoped that he might be able to sit up today, although this will, of course, depend entirely upon conditions existing at that time.

Owing to the blustering weather Mrs. Roosevelt and Alice kept indoors all day yesterday and were in close attendance upon the sick boy.

Mrs. Robinson, the president's sister, made a flying visit to Groton yesterday, returning to her home on the evening train.

Dr. Rixey last night was expected here from Washington today and will remain until such time as Teddy is well enough to return to Washington.

No Thanks Due.
A minister went from Kansas City down into the country to preach. Before going into the pulpit he asked if any one interrupted with "amens" and other ejaculations, as he could not stand such interjections. He was told of one old woman who always made herself heard at all good points. She was asked on this occasion to desist, and she obliged for once. At the end of the sermon the minister met her and warmly thanked her for holding her tongue.

"No need to thank me, no need to thank me!" she exclaimed. "You said nothing whatever to make me shout!"—Kansas City Independent.

Saved the Lamp.

An amusing scene occurred at a New York dock the other night. A Scotch engineer, who wished to go ashore, ordered a boy to show him the way with a lantern. As he was crossing the narrow plank that served as a gangway the boy slipped and fell into the water. The instinct of the true Scot instantly showed itself. "Hold on to the lamp, boy," the engineer shouted, leaning over toward the water. "Do you hear? If it's lost, there's a dollar gone for your wages."

After some time the boy was rescued half drowned, but clinging to the lamp. As some compensation for his trouble he was forgiven for losing the bottom of it.

Ark Admission.

"Yes," said the Sunday school teacher, "Noah had two of every animal, bird and creeping thing in the ark."
